Armistice Between Israel and Egypt Opens Way for Peace in Palestine

By AL FINLEY

Pooling its efforts to bring about an armistice between Israel and Egypt, the United Nations Security Council called a cease-fire in the Middle East conflict and began the first Arab-Catholic formal talks to settle the war, and, by implication, recognize Israel.

The armistice lines are almost the same as at the present actual truce lines, with this difference—that broad areas are limited to “defensive” forces with tankless tanks. One city is demilitarized. Israel is allowed to retain a small police force in the safety of the armistice area.

Territorial changes, which are expected to be announced in the future, will be considered. The Egyptian army will be limited to the Suez Canal area, but will be allowed to retain limited numbers elsewhere.

The armistice agreement also provides that the territories are subject to the armistice line, but must be allowed to have a local government.

The armistice agreement was signed by representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, and the United Kingdom. The agreement provides for the exchange of military personnel and the establishment of a joint commission to examine the terms of the agreement.

The agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Peacekeeping Force to be stationed in the armistice area. The force will be responsible for maintaining peace and security in the area.

The joint United Nations Peacekeeping Force will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Security Council to monitor the implementation of the agreement. The council will be responsible for enforcing the terms of the agreement and taking action to ensure that the agreement is carried out.

The joint United Nations Security Council will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Economic Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Economic Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Cultural Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Cultural Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Social Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Social Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Health Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Health Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Educational Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Educational Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Research Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Research Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Legal Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Legal Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Technical Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Technical Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Communications Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Communications Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Transportation Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Transportation Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations Environmental Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations Environmental Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International Legal Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International Legal Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International Technical Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International Technical Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International Transportation Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International Transportation Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International Environmental Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International Environmental Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International Legal Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International Legal Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International Technical Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International Technical Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International Transportation Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International Transportation Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International Environmental Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International Environmental Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International Legal Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International Legal Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International Technical Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International Technical Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International Transportation Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International Transportation Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International Environmental Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International Environmental Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.

The armistice agreement also provides for the establishment of a joint United Nations International International International International Commission to examine the terms of the agreement. The commission will be responsible for ensuring that the terms of the agreement are carried out.

The joint United Nations International International International International Commission will be under the command of a United Nations representative, and will include representatives from all the states that are parties to the armistice agreement.
Laborsite News and Views from the Labor Front -

Philby Strike Sequeal Vital to Labor

By JOSEPH WILLIAMS

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28—The entire labor scene here lingers in suspense today over the outcome of the strike that the Philby workers began on February 18. The strike, which the MMEDI union has ordered, is the first of its kind in the labor movement.

The strike, which began Monday, has been called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, has been called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners, has been called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which affects about 1,000 workers, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.

The strike, which began Monday, was called by the MMEDI union to protest the company's refusal to grant a wage increase of 10 cents an hour to the Miners. The company has offered a 5-cent increase, but the union has rejected it.
Push Russification of Eastern Europe

by JACOB RABAB

The end of the war, the end of the era, the countries of Eastern Europe are still trying to take on a new life. After all, nearly half of the Slavic population of the Soviet Union is Slavic. It is a difficult period of the Stalinist crisis, when the ideological and economic structures of the new society are being put under strain. This is when the cultural and political leaders of the Slavs were split by a Stalinist who may never have been a Hitler. It is a time of strain and tension, a time when the new society is being tested.
What Future for American Socialism?

By R. FABAN

In his book, "Socialism, Past and Future," the famous French politician and revolutionary, Jean Jaurès, described socialism as "the doctrine which aims at the establishment of a society characterized by the absence of class distinctions and the enslavement of laborers." He went on to explain that socialism is "the only genuine movement of the working class, the only true social reform, the only hope for humanity." Jaurès died in World War I, but his ideas continue to inspire socialists around the world.

PROPOSES SUICIDE

In an interesting article in the January 1918 issue of the socialist journal, The New Yorker, author R. F. Faban proposes suicide as a solution to the problems faced by the working class.

"The only solution to the problems of the working class, in Faban's view, is to end one's own life. By doing so, he argues, the individual worker can gain the attention of the masses, who are, as he puts it, "the true masters of the world." Faban's argument is based on the idea that the working class is the driving force behind social change, and that by sacrificing one's own life, one can inspire others to join the struggle for a better world.

The Simple Truth

In Faban's view, the working class is the only group capable of changing society, and suicide is a necessary tool in the fight against capitalism.

Jaurès's vision of a socialist future

Jaurès believed that socialism was not just a theory, but a practical solution to the problems of society. He saw the working class as the true masters of the world, and he believed that they could bring about a better society by uniting and working together.

The Jaurès factor

Jaurès was a significant influence on the development of socialist ideas in France, and his ideas continue to inspire socialists around the world. His work has been translated into many languages, and his ideas have been adapted to fit the needs of different societies.

The socialist ideal

For Jaurès, socialism was not just a political ideal, but a way of life. He believed that the socialist society would be based on equality, cooperation, and the commons. He saw the state as a tool for social change, and he believed that it should be used to bring about a better society.

In conclusion

Jaurès's ideas continue to inspire socialists around the world, and his vision of a socialist future remains relevant today. His ideas have been adapted to fit the needs of different societies, and his work has been translated into many languages. His ideas continue to inspire socialists around the world, and his vision of a socialist future remains relevant today.