The People Mount A National Campaign...

STOP KILLER COPS!!

Liberate Puerto Rico!!

On October 27, 1974, 12 noon, the Puerto Rican Socialist Party, in unity with a broad spectrum of organizations and individuals will be sponsoring Puerto Rican Solidarity Day, at Madison Square Garden. These supporting organizations are Puerto Rican, Black, Indian, Asian, White, Multi-National (Puerto Rican Socialist Party, Third World Women's Alliance, American Indian Movement, National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression, Liberation Magazine, Crusade for Justice, Asian Americans for Action, Guardian, Women's Strike for Peace, African Liberation Support Committee, Youth Organization for Black Unity, United Black Workers, Harambee, Black Panther Party, New Jersey Black Assembly and many others), all aiming at the same ultimate goal for this historical program. That is demonstrate concretely to the people of the world the determination of the Puerto Rican people to liberate their nation from American Imperialism.

Like many of the supporting organizations, the Congress of Afrikan people is taking an active part in the work of pulling together Puerto Rican Solidarity Day. Not only as members of a Black Support Committee, but throughout CAP's cadres across the United States, there is a commitment to work energetically to see that Puerto Rican Solidarity Day emerges as one of the most impressive examples to date of what is Sandra Hill for? The people!

Q. Can you give us a brief introduction to your campaign; its overall thrust and yourself?
A. Our campaign is a people's campaign. The People's Choice. Our Major thrust is to advocate for the people! That they must have the power to redistribute the money, jobs, houses so that all the people's needs can be met so that all the people have quality housing, education, equal rights (in particular, equal rights for women), free health care, daycare for working parents, bargaining units for workers, better wages and better working conditions. Our main question is; The World is rich; why are we poor?

Spinola's Resignation
Portugal’s Regime Threatened By Leftist Forces

Children attend a revolutionary school in the Republic of Guinea-Bissau, whose heroic people have defeated Portuguese colonialism.

On April 25, 1974 a coup led by the junior officer dominated Armed Forces Movement ended almost 50 years of fascist dictatorship in Portugal. A provisional government was formed, headed by war hero General António de Spinola, and consisting of rightists and "leftists." Strikes and demonstrations by workers in Portugal demanding democracy, higher wages, and better working and living conditions, combined with the increased offensives by the liberation movements in Portugal "overseas provinces" of Mozambique and Angola and the frustrations of the supposedly "progressive" factions within the government led to the July 9th resignations of Portugal's prime minister and four cabinet members. The resignations were followed two days later by the dismissal of the rest of the cabinet by the AFM.

Facing a demonstration soon after Spinola's resignation, the Portuguese Communist Party working in close collaboration with Spinola in crushing the workers strikes.

Now we see that inside Portugal a struggle between the forces of the left and reaction is still going on in earnest, with the resignation of President Spinola after losing a confrontation with leftist forces in and out of government, (i.e., both the Communist Party and revolutionary socialist influence outside the cabinet). Spinola had called on conservatives, and even some openly fascist supporters of the old Salazar-Caetano regimes, to cease being a silent majority and to openly come out and struggle against the left.

Mass demonstration outside Madison Square Garden management attempt to block Puerto Rican Solidarity Day from being held there. Puerto Rican community, and the other third world peoples and poor whites in the United States. Such oppression was clearly manifested last month in the events that wrecked Newark, N. J. We are speaking of the police riot and brutality against the Puerto Rican community, and the courageous response of the Puerto Rican people.

As the events of the rebellion, and the other struggles people are involved in, it demonstrates that the people will never submit to the economic exploitation, political repression and cultural aggression that makes this degenerate capitalist system. Puerto Rican Solidarity Day, October 27, is one clear evidence within the Armed Forces Movement which governs Portugal, and the Premier is pushing a moderate socialist line. This might be expected to lead to the liberation movement led to this decision. The riots and seizure of radio stations by angry white settlers in Mozambique were quickly put down by the remaining resistant troops and many of the whites have fled to Portugal.

Portugal's Foreign Minister Mario Soares has been meeting with representatives of PAIGC in Angola and FRELIMO in Luanda. These meetings, Portugal says, have resulted in their decision to "grant" independence to Mozambique. Soares also signed an agreement with FRELIMO to "grant" Mozambique independence. Again they had no choice in the matter. FRELIMO victory combined the refusal of some colonial powers to continue fighting the liberation movement led to this decision. The riots and seizure of radio stations by angry white settlers in Mozambique were quickly put down by the remaining resistant troops and many of the whites have fled to Portugal.

Puerto Ricans find themselves subjected to even worse intensifying economic rape of the island. Not only has this murderous government continuously dammed the island. The local government has stopped and the Portuguese armed forces. What should be clear is that the increased offensives by the liberation movements in Portugal and Angola and the frustrations of the supposed "progressive" factions within the government led to the July 9th resignations of Portugal's prime minister and four cabinet members. The resignations were followed two days later by the dismissal of the rest of the cabinet by the AFM.
