A Great Step Forward!
The February Plenum of the National Council, C.P.-Majority Group

On February 22 and 23 there was held a full meeting of the National Council of the Communist Party of the USA (Majority Group). The meeting was attended by the members and affiliated delegates of the National Council. Delegations were present from the following districts: Boston, Connecticut, New York, Indiana, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore, and the Antilles. A number of other delegates were present by telegram from various parts of the country. The meeting was held in Chicago, October (1929) Conference.

The meeting was attended by 60 regular delegates and a large number of visitors. Those present represented a good spectrum of the movement, including the important industrial centers and from the important industries of the country: building trades, mining industry, shoe industry, needle industry, textile industry, automobile industry, miscellaneous trades, etc. A large number of women delegates were present and also a number of Negro delegates.

Not only was the February Plenum organized on a much broader basis than our first Plenum in October but politically it presented a much more advanced stage of development. Where the first Plenum met itself chiefly with a discussion of the basic principles of our group and main lines for our strategy, the February Plenum planned political and organizational progress that already reflected the movement in progress.

The Conference opened Saturday, February 22. The Chairman at this opening session of the conference was Comrade N. Borich, an Anarchist minister. At this session Comrade Lovestone read his report on the Economic Conditions and the Situation in the Labor Movement. At the conclusion of this presentation was Comrade William Miller, Detroit auto worker, and the report given at this session by Max Shiner, who reported on the situation and problems facing the Young Communist League (Majority Group).

The third session, which was held in the evening, was an open session. Comrade Armand J. Newbury, a Negro shipyard worker from Philadelphia. The report at this session was Comrade Unis, on "The Situation in the Communist Movement, Our Activities, and the Tasks Before Us.

The fourth session was opened by Comrade Vistankic, an Anarchist minister and member of the Executive Board of the National Miners Union, who acted as chairman. The fifth and final session of the Plenum was opened by Comrade Edward Welfare, a Negro comrade, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Harlem Tenants League. At this session Comrade Bertram D. Wolfe made his report on the "Cooperative for the S. and T. International Oppression Movement." The report of Comrade Wolfe was followed by a report on Revolutionary Workers' Cases by Comrade E. S. Thompson. This report was based on the reports of a number of well known cases that Comrade Thompson discussed. The report was a discussion of the problems facing the labor movement in the decade and the role of the Plenum in the labor movement.

The report of Comrade Lovestone dealt with the present position of world capitalism, the economic crisis in the United States, the structural changes and basic contradictions of American capitalism, the great American illusion—"the Prosperity Myth," the present political situation and the situation in the labor movement.

This Plenum showed itself to be well prepared for the problems facing the labor movement and particularly the labor movement in the United States. Comrade Lovestone in his report showed the necessity for the struggle against the economic crisis in the United States. He also showed the necessity for the construction of a new socialist organization in the United States. The Plenum decided that this construction of a new organization would be carried out on the lines of the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.

The Plenum also voted to establishment of a new organization in the United States. The Plenum voted to elect a new organization which would be named the "Communist Party of the United States." The Plenum also decided to publish a new weekly newspaper, "The Workers' Voice," to be published in Chicago.
Congress. It is found in two different places. Dealing with the role of the "left" Social Democratic leaders the resolution says:

"...Nevertheless, while taking into account the leftist swing, even among the workers in the ranks of Social Democracy, etc., etc."