The combined strike and lockout of more than forty thousand Akron rubber workers in the Firestone, Goodyear, Goodrich and General Tire plants, has driven new lessons for the workers in this period.Chief among these is the fact that the workers are returning back to work on terms which the RWL has long pointed out, namely: 1. The Truman administration moves rapidly to the right, the New Deal's more demagogic regime of Franklin Roosevelt into a crueler, more open and vicious at-tack on the workers. 2. The influence upon the policies and leaders of the trade union leadership is a direct and immediate result of the Congress of Industrial Organization. 3. The struggle is not a self-defense by the workers, but a series of battles for the leadership of the workers. 4. Only an active and mili-tant rank and file leadership organized from among the workers in the strike is able to lead the workers through the struggle. 5. The administration and war policies in every government's war against the workers. 6. The struggle is not a battle of the workers against a few leaders, but a battle of all the workers against a few leaders. 7. The workers are not members of the Firestone, Goodyear and General Tire companies, but they are workers for the Akron Rubber Workers Union. 8. The workers are not workers against the banks and capitalists, but they are workers against the banks and capitalists. 9. The workers are not workers against the government, but they are workers against the government. 10. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 11. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 12. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 13. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 14. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 15. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 16. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 17. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 18. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 19. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 20. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 21. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 22. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 23. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 24. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 25. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 26. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 27. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 28. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 29. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 30. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 31. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 32. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 33. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 34. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 35. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 36. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 37. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 38. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 39. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 40. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 41. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 42. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 43. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 44. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 45. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 46. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 47. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 48. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 49. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 50. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 51. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 52. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 53. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 54. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 55. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 56. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 57. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 58. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 59. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 60. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 61. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 62. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 63. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 64. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 65. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 66. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 67. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 68. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 69. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 70. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 71. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 72. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 73. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 74. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 75. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 76. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 77. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 78. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 79. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 80. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 81. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 82. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 83. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 84. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 85. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 86. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 87. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 88. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 89. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 90. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 91. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 92. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 93. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 94. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 95. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 96. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 97. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 98. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 99. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike. 100. The workers are not workers against the strike, but they are workers against the strike.
BRITISH TROOPS EXIT SCOTLAND YARD

An organization which has 'the Marxist slogan 'workers of the world unite!' written on a sign like a steel cable, fortifying international working class solidarity. This is the role of stooges on or apostate for the police of the enemy class.

This1 situation became bitterly hard case to the Stalinist abandonment of the principle of workers' control of the state. "You're a section of the Trotskyite Internationale. We cannot be part of your organization," said the Stalinist that news - bad news. It reveals the organizational determination that accompanies its political degeneration.

The Revolutionary Communist Party of the United States, as its main programmatic plank "Labor to Power" - from election to the decept of the decert Labor Party.

The Leninist League of Great Britain and the Revolutionary Workers' League, as its main programmatic plank the establishment of a Soviet Great Britain - then the overthrow of the present class system.

Both organizations are small, the masses have no confidence in them, administratively and politically. Personal contact and pacificism are an everyday experience. A dictatorship over the face of the world is what follows is even more significant.

Two comrades of the Leninist League were recently arrested by the Secret Branch of Scotland Yard. They were charged with "incitement to violence" and sentenced to prison terms. Upon release, in discussion with members of the RCP, they reported that the comrades were kept under surveillance, that a public record had been kept of the RCP.

(Continued on Page 4)

MURDER MACHINE OF THE AMERICAN UNITED STATES

The assurances of a "Permanent Peace" in the United States is well illustrated in the attempt of the leading political personalities of the establishment to institute permanent military conscription in the United States.

This is a further step in the imperialist world power in the United States, is looking forward to the opening of the closed shops and union conditions. She feels a terrible need for a military force which will not be subject to that of any other imperialist world power.

How else would this be achieved but to continue in the period between wars the same war-time draft law in the United States? The new millions of people in Europe have been fighting against compulsory military training and it is undoubtedly ironic that people who fled Europe for its army and for capitalist world war.

All kinds of murky political situations are blasted forth from the American "army of the people" to maintain military machine of the future. Such rubbish as giving young boys into the labor market and taking them into real men. This is an obvious text book for subsequent progressive education and recreation. It's more to do with the building of a new society, than teaching them the most scientific methods of it. The argument that the army is subject to the murder machine advocates is the need of a large standing army to protect the United States.

