The Atomic-Pool Flim-Flam

The term behind this phrase is a metaphor for a sales pitch or a false claim. The phrase "atomic-pool" suggests a false promise of wealth or power associated with an atomic energy project. The term "flim-flam" is a derogatory term for a fraud or a trick. This phrase is often used in popular culture to describe a fraudulent scheme or a misleading claim.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 13 (FP)—The drive to fool on Missouri with a "right to work" law banning union security fees is being pushed by the General Electric Co. of Schenectady, N.Y.

St. Louis businessmen who complained in a letter to the St. Louis Board of Aldermen that the pressure was getting up to line up with other employers in support of the proposed law.

Signing himself "executive," the company's letter read: "Recently our firm received correspondence on the letterhead of two firms, General Electric Co. and F. E. Rogers, Mfg. Co., urging us to contribute to the fund for the Missouri Chamber of Commerce and the so-called 'right to work' issue.

"While I wonder just where the General Electric Co. and the F. E. Rogers Mfg. Co. fit into the picture, the most important question which comes to my mind is: Who is behind the Missouri Chamber of Commerce?

"Their tactics and methods are efficient and insidious, especially over the telephone. I am a bare person, but their telephone calls have not fitted the language we used to. I state that our firm was not interested in supporting such a movement and he threatened that our attitude 'would be reported to General Electric Co. and the Missouri State Chamber of Commerce.'"

The letter writer said he did not hesitate to name the companies "since they seem to have given up the hope of gaining any sort of favor with this organization and its collaborators.

The attempt to use atomic energy as a weapon is a candidate for the "flim-flam" label. The proposition would be to use atomic energy as a source of national power. This is a big leap in big words with no answer to the question of what to do with the power. The proposal for the use of atomic energy as a weapon, if adopted, would take us into a new field of destroying the world. The fact is that the future of the entire world is dependent on the adoption of this plan in Russia. The field of atomic energy is probably the most hazardous to humanity, and it is better to think twice before adopting such a plan. The use of atomic energy as a weapon is a dangerous and unnecessary step in the evolution of humanity. The use of atomic energy as a weapon would be a disaster for humanity.

The议员 argued that the use of atomic energy is not possible for economic reasons. The development of atomic energy is an economic impossibility, and it would lead to economic ruin for humanity. HISTORICALLY, capitalism and industrialism have been the dominant forces in the world. The formation of large-scale industrial corporations, the development of international trade, and the concentration of wealth in a few hands have been the hallmarks of the capitalist system. The industrial revolution brought about the mass production of goods and the expansion of the world economy. This economic growth was based on the exploitation of labor and the accumulation of wealth by a small elite. The capitalist system has been responsible for many social problems, including poverty, inequality, and environmental degradation.
