A SHOCKING LETTER

IN A SHOCKING interconference in the affairs of France, President Eisenhower has written to Mme. Frances Stevenson in Paris to tell him that "all of us in the U.S. are eager for the Nazi Army which Dulles is trying to revive as a "European Defense Community." Stevenson's "bipartisan" effort to force the French people to accept German fascist troops on their soil, and to accept German officers in command of their own infantry, is now being publicly denounced by the Democratic leaders and is still clinging to the pre-war line of the Cold War.

While Britain moves toward trade and co-existance, while France refused to betray her security to the tender mercies of the German fascists in Bonn, the Democratic leader, to whom millions of voters have looked as "the liberal," still places his hopes in the Rasmussens.

For public office in the Bronx, the Communists, as European collectivists, in which an attack on one would be considered an attack on all. But the Dulles plot for a German fascist war machine clashes with this sensible proposition which would rid Europe—and the United States—of the specter of war for a long time to come.

Instead, Dulles wants to revive the Hitler war machine—under Washington's fingers, he hopes.

LET US RECALL briefly some of the leading Hitler Nazis, now in the West German cabinet of Adenauer, from Stevenson's "all of us" to embrace as allies:

Waldemar Kraft, member of the Nazi party leadership, is Adenauer's minister without portfolio; Gerhard Schroeder, top Nazi in charge of the Adenauer ministry of the Interior; and, Hans Globke, Adenauer's chief of foreign affairs.

Adlai Stevenson, in cooperating with the GOP-McCarthyite plot to restauré the Nazi, has the callous cynicism to say that "all of us" in the U.S.S.R. share his enthusiasm for the Nazi, the man who tried only a decade ago to destroy the United States. That Stevenson could feel safe in embracing the Dullas plot for a Nazi war machine shows how inadequate has been the tradition of the labor movement and similar challenge to this proposed betrayal of decency and the national safety. Adlai Stevenson should hear from "all of us"—from the representatives of the American people, the American people's organizations, etc.—their shocked indignation that the Democratic Party leader should dare to mock their hopes with this piece of immoral cynicism. The voters do not want Protectionism; they do not want to be destroyed by the British McCarranites or from Adlai Stevenson.

DEFENCE IN THE BRONX

THE PRESS SAYS that in running Elizabeth Gurley Flynn for the Democratic ticket against the Governor, one of the best known and best loved working class figures of the past 40 years, a challenge to the hysterics, the slanderers, and the repression of the 'anti-Communist' witchhunt.

It is a test of the sacred right of the voters to make their own choice.

All the signs are that in increasing numbers the voters in the Bronx and in other parts of the country are finding a chance to fight the "regime of fear" by helping to get the 3,000 signatures needed to help Elizabeth Gurley Flynn run for office. The fight for the democratic election of the Constitution and democracy.
