MAY DAY 1975

May 1, International Workingman's Day, has always been of special political significance. It is a day to summarize the experience of our class and to point the path to another year of struggle in our sacred cause of the emancipation of humanity.

It is clear to all who care to look that the working class of this country is entering a period of defensive activity--a period when the monopolies are unleashing a concerted, coordinated and violent drive against the formal civil rights of the masses. They are also clearly driving toward establishing their direct political dictatorship over the people. The deepening economic crisis inevitably has formed the basis for a new restlessness of the workers. This awakening on the part of the masses is being answered by this new and most serious drive toward fascism in the history of our country.

This new stirring on the part of the people is opening up dramatic new fronts of struggle. The movement of the unemployed, the unions, the new level of struggle of the youth, the movement of the women, the various national movements and the peace movement all are fronts of this struggle in the intensifying class war. However, the way this war is being carried out, the people cannot win. No war was ever won by guerilla action. That is to say, that small uncoordinated groups each fighting in their own way cannot win. What is needed is to transform this vast guerilla war into a positional war, in other words, to unite these various fronts against the single most violent danger to the working class--fascism.

The revolutionary movement has been able to gather quite a bit of experience in the concrete application of the grand word "Unity." Certainly the first lesson is that the unity of the working class can only be built by the defence of the bottom of the ladder. Unity of the working class does not mean uniting with sections of that class that are so bribed by imperialism that they refuse to struggle on behalf of the victims of imperialism. If we do not divide the class, we cannot unify it. Long ago, Lenin pointed out how imperialism had split the working class, one part corrupted by imperialist bribery, the other section, a proletariat that cannot liberate itself without consistently fighting against chauvinism and the oppression of weaker peoples. Consequently, unity for us means uniting that section of the class that is prepared to launch a real struggle. There can be no unity of the working class that is not based on the struggle to free the Negro and Puerto Rican colonies; that is not based on the struggle for the equality of the Mexican, Puerto Rican and Negro national minorities. And we do not propose a struggle around these issues that is abstracted from the daily life of the

APRIL 26 MAY DAY JOBS WITH PEACE

The COMMUNIST LABOR PARTY (CLP) puts forward the following demands as a basis for a united working class struggle against the present capitalist crisis:

1. A job for every worker at the expense of the military budget.
2. Support busing-- Smash the KKK, the Nazi party and all other fascist gangs; all education financed by the federal government on a per student basis.
3. End all deportations of undocumented workers.
4. No USNA military intervention in Southeast Asia or the Middle East.
5. Nationalize the energy industries.

workers. We are proposing that in every single struggle of the workers the relationship between any particular struggle and this general struggle be brought to the forefront.

THE UNITED FRONT

In this respect, we should restate our position on the question of the United Front against fascism and the United Front against imperialism. As in any discussion, we should start out with a definition of terms. Imperialism is a stage in the development of capitalism--it is monopoly capitalism. Therefore, it is an economic formation. Imperialism is the stage of capitalism where capital accumulation has spilled over the national boundaries. Imperialism is economic, cultural and military aggression against weaker peoples. Because imperialism is an aggressive external force, and generally a military force, there is the possibility of uniting all the patriotic classes against the foreign invaders. This was shown in sharp perspective in the wars of national liberation of Eastern Europe against German imperialism when the Germans attempted to reduce Eastern Europe to the level of colonies. It has been more recently shown in the national front in Vietnam, Korea and China in their struggle against the invader. It should be clear however that all economic formations have, or strive to have, a corresponding political form. Lenin points out:

"The political superstructure of the new economy, of monopoly capitalism (imperialism is monopoly capitalism) is the turn from democracy to political reaction. Democracy corresponds to free competition. Political reaction corresponds to monopoly: finance capital strives for domination, not freedom." Further, Lenin points out, "the political features of imperialism are reaction all along the line."

It should be clear to all that fascism, "the open terrorist dictatorship of the most reactionary, most imperialist sections of finance capital" is the political face of imperialism. It is economic, and sows confusion in the minds of the workers, to keep talking solely about the struggle against an economic formation--be it monopoly capitalism or pre-monopoly capitalism. We have to win the workers to the political struggle. We here are not faced with a foreign invader, we are confronted with a most determined political offensive by monopoly to establish its political domination--to institute "reaction down the line."