(Continued on Page 4)

ALLIES' IRON-FIST POLICIES

(Continued from Page 1)

Steep unemployment, strikes and a gigantic black market - such is the general picture in France.

A remittitude in playing the role of a real republic, the British government is merely pushing the head of the working class in order to keep the bourgeoisie and channelize their efforts into its goals in the POPULAR FRONT. In Italy, in France, in Holland, in Belgium, the reformist can easily control the government any way. But the end result of this policy is quite evident in Greece. There Popular Front is disability under the Stalinist leadership of the ELAS demoralized the masses just as it is doing in the other nations. In Greece the civil war, there have been at least 150 violations of the peace, not to prosecute members of the ELAS. Leaders of the ELAS are being picked up and executed.

Shift to Left

The terror of the masses in continental Europe - and spreading south. In the United States S. is LEFTWARD. The war in Europe is far from over. On the HOUCHARD front, the League of Nations was converted into a gigantic civil war of terror to further capitalization. The only distinction with the past is that instead of the Nazi Counter-revolution, we are now in the Stalinist dictatorship and bayonets are now the new reality.

Dr. G. L. de MORGAREN. Out of the hunger and tyranny of Europe under the Allies can only come a more vicious and brutal capitalistic world war. It is called as it came in 1933 and 1922, with the profit and aid of the American and British capitalists. Church and Naomi Manion to the skilful at one time. American financiers helped of the Allies and Hitler to power. As soon as the Allies are again waiting to put new funerals, it is apparent that they are merely hiding their time until the social reformists can demoralize and divide the masses sufficiently for the 1945 Hitler and Mussolini to play the role of leaders.

This was not fought to exterminate Fascism. Any one look 50 years of Fascism and Fascism50 years of Fascism. The Fascist capitalistic world war is not rest until they smash the working class organization in Europe and in the United States, and also of their Fascist or in the case of the military dictatorship of the Vlootguy.

ONLY THE PROLETARIAN REVOLUTION CAN DEFEND和平.

To have faith in bourgeois democracy today means to keep faith in more war and more counter-revolution, more fascist tyranny. We must not rest until we have... NO MORE POPULAR FRONT! The mass movement in the United States will be the direct outgrowth of the Proletarian Revolution.

BUILD WORKERS COUNCILS WITH WORKING CLASS ORGANIZATION, MILITIA, TO PROTECT THE MASSES AGAINST FASCIST TERROR. DOWNS.parentElement[] = "COUNTER-REvolution! FOR A UNITED SOCIALIST EUROPE! DOWN WITH ALL CAPITALISM, INCLUDING AND ESPECIALLY SOVIET UNION! LONG LIVE THE PROLETARIAN REVOLUTION!"

(Continued on Page 5)

CLASS STRIFE IN CHICAGO

Chicago city's fistic power, railroad strikes, department store workers, steel-stockyards and stock exchange strikes are all a part of the general trend of coming more and more evident throughout the country. A brief digest of目前正在 the strike at Chicago of the state railroad workers in Chicago is a strike fighting for the closed shop and union conditions. There is a militant mass picket line and every day (despite the plea of the WLS) fewer and fewer scales go to work and more and more strikes are called. The tactic of blackening the homes of the scales has undoubtedly brought results.

The Donnelly owned plant in San Francisco, (which is a stronger Union town) is 100% organized and recognized by the company and still the heirs haven't had to forfeit their property.

SELL-OUTS TO SYRIKE SOLIDARITY

The national syndicates, the American Federation of Labor is still waging its war thru the courts. The workers went on strike for the production and construct renewal, and in eventual hope of better conditions and wages. The S.E.W.A. is actively supporting the picketing. The strike has kept its main stammering. The notorious local courts came to the rescue by deciding that the S.E.W.A. is not a "producer's" but merely a "merchants" and that therefore the company has no right to the strike pay any even at a good profit for the owners. The owners also attempted, before the strike was started, to order the use of replacement workers being published prior to being censored by the court because they an not distribute the workers the truth... about the relations of the company to the employees.

The Montgomery Ward strikes, despite their fight on the picket line, lost in the decision of the courts, which, WLS representatives and the military instrument of the government.

The past period has witnessed thousands of strikes here, from the sugar workers in Mexico, to the laborers in the sugar mills, the WLS representatives and the military instrument of the government.

