gain a foothold in the Party, and also a guarantee against national level of the Party. The work of educating the membership of the Party in Marxism and Leninism therefore becomes a vital task, as our Party is established and exists in the form of language and territorial groups and exists in the form of language.

The reorganisation of our Party is based on the mass movement of the masses. The reorganisation of the Party is based on the Party's membership.

The Party has a program of activity. It has a leadership which has the stamp of approval of the Com-

The Left Wing Railroad Conference

By William Z. Foster

ON September 13 and 14 the International Committee for amalgamation in the Railroad Industry held its second international conference in Chicago.

What a different picture this gathering presented of railroad trade unions than the first conference five years ago. The first conference was held in 1927. The unions were then just in the midst of the greatest economic struggle in the history of American railroad trade unions. During a period of intense battle, the unions哈哈哈