Does this mean that we do not support and enter a hemispheric or world wide front against imperialism? Of course we do. We are not at liberty to say what we are doing other than that our party is carrying out its international obligations with honor. We can be assured that our party is the only organization that is doing so with deeds and not simply with mealy-mouthed words about a united front against imperialism while allowing the fascists, and in some cases assisting the fascists, in establishing their dictatorship.

The United Front can only be built in the struggle to defend the rights of each and every sector of the people. Such a front cannot be built unless the working class emerges as the defender of all the oppressed and downtrodden. In this country, in the first place, this means that the working class becomes the most militant and reliable ally of the Negro People's Liberation Movement. At this point we cannot resist pointing out the difference between this slogan of our Party and the way it is put by the CPUSA as well as by their bastard children, the

CAMBODIA LIBERATED

Southeast Asia rages with revolutionary fervor. The triumphant liberation armies have the enemy on the run. Phnom Penh is liberated. The remaining scum from the treacherous regime in the Cambodian capital are pleading for surrender as the victorious Khmer peoples' forces bring down the curtain on the USNA puppets and fully occupy the city. In south Vietnam the national liberation forces are completing the encirclement of Saigon. The road to the last remaining airfield and largest supply depot at Bien Hoa has been cut. Thieu has lost nearly all support among his reactionary clique. Even the ardent militarist and former premier Ky has demanded the resignation of Thieu in order to meet the requirements of the Paris cease-fire agreement. All the world watches as these mighty fortresses of imperialism crumble into sand.

What must be the role of the USNA proletariat at this time of imperialist crisis? We are being told every day that this battle is now out of our arena; that at "best" we can adopt a Vietnamese baby kidnapped from its homeland to supply a humanitarian front for imperialism. But the USNA proletariat can ignore the continuing actions and intentions of the Ford gang only at its own peril!

We must not be lulled into the ridiculous notion that "the tiger has no teeth." The liberation forces in Southeast Asia have succeeded only by fully understanding the enemy, both its strengths and its weaknesses. The inability of the imperialists to reenter the war in force lies in the political necessity to maintain its temporary detente with both the Soviet Union and China in the hopes of "peacefully" grabbing as much of the world at the least cost. It would be foolish to interpret this tremendous victory in any other manner except as a most severe prelude to worldwide imperialist war.

The loss of a war that cost 150 billion dollars, a war that was devastating in its exposure of the aims of imperialism as well as their indifference to the loss of untold millions of lives, along with the loss of strategic military positions can only bring more brazen and desperate acts by US imperialists to control the world.

The Congress has said "no" to military aid but possibly "yes" to so-called humanitarian aid for Vietnam. What is the history of such aid? Is this not the same ploy used to enter the war in the first place? This "good will" now extends to protecting not only US military and paramilitary personnel in Saigon, but, as Mr. Kissinger put it, to the "millions" of pro-US Vietnamese. Even though the stakes of the Ford-Kissinger plans lie in no immediate interference in Vietnam, all of their contingency plans are pointed like a loaded gun to blow the hell out of detente and attack the liberation forces. And the "peace-loving" Congress, as always, is fully prepared to "go to war for humanity." Standing by are 30 USNA warships, one helicopter carrier with a contingent of Marines, two full aircraft carriers and the nuclear attack carrier Enterprise awaits eagerly in the nearby Philippines. Clearly the imperialists see little difference between evacuation and extermination.

CINCO DE MAYO

On May 5, 1862, a valiant battle was fought in the City of Puebla, Mexico. The Mexican people had just won their independence from Spain in 1824, but by 1848 the USNA had already stolen the northern part of Mexico (what today constitutes the Southwest region). The French, British and Spanish aggressors recognized the vast Mexican wealth and wanted it. In 1861, they stormed into Mexico but the Spanish and British made an agreement with the Mexican government and the only troops that remained were French. On April, 1862, the French troops marched towards the capital but they had first to pass through Puebla; they never made it too the capital. On May 5, confronting the mighty French troops, the "weaker," poorly equipped Mexican national liberation forces valiantly fought for their homes and sovereignty and succeeded in driving out the French aggressors.