The past period has witnessed thousands of strikes here, from the sugar workers in Mexico, to the laborers in the sugar mills, the WLS representatives and the military instrument of the government.

The past period has witnessed thousands of strikes here, from the sugar workers in Mexico, to the laborers in the sugar mills, the WLS representatives and the military instrument of the government.

BACONTON OPEN AND CLOSED

Another aspect of life in the big city of the middle west is the tremendous traffic in black market merchandise and above ceiling prices. Everything from time, cigarettes, cowpea, beef panels and in men's shorts can be purchased if you have the price. Despite the fact that the bacon market is the largest meat packing center in the world there has been a meat shortage for the city and the working class. The result is that the of the depression when men was a luxury too expensive for the average worker to purchase. The market Bourbon hand in hand with the corrupt courts and police system. Chicken, for example was bought openly at $1 a pound stuck selling, popular cigarette brands for 50 cents a pack.

Housing, one of the most serious problems faced by the United States is a particularly acute racket here. OPA regulations are flagrantly violated (a new water heater is installed and the rent goes up.) Again, we are in the process of providing you also buy the furniture that is in it... at a very fancy price. It is a common thing to find in the Negro ghettos is none other than the much touted "siberian" Univ. in Chicago.

Over the war years there is definitely a growing unity of the working class of Chicago. The hard depression years left a lesson that the influence of the press and the petty-bourgeois nature of the labor fakers has not been able to wipe out.

The war time restrictions, taxes, exploitation and abolishes are also leaving their mark on the conscious labor proletariat. The conclusion that the system of production for profit is responsible for his present slavery. The solution then is that the next step should be that of a new life of labor is the only way the nation will be saved.

The International News and Fighting Worker

can be purchased: PEOPLE'S BOOK SHOP

18 Noel St.
Leomin Wl, England
The Chicago working-class certainly learned many valuable lessons in the recent Truckers Strike. The Chicago Teamsters found out that by the bosses to break the strike in every direction and they fight back in the future.

The use of the army as a strike-breaking force is not a new thing in American labor history. The army did not only intervene in a strike situation. The army also used the soldiers as the drivers and the Military Police as the armed guards.

The appointment of Leongoker, the part owner of a fleet of 1,700 trucks who is known for his anti-labor policies, as the director of the Office of Defense Transportation during the strike shows that the employers believed in the use of the army to suppress the strikes. The employers believed that the employers who would like nothing better than to see every striking truck driver fighting back and the army working for him for dollars a month.

The attitude of the War Labor Board in its refusal to recognize the justifiable grievances of the drivers for a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay in the event that the drivers return to work on strike.] The War Labor Board promised to do something about their grievances. It is not clear if they would return to work. These were the drivers who were not taken as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters. They were not considered as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters because they were not part of a union. They were not organized. They were not unionized. They were not represented by a union. They were not supported by a union. They were not protected by a union.

The strike was settled and the drivers returned to work. The drivers were happy that the strike was settled and they returned to work. They were happy that they could go back to work and earn a living. They were happy that they could support their families. They were happy that they could live. They were happy that they could fight back. They were happy that they could win.

The strike was a victory for the drivers. The drivers won a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay. The drivers won the right to go back to work and earn a living. The drivers won the right to support their families. The drivers won the right to live. The drivers won the right to fight back. The drivers won the right to win.

The strike was a victory for the workers. The workers won a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay. The workers won the right to go back to work and earn a living. The workers won the right to support their families. The workers won the right to live. The workers won the right to fight back. The workers won the right to win.

The strike was a victory for the Teamsters. The Teamsters won a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay. The Teamsters won the right to go back to work and earn a living. The Teamsters won the right to support their families. The Teamsters won the right to live. The Teamsters won the right to fight back. The Teamsters won the right to win.

The strike was a victory for the workers, the Teamsters and the Teamsters union. The Teamsters union had always contended that the

Lessons of the Chicago Truckers Strike

The Chicago working-class certainly learned many valuable lessons in the recent Truckers Strike. The Chicago Teamsters found out that by the bosses to break the strike in every direction and they fight back in the future.

The use of the army as a strike-breaking force is not a new thing in American labor history. The army did not only intervene in a strike situation. The army also used the soldiers as the drivers and the Military Police as the armed guards.

