The Right Danger in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and in the Comintern

Results of the November Plenum of the Central Committee of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union

Dear Comrade!

We have the pleasure to inform you that we have returned to the matter of the Right danger in the Communist Party of the Soviet Union and in the Comintern at the moment when the situation of the struggle for the communist revolution is developing very sharply. The situation demands the closest attention of all the ranks of the Party. The question of the Right danger is a very acute one and it has an important role in the struggle to carry through the great tasks of the revolution.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.

The Right danger is a deviation of a certain group of elements which, under the leadership of the Right forces, is undermining the revolutionary struggle of the Soviet people and the Party, and is preparing the way for the reaction of the bourgeoisie. This danger is manifested in a variety of forms, ranging from the simplest forms of deviation to the most serious forms of counter-revolutionary activity.