Reveals the Real Identity of Leon Trotsky's Assassin

by JULIAN GORKIN

This book, the product of a careful investigation, and based on the official and eyewitness reports and on the statements of those who were actually present, brings to light the real identity of Leon Trotsky's assassin.

What is the real identity of "Cyril Morgan" or "Shishim"? Him who organized Leon Trotsky's murder and who is leading the anti-Russian propaganda campaign of the Western Powers? In this book, the author, a successful Russian writer and a leading journalist, reveals the secret identity of this criminal for the first time. It is written by Julian Gorkin, who is well known as a leading socialist publisher and editor who has been active in the anti-war movement since the beginning of the war. He has also been a close associate of Leon Trotsky and other leading socialists.

The story is told in three parts: the first describes the events leading up to the assassination; the second tells of the plot and its execution; and the third portrays the trial and its aftermath. The book is based on extensive research and on interviews with witnesses who were present on the scene.

The author, writing in a straightforward and unemotional style, presents the facts as he has learned them. The book is a valuable contribution to the study of this important event in world history.

Smith Act Key To Prosecution in Trial of 11

by WYATT LEE

The Smith Act, a law that makes it a crime to be an advocate of the overthrow of the government, was the key to the prosecution of 11 defendants in a trial that ended with the conviction of 5 of them. The defendants, members of the Communist Party of the United States, were charged with conspiring to overthrow the government.

The prosecution argued that the defendants had violated the Smith Act by using their newspapers and other publications to advocate the overthrow of the government. The defendants were represented by a team of lawyers who argued that the Smith Act was unconstitutional and that the defendants should be acquitted.

The jury, which had been selected from a pool of 5000 people, was instructed by the judge to consider only the evidence presented in the case and not to be influenced by any opinions or propaganda.

The trial lasted for 5 months and was one of the longest in the history of the United States. The defendants, who were all members of the Communist Party, were charged with sedition and conspiracy.

The case was brought by the United States government, which had received a tip from a former member of the Communist Party.

FE Convention Defies CIO Order

A vote from Chicago, as we go to press, shows that the United Auto Workers has not capitulated to the International's demands for an immediately called convention. The UAW has opposed all attempts by the two-year-old CIO to secure an immediate convention.

FE members, who are employed in the production and assembly plants of the Packard-Buick division of the General Motors Company, held their first meeting here in the early fall and have been in regular session since then. The meeting is scheduled for Monday here.

The FE convention adopted another resolution calling for the immediate conven- tion. This was referred to the local advisory committee for consideration. The next meeting of the convention will be held here on Monday.

The vote of the convention will be reported to the International Socialists and then to the Executive Committee of the Industrial Workers of the World in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 15 - The United Auto Workers, in a resolution adopted at the meeting of the convention of the UAW in Chicago, declared that the convention is not a substitute for the International Socialists and then to the Executive Committee of the Industrial Workers of the World in Chicago.

The Warsaw Ghetto: 63 Heroid Days

The Warsaw Ghetto had been established by the Nazis as a concentration camp for Jews from all over Poland. The city had been surrounded by barbed wire fences and guarded by German soldiers. The conditions were inhumane and without hope. The Jews were subjected to forced labor, starvation, and medical experiments. The German authorities had strict regulations in place to control the population and prevent any escapes. The Ghetto was one of the most overcrowded and poorly maintained places in Europe, with many people living in cramped and unsanitary conditions.

Polish Regime Murders Bund

The Polish regime had been working closely with the Nazis to suppress any resistance movements. The Polish authorities had set up special units to arrest and deport Jews to the Ghetto. They had also established concentration camps in other parts of Poland to hold kulaks and other political opponents. The Polish government had been collaborating with the Nazis to maintain order and prevent any uprisings.

Stalinist “Peace” Conference Flows

The conference had been called to discuss the situation in Eastern Europe and to establish a new order after WWII. The participants included representatives from the Soviet Union, Poland, Hungary, Romania, and Bulgaria. The conference had been convened under strict supervision by the Soviet authorities, and any dissenting views were suppressed. The conference had been dominated by the Soviet agenda, and any attempts to discuss the human rights abuses in the Ghetto or other parts of Europe had been rejected.

South American Investors

Many South American investors had been looking for new opportunities after the war. The European economies had been devastated, and many industries had been destroyed. The Soviet Union had been offering preferential trade agreements to attract new business. The Polish authorities had also been promoting their country as a new investment destination. The South American investors had been interested in the potential for trade and investment in Poland, and some had even established businesses in the country.

Tragedy in Berlin

The Berlin airlift had been a major logistical operation to supply food and other necessities to the residents of the city. The airlift had been a success, and the city had been able to avoid a famine. The airlift had been a symbol of the international community's commitment to help those affected by the war. However, the Berlin airlift had also been a source of tensions between the Soviet Union and the United States. The Soviet authorities had been blocking attempts to extend the airlift, and the United States had been pressing for an end to the blockade.

China Strategy

One of the most important aspects of the Chinese strategy is the recognition that its economy is still dependent on exports. The Chinese government has been working hard to diversify its economy away from exports, but it is clear that this is a long-term goal and not something that can be achieved overnight. The Chinese government has been investing heavily in infrastructure, education, and technology, all of which are necessary for long-term economic growth. However, the Chinese economy remains heavily dependent on exports, and this is reflected in the country's balance of payments, which shows a significant trade surplus.

New Split

The Chinese government has recently announced plans to cut interest rates, which could be seen as a signal of信心 in the economy. This move is likely to be welcomed by businesses and investors, who have been concerned about the impact of the trade war on the Chinese economy. The Chinese government has also been working to improve the business environment, with efforts to simplify regulations and reduce bureaucracy.

Smith Act Key to Prosecution Case in CP Trial

The Smith Act is a federal law that makes it a crime to conspire to advocate the violent overthrow of the government. The act was in effect from 1940 to 1970 and was used extensively to prosecute individuals and organizations, including the Communist Party, for their political beliefs.

Lazarin Letter

The Lazarin letter was a letter written by President Lyndon B. Johnson to Congress in 1967, in which he requested authority to use military force in Vietnam. The letter was not officially released until 2017, when it was declassified by the National Archives and Records Administration. The letter is significant because it provides insight into the decision-making process of the United States government during the Vietnam War.
