Enlightenment Campaign on the Comintern's Address to the Communist Party

For the Unity of the Party

The Comintern's address to the Communist Party is designed to instill a sense of unity and discipline among the party members. This address aims to strengthen the Party's solidarity and ensure that all members are aligned with the Party's goals and objectives.

The address calls for a clear understanding of the Party's role in the current political climate and emphasizes the importance of unity and cooperation. It highlights the achievements of the Party in recent years and sets the stage for future successes.

The address also seeks to address the concerns of the party members and assure them of the Party's commitment to their welfare and well-being. It encourages members to stay informed and engaged with the Party's activities.

In summary, the Comintern's address is a call to action for the Communist Party, emphasizing the need for unity, discipline, and cooperation in order to achieve the Party's goals.

Correction on Article by Comrade L. Koves

As a result of friendly criticism by Comrade V. L. Miedema, a correction was made in the article "For the Unity of the Party" published in the Daily Worker. The correction addressed a minor error in the article's narrative, ensuring its accuracy.

The Daily Worker, New York, Friday, June 29, 1935

Central Organ of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.

TWO LINES

The political line pursued by Comrade L. Koves, as reflected in his article, is consistent with the policies of the Communist Party of the United States. The Party's stance is firmly rooted in its commitment to unity, discipline, and cooperation, as outlined in the Comintern's address.

The need for unity and discipline is emphasized in the Party's line, with particular reference to the issues of the Comintern's address. The Party's policies are designed to address these issues, ensuring the Party's continued success.

In conclusion, the Party's line is aligned with the principles outlined in the Comintern's address, which is a call to action for unity, discipline, and cooperation.

The Daily Worker, New York, Friday, June 29, 1935

Central Organ of the Communist Party of the U.S.A.