Today, 113 years later, the militant fighting spirit of the Mexican people continues. This time the aggressors are the vicious money-hungry USNA imperialists. For the imperialists the borders do not exist, except when they need an excuse for deporting undocumented Mexican national workers. They go into Mexico freely, allegedly to help develop Mexico; but they "develop" it for themselves by using the land to grow coffee and sugarcane for profitable export on the world market instead of using the land to grow beans, rice or wheat to keep the people from starving to death.

At a wage of 42¢ an hour, compared to the $5.54 an hour wage the average construction worker in this country earns, who can blame the Mexican worker for migrating to the USNA? Yet Leonard Chapman, head of the Immigration Service, has the audacity to blame the undocumented Mexican nationals for the lack of jobs in this country--jobs which vanished not because of undocumented workers but because of the capitalists' own crisis of overproduction. But Chapman never mentions that the USNA imperialists create the inhuman conditions in Latin America which force workers to come here to feed their families. Chapman, the rest of the imperialists and their lackeys propose to deport the undocumented Mexican nationals, to guard the borders to prevent further entry, and even to tax employers who hire undocumented workers (Rodino Bill). Currently, a similar bill is being proposed in Illinois, without the approval of Illinois citizens, which will not affect employers because of a clause which

The heroic Indochinese peoples have shown us the way. They have added their names to the list of revolutionary achievement and again proved that relentless, conscious and united action can change the world, even in the face of a seemingly more powerful enemy. With the valiant example of the Indochinese people before them, the remaining colonial peoples will push forward their national liberation struggles with increased revolutionary fervor. It is quite true that the enemy's real strength lies only in our weakness.

Now, as these actions of both revolution and reaction unfold, the USNA proletariat must not sit idly by. The proper road can only be to unite the every day struggle for survival with that of the toiling billions of the world. The demand for jobs and peace is our slogan and our iron grasp of the outstretched hand of the Indochinese people.

relieves the employer from charges if he did not know the workers were undocumented. Why then the sudden panic in the bourgeois press, filled with atrocious headlines about the undocumented Mexican nationals? Because the bourgeoisie needs a scapegoat for the crisis and turns once again on the oppressed colonial workers and national minorities!

But the result of the crisis is unemployment, hunger and rebellion. The working class in this country will not sit idly by. They will fight back. That is why the imperialists must launch attacks against the undocumented workers and national minorities--to further aggravate the divisions in the class by whipping up a frenzy of white chauvinist ideology which breeds hatred among workers on the basis of skin color. At the same time, fascist gangs such as the KKK and the Nazi party are surfacing to attack our class. We, the working class, must be clear that white chauvinism is a bourgeois ideology which only lays the groundwork for terror against all workers!

How can we fight the bourgeoisie? By fighting for a decent human life for all, for food in our stomachs, for equal quality education for all children, for open borders, and for jobs with peace!

This Cinco de Mayo let us remember the valiant Mexican fighters in their struggle for a decent life. Let us salute the heroic S.E. Asian peoples in their struggle for liberation and let us fulfill our proletarian internationalist duty by demanding the independence of all nations oppressed by USNA imperialism.

DETROIT BUSING STRUGGLE

Throughout the country busing is an explosive political issue; Detroit is no exception. Already the preliminary skirmishes are being waged in earnest. As in Boston, the NAACP in Detroit has taken the initiative and become a leader in the struggle for busing, setting the pace in the development of the Detroit desegregation plan, with the Detroit Central Board of Education tailing behind.

Although it is the responsibility of the Detroit Central Board of Education to ensure that all children receive equal quality education, what have they done? Facts show that schools of the majority of national minorities receive less money in comparison to other Anglo-American communities. This discrepancy is also found between cities like Detroit and suburbs such as Grosse Pointe. But the Board's efforts have been directed toward developing a very minimal busing program that is restricted within regional boundaries as much as possible. The reasoning behind this program is that community members are alleged to have some control over their schools. But "community control" is merely a sham which keeps communities isolated and does not alter the system of unequal funding of schools. Community control is a mask to protect the inequality between communities.

