Discussing Our Party's Immediate Tasks

WORKERS PARTY REPUDIATING FARMER-LABORISM

By WILBERT J. FORSTER.

This week's dailies of the workers party, in their editorials, have been very much insisted upon the recent meetings held in five principal cities of this country, which were attended by large numbers of workers. It is very interesting to see the logical process of the party's thinking, based upon the fact that the historical development of the farmers' movement is entirely different from that of the industrial workers. The workers in the industrial centers have found it necessary to form organizations for the purpose of protecting their interests. The farmers, on the other hand, have been forced by the necessity to divide the vote in order to divide the political power. This is the process of the party's thinking, based upon the fact that the historical development of the farmers' movement is entirely different from that of the industrial workers. The workers in the industrial centers have found it necessary to form organizations for the purpose of protecting their interests. The farmers, on the other hand, have been forced by the necessity to divide the vote in order to divide the political power. This is the process of the party's thinking, based upon the fact that the historical development of the farmers' movement is entirely different from that of the industrial workers. The workers in the industrial centers have found it necessary to form organizations for the purpose of protecting their interests. The farmers, on the other hand, have been forced by the necessity to divide the vote in order to divide the political power.

WHAT SORT OF AN ANIMAL IS A FARMER-LABOR PARTY ANYWAY?

By J. HURKIN.

There is a tremendously large number of people who, without any knowledge of the party's history, believe that the farmer-labor party is a new phenomenon. This is not the case. The farmer-labor party is the product of a long and complex process of historical development. The farmer-labor party is not a new phenomenon. It is the result of a long and complex process of historical development.

CANNON RECITE HISTORY

By ADAMANTUS LUCRE.

This week's dailies of the workers party have been very much interested in the question of what was the real history of the farmer-labor movement. The workers party has been very much interested in the question of what was the real history of the farmer-labor movement. The workers party has been very much interested in the question of what was the real history of the farmer-labor movement.

WHY NOT CHEAP MILK?

By MANUEL GOMEZ.

Paradoxes are often highly significant, and in the present discussion, we may find some of them very interesting. There are many paradoxes in the history of the farmers' movement. The farmers' movement is not a new phenomenon. It is the result of a long and complex process of historical development.

A FEW FACTS ABOUT MINNESOTA

By Wm. M. WICKS.

Some of these facts are quite natural, and their complete result in the present situation. For example, the present campaign is an effort to win over the farmers to the Workers' party. This is a natural result of the present situation. The campaign is an effort to win over the farmers to the Workers' party. This is a natural result of the present situation.