sociates who died with him.

These developments were announced, according to the Budapest radio, in a speech delivered in the old cathedral city of Eger by Matyas Rakosi, First Secretary of the Hungarian Workers (Communist) party. It was at his order that the executions and imprisonments took place. The rehabilitation of the purge victims was the not unexpected result of the recent condemnation of Stalin by Nikita S. Khrushchev, Soviet Communist party leader.

The clearing of Mr. Rajk's name is interpreted here as a last summer. He had also condemned the purge of Rudolf Slansky, Czechoslovak Deputy Premier, and his ten comrades, who were executed in Prague in 1952 for alleged Titoism. So far Prague has shown no signs of undertaking a rehabilitation in their case. Review Ordered Last Year A special commission was appointed by the Hungarian Ministry of Justice last December to revise the verdicts in the trial of Mr. Rajk and his associates. It was reported last month that Mr. Rajk's widow had again been accepted as a member of the Hungarian party and given position. The rehabilitation of the reputations of the Hungarian Social Democrats is interpreted as a gesture toward world socialism. A new policy of seeking a popular front with Socialists was announced at the recent Soviet Communist party congress in Moscow. Thirty to fifty Social Democrats, including Anna Kethly, were released last year. But others known to have been imprisoned were not set free at that time. According to the Budapest radio, Mr. Rakosi said one major recent accomplishment of Hungarian communism had been the strengthening of "Socialist legality." He continued:

our party leadership revised the Rajk trial.

"It established that the trial had been based on provocation. For this reason the Supreme Court rehabilitated Comrade Rajk and other comrades. It also revised similar cases, rehabilitating those who had been condemned though innocent and granting amnesty to others.

'Simultaneously, it reviewed the trials of former Social Democrats who had been condemned. Most have already been freed. The others will be set free in a few days. Those not guilty have been or will be rehabilioffended! tated, those who against the people's democracy have been amnestied."

Along with Mr. Rajk, Tibor Szoenyi, party organizer, and Andras Szalai, the party's youth leader, were condemned to death. Lazar Brankov, an anti-Titoist Yugoslav diplomat, and Pal Justus, deputy head of the Hungarian radio, were sentenced to life imprisonment, and Milan slav Legation, to nine years.
