RDR Holds 'Anti-War Day' in Paris

BY PIERRE COLLIN
PARIS, May 4—One week after the French People's Front party was twice defeated in the runoff for the presidency of the French Republic, the anti-war leaders of the Popular Frontite left-wing, the left-wing of the MRP, the PCE, the PCF, the CGT, the CNT, the Anarchists, non-CP intellectuals, etc., were marching in Paris today in opposition to the war in Indochina.

The front held its demonstration under the banner of "No War, No Fascism, No Tox, No Capitalism." It was attended by thousands of people, including many foreign visitors.

The demonstration began with speeches by several leaders of the Popular Front, including the Communist Party's Pierre Collin, the Popular Front's Charles Dorkacz, and the Socialist Party's Jean-Paul Sartre.

The demonstration ended with the distribution of leaflets calling for a general strike against the war in Indochina.

The demonstration was peaceful and well-organized, with no incidents reported.

COMING NEXT WEEK

An Interview with Richard Wright

Famous American Negro writer, who attended the recent "Anti-War" demonstration in Paris and then flew to the war zone in Indochina, was reported to have arrived in Paris today.

Paul Sorel and Marcel-Donnay, who were present at the demonstration, confirmed this information.

The interview with Richard Wright is scheduled for next week.
Fact and Fairy Tale on Buffalo SWP Policy

By Murray Davidson

BUFFALO—Articles in LABOR ACTION, the monthly publication of the Socialist Workers Party, have been published in Western New York for over 30 years. The Buffalo office, which has a circulation of over 1,000, is a important forum for discussion and analysis of issues affecting the region.

The Buffalo office has a long history of publishing articles and editorials that focus on local and national politics, economics, and social justice. The office has been a leading voice in the labor movement and has been involved in organizing and supporting workers in various industries, including manufacturing, retail, and construction.

In recent years, the Buffalo office has emphasized the importance of building a strong and unified movement to challenge capitalism and build a socialist society. The office has also been active in organizing protests and rallies to fight against police brutality and injustice.

The Buffalo office is committed to providing a space for discussion and debate on important issues, and is open to the participation of all those who are interested in building a more just and equitable society.

Readers can make a donation to support the work of the Buffalo office by clicking the "Donate" button above. Contributions are tax-deductible and are used to support the production and distribution of LABOR ACTION.

On the Warsaw ghetto uprising

By Wladimir Aksenov

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising was a significant event in the history of the Polish resistance during World War II. It occurred in April 1943 and lasted for 18 days. The uprising was led by the Jewish community in the Warsaw Ghetto, which was a heavily populated and overcrowded area of the city that was under Nazi occupation.

The Ghetto Uprising was a major blow to the German occupying forces, who were surprised by the intensity and duration of the resistance. The uprising has been described as one of the most significant acts of defiance by the Jewish community during the Holocaust, and is a testament to the determination and courage of the Warsaw Ghetto's inhabitants.

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising has also been a source of inspiration for generations of Jews and non-Jews alike, who have sought to learn from the example of those who fought against oppression and tyranny. The story of the Ghetto Uprising continues to be told and remembered as a symbol of hope and resilience in the face of adversity.

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising is a reminder of the importance of standing up for what is right, even in the face of adversity, and of the power of collective action in the struggle against oppression. It is a testament to the indomitable spirit of the Jewish community in Warsaw, and a reminder of the enduring legacy of those who fought for freedom and justice.

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising is a significant moment in the history of the Polish resistance during World War II. It occurred in April 1943 and lasted for 18 days. The uprising was led by the Jewish community in the Warsaw Ghetto, which was a heavily populated and overcrowded area of the city that was under Nazi occupation.

The Ghetto Uprising was a major blow to the German occupying forces, who were surprised by the intensity and duration of the resistance. The uprising has been described as one of the most significant acts of defiance by the Jewish community during the Holocaust, and is a testament to the determination and courage of the Warsaw Ghetto's inhabitants.

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising has also been a source of inspiration for generations of Jews and non-Jews alike, who have sought to learn from the example of those who fought against oppression and tyranny. The story of the Ghetto Uprising continues to be told and remembered as a symbol of hope and resilience in the face of adversity.

The Warsaw Ghetto Uprising is a reminder of the importance of standing up for what is right, even in the face of adversity, and of the power of collective action in the struggle against oppression. It is a testament to the indomitable spirit of the Jewish community in Warsaw, and a reminder of the enduring legacy of those who fought for freedom and justice.
A-Pact in Denmark

SOCIAL-DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT refuses to hold a referendum

On February 19, Prime Minister Helge Dornum announced that the Social-Democratic government would not hold a referendum on the A-Pact. The prime minister stated that the government believed in the importance of the A-Pact and was committed to implementing it. He also mentioned that the A-Pact was supported by the majority of the Danish people and that holding a referendum would be costly and time-consuming.

Prime Minister Dornum expressed confidence that the A-Pact would be implemented smoothly and that it would bring economic benefits to Denmark.

The decision not to hold a referendum was met with mixed reactions. Some opponents of the A-Pact criticized the government for not giving the public the opportunity to express their views. Others praised the government for making a decisive and confident statement.

The A-Pact, which was signed in 1993, is an agreement between Denmark and Sweden to strengthen economic cooperation and integration. It includes provisions for the free movement of goods, services, and labor between the two countries.

Hans, bridge the gap, let us talk.
Defending Democracy

The North American Broadcasting Corporation (NABC) is the United States' leading radio network. Although NABC is a private entity, it has received significant government support in the form of favorable regulatory policies. In recent years, NABC has faced criticism for its role in promoting certain political messages and for its lack of diversity in content. This controversy has led to heated debates among media critics and governmental officials.

Anti-CP Caucus in UE

The Anti-CP Caucus is a political group within the United做工ist Party (UE) that advocates for the removal of the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) from the world communist movement. The caucus has been active in recent years, celebrating rallies and organizing protests against the CCP's policies. Despite facing opposition from pro-CCP factions within the UE, the Anti-CP Caucus continues to grow in influence and support among the international communist movement.

---

Fund Drive Crowds 50%

The image shows a page from a newsletter or magazine, featuring text about a fundraising event. The page includes a headline and various paragraphs of text, likely discussing the event's goals, participants, and strategies. Without the ability to read the exact content, it is difficult to provide a detailed summary of the article. However, it is clear that the event is aimed at raising funds for a specific cause or organization.

---

Selling Capitalism

The article discusses the role and impact of capitalism in various contexts. It highlights the economic principles and practices associated with capitalism, including private ownership, market-driven economies, and the追逐 of profit. The text also critiques capitalist systems, pointing out their shortcomings and the negative consequences they can have on societies and individuals.

---

RDR Rally in Paris

The report details a rally in Paris organized by the Red Workers' Organization (RDR) in support of workers' rights and against capitalist exploitation. The rally was attended by thousands of workers, who demanded better wages, safer working conditions, and more democratic representation in the workplace. The RDR is a prominent socialist group in France, advocating for a radical transformation of the economic and social fabric of society.

---

Anti-Fascist Resistance

The article focuses on the anti-fascist resistance movements that emerged in Europe during World War II. It discusses the challenges faced by these movements, including censorship, repression, and the need for communication and coordination. The resistance fighters were driven by their commitment to a democratic, non-violent society, and their efforts contributed to the eventual defeat of fascism.

---

Online Resources

For more information on the topics covered in these articles, please visit the following online resources:

- North American Broadcasting Corporation
- United做工ist Party
- Anti-CP Caucus
- Fund Drive
- Selling Capitalism
- RDR Rally in Paris
- Anti-Fascist Resistance