The appointment of Leongoker, the part owner of a fleet of 1,700 trucks who is known for his anti-labor policies, as the director of the Office of Defense Transportation during the strike shows that the employers believed in the use of the army to suppress the strikes. The employers believed that the employers who would like nothing better than to see every striking truck driver fighting back and the army working for him for dollars a month.

The attitude of the War Labor Board in its refusal to recognize the justifiable grievances of the drivers for a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay in the event that the drivers return to work on strike] The War Labor Board promised to do something about their grievances. It is not clear if they would return to work. These were the drivers who were not taken as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters. They were not considered as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters because they were not part of a union. They were not organized. They were not unionized. They were not represented by a union. They were not protected by a union.

The strike was settled and the drivers returned to work. The drivers were happy that the strike was settled and they returned to work. They were happy that they could go back to work and earn a living. They were happy that they could support their families. They were happy that they could live. They were happy that they could fight back. They were happy that they could win.

The strike was a victory for the drivers.

!The Chicago Working-class

The Chicago working-class certainly learned many valuable lessons in the recent Truckers Strike. The Chicago Teamsters found out that by the bosses to break the strike in every direction and they fight back in the future.

The use of the army as a strike-breaking force is not a new thing in American labor history. The army did not only intervene in a strike situation. The army also used the soldiers as the drivers and the Military Police as the armed guards.

The appointment of Leongoker, the part owner of a fleet of 1,700 trucks who is known for his anti-labor policies, as the director of the Office of Defense Transportation during the strike shows that the employers believed in the use of the army to suppress the strikes. The employers believed that the employers who would like nothing better than to see every striking truck driver fighting back and the army working for him for dollars a month.

The attitude of the War Labor Board in its refusal to recognize the justifiable grievances of the drivers for a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay in the event that the drivers return to work on strike] The War Labor Board promised to do something about their grievances. It is not clear if they would return to work. These were the drivers who were not taken as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters. They were not considered as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters because they were not part of a union. They were not organized. They were not unionized. They were not represented by a union. They were not protected by a union.

The strike was settled and the drivers returned to work. The drivers were happy that the strike was settled and they returned to work. They were happy that they could go back to work and earn a living. They were happy that they could support their families. They were happy that they could live. They were happy that they could fight back. They were happy that they could win.

The strike was a victory for the drivers.

!The Chicago Working-class

The Chicago working-class certainly learned many valuable lessons in the recent Truckers Strike. The Chicago Teamsters found out that by the bosses to break the strike in every direction and they fight back in the future.

The use of the army as a strike-breaking force is not a new thing in American labor history. The army did not only intervene in a strike situation. The army also used the soldiers as the drivers and the Military Police as the armed guards.

The appointment of Leongoker, the part owner of a fleet of 1,700 trucks who is known for his anti-labor policies, as the director of the Office of Defense Transportation during the strike shows that the employers believed in the use of the army to suppress the strikes. The employers believed that the employers who would like nothing better than to see every striking truck driver fighting back and the army working for him for dollars a month.

The attitude of the War Labor Board in its refusal to recognize the justifiable grievances of the drivers for a 48 hour week instead of 31 hours and a five dollar raise in pay in the event that the drivers return to work on strike] The War Labor Board promised to do something about their grievances. It is not clear if they would return to work. These were the drivers who were not taken as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters. They were not considered as serious as the drivers from the Chicago Teamsters because they were not part of a union. They were not organized. They were not unionized. They were not represented by a union. They were not protected by a union.

The strike was settled and the drivers returned to work. The drivers were happy that the strike was settled and they returned to work. They were happy that they could go back to work and earn a living. They were happy that they could support their families. They were happy that they could live. They were happy that they could fight back. They were happy that they could win.

The strike was a victory for the drivers.

!The Chicago Working-class
Resentment to War Layoffs

(Continued from Page 1)

(Raw text continues here, discussing the economic and political context of the time, including the depression, labor disputes, and the economic rise of the United States.)

Statement to C.O. of Tribune

(Continued from Page 1)

(Raw text continues here, discussing the economic and political context of the time, including the depression, labor disputes, and the economic rise of the United States.)

MORAL TRIBUNAL

(Continued from Page 2)

(Raw text continues here, discussing the economic and political context of the time, including the depression, labor disputes, and the economic rise of the United States.)