“I have no objection to the holding of this test this year, but I do not approve of your proposal that it be held on Armistice Day. If you consider it desirable to hold the more appropriate date.”

Why Not Burn Some Witches?
The trouble with the fundamentalists is that they are too cocksure to have thought it out to the theory of evolution, to divorce it from the conception of materialism, to confine it within the safe bounds of biological study, to confine it within the bounds of human history, to confine it within the bounds of the most advanced bourgeois educational method. It was a mistake to deny evolution entirely. That puts capitalist science in a most important challenge to American progressivism in many years.

Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, sent a “mobilization” order, saying that he could mobilize the whole country if necessary.

Armistice Day. If you consider it desirable to hold the more appropriate date.”

Armistice Day is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?

Why not Armistice Day, and why July 4th? In the first place, Armistice Day is not a “National Holiday.” In the second place, Armistice Day is associated with nationalism. But there is another reason—the determining one. July 4th is a “National Holiday” and Armistice Day is not. Factories and business houses are closed on July 4th but not on Armistice Day. The last “Defense Test,” held on November 4th of last year, involved too much business. Mobilization is all right, but it shouldn’t disturb business. Efficiency in all things!

When Armistice Day was again suggested for this year’s mobilization (mobilization has now become an annual thing, you see) many of the protest ads and letters, which were passed by business men’s associations and by rotary clubs. Some of them suggested that the “Defense Test” be held on a Sunday. One bright genius thought of the Fourth of July, whereupon President Coolidge, economical in all things, said that he couldn’t use it.

Why Not Burn Some Witches?
Yankee imperialists disclose that:

An examination of the control of natural resources by the world's major powers has since left the realm of desire and have become realities. For instance, more than half the world's railway mileage is found within American boundaries. Three out of every four shoes manufactured and well over 90 per cent of the world's automobiles. More than 54 per cent of the iron and 64 per cent of the steel; nearly 73 per cent of the world's petroleum; nearly 50 per cent of the world's lumber. The world's gold reserve is split between France and Germany, with the United States having about 50 per cent of the gold in the world. The world's African colonies are the property of the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Belgium and the United States.

But American imperialism, that is foreign, policy today rests on the mobilization of the industrial resources. The mobilization of the industrial resources is essential to and has been given the gravest consideration by all nations.
The notorious sugar baron, United States Governor General Patterson, is guilty of massacring and hounding tens of thousands of Filipino sugar workers in Hawaii.

The dollar is today the basis of international capitalist exchange. The dollar has today veto power over the basic legislation of nearly every country where capitalism is supreme. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange."

The American Empire presents us with a youthful, vigorous and growing imperialism.

The monopolies and financiers dominate every walk of our economic and political life. The expert of American finance-capital is today the thread running through the industrial, financial and political developments of nearly every capitalist country. The American trusts are vanquishing the trusts of the other national capitalist groups in every market. Our working class is today the basis of international capitalist exchange. The dollar has today veto power over the basic legislation of nearly every country where capitalism is supreme. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange."

The American Empire presents us with a youthful, vigorous and growing imperialism.

The monopolies and financiers dominate every walk of our economic and political life. The expert of American finance-capital is today the thread running through the industrial, financial and political developments of nearly every capitalist country. The American trusts are vanquishing the trusts of the other national capitalist groups in every market.

This is the American Empire, America is not only the poet, the manufacturer and the banker of the world. The United States is also the policeman of world politics. American imperialism today holds in the hollow of its palm the fate of many capitalist governments. The dollar is today the basis of international capitalist exchange. The dollar has today veto power over the basic legislation of nearly every country where capitalism is supreme. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange."

The monopolies and financiers dominate every walk of our economic and political life. The expert of American finance-capital is today the thread running through the industrial, financial and political developments of nearly every capitalist country. The American trusts are vanquishing the trusts of the other national capitalist groups in every market.

This is the American Empire, America is not only the poet, the manufacturer and the banker of the world. The United States is also the policeman of world politics. American imperialism today holds in the hollow of its palm the fate of many capitalist governments. The dollar is today the basis of international capitalist exchange. The dollar has today veto power over the basic legislation of nearly every country where capitalism is supreme. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange."

The monopolies and financiers dominate every walk of our economic and political life. The expert of American finance-capital is today the thread running through the industrial, financial and political developments of nearly every capitalist country. The American trusts are vanquishing the trusts of the other national capitalist groups in every market.

This is the American Empire, America is not only the poet, the manufacturer and the banker of the world. The United States is also the policeman of world politics. American imperialism today holds in the hollow of its palm the fate of many capitalist governments. The dollar is today the basis of international capitalist exchange. The dollar has today veto power over the basic legislation of nearly every country where capitalism is supreme. The currency of every capitalist country rolls and rings in the line of the Federal Reserve of the world. Last year one of America's leading bankers declared: "We must look upon our currency as the basis of international capitalist exchange."

The monopolies and financiers dominate every walk of our economic and political life. The expert of American finance-capital is today the thread running through the industrial, financial and political developments of nearly every capitalist country. The American trusts are vanquishing the trusts of the other national capitalist groups in every market.