[EROL Note: the text of the “wall newspaper” in support of the Cultural Revolution that Michel Graindorge - responsible for the Party’s Communist Youth Movement - posted, in September 1967, in the premises of the PCB that led to his denunciation. Later Jacques Grippa declared support for Liu Shaoqi against Mao Zedong.]

There is currently in certain leading organs of our Marxist-Leninist Party and even within the Central Committee, a small minority of comrades who oppose the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution and the thought of Mao Tse-tung.

This small minority speaks of Leninism to oppose Leninism to the thought of Mao Tse-tung.

They speak of 16 points to oppose the 16 points to the current development of the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution.

They talk about investigations and information, but they have imposed for months, on all our press, a total silence on the GPCR.

They speak of comrade Mao Tse-tung, but they speak of it as one speaks of an old man, a sick man or a man paralyzed by his "entourage".

They speak of the works of comrade Mao Tse-tung, but they stubbornly cling to the "individual improvement" of Liu Chao-chi.

They speak of the Chinese Communist Party, but they defend the apparatus of a party partially gangrened by the Chinese Khrushchev.

They talk about revisionism, but they do not examine what are the deep sources of revisionism and what are the means to remedy it.

They speak of the Marxist-Leninist Party and the masses, but do not speak of the Party which must learn from the masses, be immersed in the masses, controlled by the masses.

They speak of the proletarian line but clearly imply that it is the line of Liu Chao-chi.

They do not admit or do not yet understand that the thought of Mao Tse-tung is Marxism-Leninism of the present period, that it is Marxism-Leninism taken to a higher stage.

This small minority of comrades speaks of their "concerns" throughout the Party, but does not give voice to the comrades who defend the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution and the thought of Mao Tse-tung.

These comrades, in fact, practice servile submission. They refuse criticism and self-criticism.

They lack confidence in the masses and the revolutionary members of our Party.

Comrades members of the Party and the Communist Youth Movement, let us launch throughout the Party and in the Communist Youth Movement a vast movement of rectification, let us unite firmly on the basis of Marxism-Leninism, on the basis of the thought of Mao Tse-tung, Marxism-Leninism of the time when imperialism is going to its total collapse and the proletarian revolution towards victory worldwide, resolutely support the Great Proletarian Cultural Revolution and learn from it for our own struggle, that each comrade thinks by his own brain, tightens the unity of our Party, that each comrade, including the small minority, tightens the unity of the Party on the basis of Marxism-Leninism, the thought of Mao Tse-tung.
