An Answer to "Justice" Baroff, Sigman and Yanovsky

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

When I was in New York recently, I was asked by the great general union leader, James L. Métraux, who started New York State's first labor union, "What's the next step?" As a labor organizer, I have a duty to answer that question. I believe that the next step is to fight for the labor movement in America. It is time to make our voice heard in this country, to fight for our rights, to fight against the forces that hold us down. We must be united, we must be strong, we must be determined. Only then can we hope to achieve our goals.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

on Tour for the LABOR DEFENSE COUNCIL to Address Meetings at

OCT. 16 | OCT. 17 | OCT. 18 | OCT. 20 | OCT. 21 | OCT. 21 | OCT. 22 | OCT. 22 | OCT. 24

WATCH FOR FURTHER ANNOUNCEMENTS