GARMENT STRIKE TO FOLLOW MASS MEETINGS IN N. Y.

Membership United in Fighting Employers

NEW YORK CITY, June 30 — Members of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union in Wednesday's mass meeting which is to be a general strike at the trade. The strike is to continue indefinitely, and all workers are directed to return to their jobs at the earliest possible moment.

The strike is expected to last for at least ten days, and the union has set up a strike fund to assist members in need.

The union is demanding an end to the use of sweated labor, and is calling on the government to investigate the conditions in the garment industry.

The strike is supported by a number of unions, including the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and the United Textile Workers of America.

The strike is expected to have a significant impact on the garment industry, and is likely to lead to further organizing efforts by the union.

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 28 — The government has ordered the strike call in Washington, D.C., to cease immediately. The order was issued by the War Labor Board, which is responsible for maintaining labor peace in the district.

The order was issued after a series of violent incidents, including the beating of a strike leader and the destruction of union property.

The strike was called by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America on June 23, in response to the government's decision to reduce the number of workers in the industry.

The strike is expected to continue for at least another week, and is likely to have a significant impact on the industry.

The government has previously attempted to suppress the strike, but has been unsuccessful.

The strike is supported by a number of unions, including the United Textile Workers of America and the International Longshoremen's Union.

The strike is expected to lead to further organizing efforts by the union.
