Against the Capitalist Offensive

The Second National Conference calls for struggle against imperialist rapacity and the capitalist offensive. Since the beginning of the 1990’s have seen increasing attacks on the rights and freedom of the workers. This is what the capitalists are now doing to the workers in order to reinforce their exploitation of the working people and to silence all the struggles and all the oppositional movements, including the trade unions. The capitalists are putting renewed pressure on workers.”

They were eager to pass the anti-union law even at the price of losing their lives. The situation grew out of the fact that workers did not have any organization to defend their rights and interests. The Second National Conference was organized to defend the rights and interests of the workers and to create a new platform for workers. The conference was held on May 8, 1994, in the Democratic Union Building in Washington, D.C.

The conference was a conference of militant proletariat internationalism, a conference of the working class, working as one contingent of the working proletariat army that has characterized our Party from the start, and of continuing to struggle hard not to do part in strengthening the international Marxist-Leninist movement. It went its greetings to the Party of Labor of Albania and to the International Communist Party of Labor of the Dominican Republic. It expressed its warmest greetings to all the party cadres and militant masses of the world, to all the socialist countries, and to all the progressive forces throughout the world. It also expressed its solidarity with the workers and the labor movement and the poor masses of the world in their common struggle for a better life.
