Fur Union Told of FBI Pressure on Gold Jury

ATLANTIC CITY, May 3—Delegates at the convention of the Leather Workers of America, considered by FBI agents as a potential target of the FBI in its investigation of subversive activity in the fur industry, have decided to continue their convention as scheduled.

The3-day meeting, which concluded yesterday, has been described by FBI agents as a possible target of the FBI in its investigation of subversive activity in the fur industry.

The union has been under investigation by the FBI for its activities in the fur industry, and the convention was held in the shadow of the FBI's presence.

The union's decision to continue with the convention was a response to the FBI's investigation, and it was seen as a challenge to the FBI's efforts to intimidate the union.

The union's leadership, including the president, has been under pressure from the FBI to disband or change their activities.

The union's decision to continue with the convention was seen as a bold move to counter the FBI's efforts to undermine their activities.

Dulles Chased from Geneva

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER

DULLES, Va., May 3—Chad Dulles, a former Secretary of State, has more important business to attend to than his current post. His recent visit to Geneva for a vital conference is a typical Dulles performance in the service of American prestige. The untrammelled truth is that he is committed to the policy of shipping off the leadership of the world to the back seats of the universe.

The union's report indicated the union's willingness to continue with the convention, despite the FBI's presence, as a way to counter the FBI's efforts to undermine their activities.