The bourgeoisie of Detroit is meeting the struggle of the NAACP and other progressive forces on several fronts. Detroit's Mayor Coleman Young and other leaders of local government advocate what is in essence "separate but equal" schools. But the working class knows what "separate but equal" really means--run down schools in Negro communities that are generally unfit for any kind of education. New Detroit, a group of civic leaders acting as the "social action" arm of Detroit's four corporate powers (Renaissance Board, Board of Commerce, Metro Fund and New Detroit) has allied with Mayor Young in an attempt to make the NAACP compromise their tactics and drop their cross-district suit in the busing case.

When they failed to sway the NAACP position, Mayor Young and New Detroit leader Larry Doss applied pressure in another form: People and Responsible Organizations for Detroit (PRO-Detroit). The supposed purpose of this group is to see that any desegregation plan "is implemented peacefully." PRO-Detroit is also trying to pressure the NAACP to alter their plan.

As the school year draws nearer, increased opposition to busing is mounting. In the face of this pressure, the labor faction of the NAACP is already uniting with New Detroit and is pushing to have some of their demands withdrawn, while the Detroit Central Board of Education is scheduled to meet with the NAACP April 21 to compromise on a desegregation plan. While we must fight alongside the NAACP, and all fighters for busing, we must firmly maintain our independent stand in defense of busing, regardless of the compromises these other groupings may devise!

But this is not the only form of opposition to busing. Attacks on busing are the spearhead of the fascist assault on the entire working class. Nowhere is this more clearly seen than in the current offensive being launched by the Ku Klux Klan. Within the last six months there has been an upsurge of Klan activities, linked with the John Birch Society and other fascist groups, particularly in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan as well as Kentucky and Tennessee. At a rally in Knoxville, Tenn., last week, George Kindred, director of the Patriot's Tax Committee and the Layman Education Guild at Law in Michigan, told an audience that private vigilante groups are now necessary. "The only way we can ever hope to win this country back," he told the rally "is to have these possses. The posse should stand ready to hang persons or use guns if necessary! I want to get rid of the niggers and Jews and I'll tell you straight. . . And don't put me in power because I'm going to chew them up into fertilizer!" (Knoxville News-Sentinel, March 31, 1975, p. 12)

At the same time, the Klan has surfaced in the United Mine Workers Union. Union laws make membership in the Klan grounds for expulsion, and with good reason! The Klan is not only anti-Negro, and Anti-Jewish, but anti-labor and anti-union; they were barred from the unions because of their murder of labor organizers. Now these scum demand the right to do their dirtywork within the union! And in New York, it was recently discovered that several prison guards were Klansmen who attempted to organize among the white prisoners.

We must beat back this fascist offensive which only spells the lynch rope and burning stake for all workers! We must fight every move of the Klan to surface, organize and spread their terror!

It is no accident that the Klan is once again surfacing at this time. As the busing issue develops, the just demands of the workers are being greeted with a mounting offensive. The struggle to defend the rights of all children to equal quality education is concretely a defense of the entire working class against this offensive.

At this time the struggle for busing is the struggle for the unity of our class; we cannot allow our class to be further divided! Only by welding a solid united front of all workers and progressive forces in the USNA can we win equal quality education for all children, beat back the fascist offensive and smash the Klan!

NATIONALIZE EDUCATION!
STOP THE KLAN!

NEW MEXICO

NAVAJO WORKERS FIGHT FOR JOBS

For the last two years, Fairchild Semi-conductor (Shiprock, New Mexico), has been laying off workers; on Feb. 21, another 140 workers were notified it was their last day on the job. On Feb. 26, 36 members of the Southwest Chapter of the American Indian Movement (AIM) entered the plant and declared it the property of AIM until the following demands were met: 1) rehiring of all 140 laid-off workers; 2) an end to strip-mining on Indian land, and 3) investigation of Public Service hospital in Shiprock.

Fairchild's reaction to the takeover was a threat of "locating elsewhere" if the Indians didn't leave the plant. The real reason the Fairchild Company has made plans to leave the reservation is because their profit-making began to drop once they had overproduced. Fairchild exploits the "cheap labor" of oppressed colonial peoples throughout the world. Fairchild pays no sales, property or income taxes when locating on Indian land. Under the 1958 Indian Vocational Training Act, the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) pays the minimum wage for every employe during a two year training period, which also includes custodial and clerical jobs.

