Vets Battle Realty Lobby To Rescue Housing Bill

Washington, March 4 (UP).—The House tonight rejected 161 to 92, a Palmetto housing bill providing $600,000,000 in construction materials subsidies during a debate today, buttressing House members to urge their support of the bill. The bill's opponents believe the Washington County Association of Real Estate Brokers believes it will not be as vital to the nation's housing program as it sets out to be. The National Association of Real Estate Brokers believes it will be, and the bill's sponsors believe it will be.

The Veterans Administration, which is responsible for seeing that the bill passes, said it would be impossible to go through with the bill in its present form. The bill is expected to be passed in the Senate, but it is not certain that it will be considered on the House floor.

WASHINGTON, March 4 (UP).—A delegation of some 150 veterans returned to Washington today, warning Congressmen that they would resist any attempt to cut the bill's funding.

The bill's opponents believe it will not be as vital to the nation's housing program as it sets out to be. The National Association of Real Estate Brokers believes it will be, and the bill's sponsors believe it will be.

The Veterans Administration, which is responsible for seeing that the bill passes, said it would be impossible to go through with the bill in its present form. The bill is expected to be passed in the Senate, but it is not certain that it will be considered on the House floor.

Byrnes Eggs On Iranian Envoy Against Soviets

Secretary of State James F. Byrnes heard into the Soviet-Iranian negotiations yesterday, warning that the Bill would not pass unless the Soviets agreed to withdraw from Afghanistan.

The bill was introduced by Senator John G. Tower (R-Tex.) and was quickly passed by the Senate. However, the House refused to consider the bill, and it was never brought to a vote.

The bill's sponsors believe it will be, and the bill's opponents believe it will not be as vital to the nation's housing program as it sets out to be. The National Association of Real Estate Brokers believes it will be, and the bill's sponsors believe it will be.

The Veterans Administration, which is responsible for seeing that the bill passes, said it would be impossible to go through with the bill in its present form. The bill is expected to be passed in the Senate, but it is not certain that it will be considered on the House floor.

UAW Offers Election On Terms to End Strike

Detroit, March 4 (UP).—The UAW auto workers yesterday walked out on the 179,000 General Motors strikers, as the corporation, which was on strike for 179,000 General Motors workers, is demanding a return to work at the corporation. The latest UAW vote to end the 179,000 General Motors strike is a vote to return to work at the corporation.

British Shoot Starving Indians

Monday, March 4 (UP).—A British police force has been established in the Bombay Presidency to enforce the law and to deal with the problem of starvation in that area. The force, which is composed of 1,000 British police, is being trained by the Bombay police and is expected to be in operation by the end of the month.

The force is being established in response to the growing problem of starvation in the Bombay Presidency. The British government has been under pressure to take action to deal with the problem, and the force is seen as a step in the right direction.

British school teachers in the Bombay Presidency are expected to be the first to receive training in the new force. They will be followed by police from other parts of India.

Browder Propaganda for U.S. Imperialism

by Milton Bowers

Browder's latest campaign, "The Case for the U.S.," is a comprehensive attack on the Soviet Union, which he believes to be a necessary ally of the United States in the struggle against imperialism. Browder's campaign is based on the premise that the Soviet Union is the most important ally of the United States in the struggle against imperialism.

"United States policy toward the Soviet Union has been to isolate and harass the U.S.S.R. from the start. The U.S. has not taken the lead in changing the status of the Soviet Union, nor has it attempted to change it. The U.S. has sought to isolate the U.S.S.R. from the world and to keep it isolated. The U.S. has not attempted to change the status of the Soviet Union, nor has it attempted to change it. The U.S. has sought to isolate the U.S.S.R. from the world and to keep it isolated.

This is in line with Browder's Wall Street policy, which is based on the premise that the United States should be the dominant power in the world. Browder believes that the United States should be the dominant power in the world.

"What seems to be shaping up as an important issue in the campaign is the question of 'ownership' in the world. This is an important issue in the campaign, and it is one that Browder has been addressing for a long time. Browder believes that the United States should be the dominant power in the world, and he has been working to advance this policy for many years. Browder's campaign is based on the premise that the United States should be the dominant power in the world.

As an example of America's propaganda for imperialism, Browder cites India.

"The U.S. has been working to develop its influence in India. The U.S. has been working to develop its influence in India. The U.S. has been working to develop its influence in India. The U.S. has been working to develop its influence in India.

This is in line with Browder's in line with Browder's in line with Browder's in line with Browder's Wall Street policy, which is based on the premise that the United States should be the dominant power in the world. Browder believes that the United States should be the dominant power in the world.