Company run housing next to the plant is a major issue. The houses are only three years old with roofs blown off some and walls with ½ inch cracks.

It is because of this blatant oppression and exploitation of the Navajo workers (of which 90% are women), that AIM moved to expose Fairchild's practices. The Tribal council's reaction was not a surprise. Chairman MacDonald refused to sanction the AIM activities because plants will only locate on reservations if wages remain low and they are allowed to drive the living standard of the Indian people to nothing.

But many backed the takeover, pointing to the millions of dollars the corporation has made from the labor of the Navajo workers.

With the takeover at Shiprock, the struggle of the Indian people has made a tremendous advance. That attack was aimed squarely at the imperialists while the issues were the issues of workers throughout the USNA fighting for jobs. Imperialism is the cause of the suffering of the Indian peoples just as it is the cause of the suffering of all oppressed and exploited peoples throughout the colonial world and within the capitalist nations. On the reservations the Indian people have been drawn into capitalist production; clearly their struggle can only be aimed against the capitalists. With the takeover at Shiprock the struggle of the Indian people became concretely linked to the struggles of the rest of the USNA working class; these Navajo workers are the link between the Indian peoples' struggle for regional autonomy and the working class movement, and with the fight for jobs, peace and an end to all imperialist oppression. All workers must support the struggles of the Indian peoples and make their own the demand of regional autonomy for the Indian peoples. A strong, united front of struggle with the Indian peoples is an indispensable component of a united front of the entire working class against fascism.

NATIONAL REPORT

New Left. They have put forth the projection, "the working class and the Negro people" and "The Negro People as the main ally of the working class," etc. There is considerable difference between the concept, "the working class and the Negro People's Liberation Movement" and the concept "the working class and the Negro people." The latter formulation makes it appear as if the Negro people are outside of and apart from the working class.

We will never submit to such garbled and chauvinistic conceptions. The finest sons and daughters of the Negro people are in the vanguard of the Anglo American working class. This is a truth for all to see. However, we clearly understand the difference between the Negro peoples' movement and the working class movement. It is precisely this difference that makes it impossible to unite the working class unless that class, or at least the advanced section of that class, comes out in a militant manner in support of and defense of the liberation movement. And why? Simply because the Negro national minority workers provide the link between the Anglo American working class and the liberation movement and they correctly demand that the entire class support that movement.

BUSING

A case in point is the question of busing. This is a crucial question, and we must examine the concept that busing is an issue to split the working class. This projection assumes that the working class is united. There is no need to think up a million dollar scheme to accomplish something that has a two hundred year history and is quite alive and well. This class is not united. However, there is no doubt that the busing question is being used by some groups to deepen the divisions within the class just as some groups are using this issue to unite the class. But if it can be used in either direction then we can cancel it out as a primary reason. Another argument is that the struggle against busing is the struggle to defend the community school system. Everyone, however, is aware that there has always been busing. The wealthy have always been bused to their special schools. Negro children have always been bused past the nearest (Anglo-American) school to their segregated school. Children with special talents or special problems have always been bused. There are plenty such phoney arguments. However we revolutionaries must not be caught up simply disproving the line of the fascists. We have to put forth the independent line of the working class on this question. This line is that the segregation and inequality of the various schools is the result of the matching funds system. We demand that the government take over the educational process. We must do all we can to explain this to the workers and win them over to this position. Only in this way can we defuse this issue.

We have shown time and again that the struggle to maintain the enslavement of the Negro people is a life and death struggle for the imperialists. No one can doubt that the decade of the '60's dealt the imperialists some sharp blows and the Negro peoples liberation movement reached a height never achieved since the Civil War. But we are dealing here with a powerful imperialism and they have proved on more than one occasion that they are quite capable of absorbing a series of sharp blows and standing on their feet. Thus, twenty years of civil rights legislation is now being attacked from the inside. Strategic thinking should convince us that the struggle against busing is nothing less than the opening battle in the struggle against the whole body of civil rights legislation. If we are to talk seriously about building the United Front the way to do it is to plunge into this struggle, explaining this issue, not simply to the Negro workers but to the whole class, and by doing so establish a polarity so the workers can choose between progress and reaction. This should be done in the most forceful and dramatic way possible. The enemy is getting ready--he is gathering his forces and consolidating precisely because there is no real battle against them. The rise of the Klan, the White Peoples Party, the John Birchers and the rest of these gangs must be challenged. We must not allow them to speak unless we refute them. They must not demonstrate unless we counter-demonstrate. If they want to fight us we should leap at their throats. Only in this way, only by confronting them at every turn can we arouse and mobilize the class.

We must be clear and we must clarify the nature of these resurgent fascist movements. The liberals describe the KKK as simply an anti-Negro organization. The trade unionists describe the Klan simply as an anti-labor group. We must show the workers that while the goal of the KKK is the enslavement of the proletariat, their point of attack is the Negro people. The Negro people are the most vulnerable, they are the most isolated and historically the Negro workers have been the point of attack against the rest of the oppressed. Consequently our absolute demand is for every progressive to unflinchingly take a position on this front line and fight it out to the finish.

UNEMPLOYMENT

The struggle for the United Front is the struggle to find that central link in the chain that pulls the entire chain forward evenly. That link today is the campaign against unemployment. Whether it be the Negro Movement, the Mexican National Minority Movement, the movement of the women--the tying factor is the struggle for jobs. That means we must be clear on why there are no jobs and why socialism is necessary to get them.

A face of the struggle against unemployment and fascism is the struggle against deportations. Not only are the Mexican nationals the target for deportations, but also thousands of Polish, Latin American, Greek, Canadian and other nationals. But they are not the real target. The real target is the working class here. In the paper a while ago we saw the suggestion that the documenting of all native born workers would be a weapon against the "illegals". But isn't such documentation a necessary step for all fascist oppression of the working class? Only with such documentation would it be possible to know everything about a worker at a glance. We absolutely must show the workers in general that the first line of defense of their rights is the defense of the Mexican nationals. We have to take the position that everyone in the United States is entitled to constitutional protection. We must fight that every worker receives the going rate in every trade. We must demand jobs and security for all workers. When the capitalists say there isn't enough to go around we have to tell them that that is their problem! Only in this way will the Mexican nationals cease to be a threat to the native born workers; only then can we establish real internationalism which is the first necessity for revolution.

Rising along with the national liberation movements in the country, along with the rising struggle of the unemployed, is the growing struggle of the youth. Everywhere the police are launching an offensive against the millions of unemployed and restless young people. In L.A. it takes the form of the Alpha File; in Chicago there is a computerized program that has the profile of every child in the city by the age of 14. In every major city the police are taking the worst features of Hitler Germany as regards the youth. This is a crucial struggle that must be won or all else will be lost!

CLP

We cannot often enough restate our conception of what our Communist Labor Party must become. For many years there has been the most destructive concepts that (1) the party must be small in order to have a high qualitative level, or (2) that it has to be big without a high qualitative level in order to be a national party. We must walk on both legs of quantity and quality. When we look at the immense tasks we have to perform we see that we have to set our sights on a party of 6 or 7 million people. We cannot perform the task of winning over and imbuing the majority of the people with the ideals of communism with less than that. We need a party that is capable of penetrating all the classes and all aspects of social life in this country. We need a party of working class intellectuals, a party that is theoretically developed, that can find its own way to socialism, a party that is composed of honest decent people because only such a party is capable of organizing everything that is moral and decent in this society.

Above all, we need a militant, fighting party because only such a party is capable of organizing the fighting capacity of the working class. We need a Party that is capable of discipline and yet has the indomitable will to win. Only such a party can lead the people of this huge country into battle against our enemy and achieve victory.

This May Day, as always, we salute the victories of the revolution. We rejoice with all revolutionaries and salute the magnificent victories of the people of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia. With militant solidarity we hail the growing consolidation and revolutionary consciousness of the leading parties of Latin America. The revolutionary upsurge of the inner-party struggle in the socialist countries and the lands of the Peoples Democracies give us great confidence in the future.

On this May Day we greet the world's proletariat and the toiling masses.

Setting out to rally our mighty proletariat, we inscribe on our banners:

OUR DEMAND IS JOBS WITH PEACE!
