LEWIS ASKS JOINT LABOR FUND TO AID STEEL STRIKE

By SUSAN GREEN

This past week John L. Lewis, president of the Steelworkers' and other labor leaders, began a round of intensive talks with 150 of the 170 unions in America. The result was an agreement that the Steelworkers' fund would take in the entire amount of the strike. The Steelworkers' fund is one of the largest in the United States, with a membership of nearly 6,000,000 people in 170 different unions.

Discontent Spreads in UAW Ranks Against Ford Contract Provisions

By WAYNE JASON

DETROIT, Oct. 1.—Important union leaders in the United Automobile Workers of America, the United Steelworkers of America, and the United Mine Workers of America, held a meeting in this city yesterday to discuss the current labor situation. The meeting was attended by a number of prominent union leaders, including John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

THE CONTRACT IS LOOSE

There is a strong movement among the workers to organize unions in the factories. The United Mine Workers of America, for example, has organized a number of new plants in the Midwest, and the United Auto Workers have organized a number of new plants in the East. The United Mine Workers have also organized a number of new plants in the West, and the United Auto Workers have organized a number of new plants in the South.

This is What Stalin Means!

Stalin is the leader of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union, and he is the man who has been ruling the country since the revolution of 1917. Stalin is a brilliant organizer and a strong leader, and he has been able to maintain his power through a combination of force and diplomacy.

Basic Issues in the CIA Split

Smash Stalinism, Guard Union Democracy!

By BEN HALL

The CIA convention is a crucial battle ground between the forces of Stalinism and the forces of democracy. It is a battle that we cannot afford to lose, and we must do everything in our power to ensure that the delegates vote for a resolution that will strengthen the union and end the threat of Stalinism.

The importance of this battle cannot be overstated. The delegates to the convention will be making decisions that will have a profound impact on the future of the union and the country.

Over CP's Corsets—To Fight Conservation

Socialist villains in the CIA are trying to make the delegates believe that the CPA convention is a threat to democracy. They are trying to make the delegates believe that the delegates to the convention will vote for a resolution that will weaken the union and increase the power of the bosses.

But the truth is, the delegates to the convention will be making decisions that will strengthen the union and end the threat of Stalinism. The delegates will be voting for a resolution that will create a strong, democratic union that is able to stand up to the bosses and the bosses' allies.

The delegates to the convention will be making decisions that will have a profound impact on the future of the union and the country. We must do everything in our power to ensure that the delegates vote for a resolution that will strengthen the union and end the threat of Stalinism.

End the Great Depression!

The depression is a result of the folly of the capitalist system. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class.

The depression is a result of the folly of the capitalist system. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class.

The depression is a result of the folly of the capitalist system. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class.

The depression is a result of the folly of the capitalist system. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class. The capitalist system is a system that is based on the exploitation of the working class.
Battle of the Pentagon. Reflections Clash Over Methods, Aims In U.S. Imperialism

LAWRENCE FITZ

The battle of the forces that is currently opening up in the heart of world politics is indeed terrible. There has never been such a decisive struggle for the existence of that world order, and everything points to its becoming the decisive struggle for the existence of world civilization.

While much will be written for and against this conflict, the main question is: who can win? In the battle of petroleum and the battle of the seas, the whole history of the world is at stake. The outcome of the battle of the seeds is crucial.

If there are strategic and economic aspects of the conflict, the decisive factors are the psychological and moral aspects. The outcome of the battle will depend on the capacity of the forces of the world to make a decision and to act.

This battle is not just a conflict between the forces of good and evil, but a conflict between different visions of the world. It is a battle between the forces of progress and the forces of regression.

The outcome of this battle will determine the future of the world. It is a battle for the soul of humanity.
Capparice of Canton Will Test Ability Of Chinese CP to Stabilize Regime

By JACOB BRAD
The Fall of Canton brings to a close the Nationalist war in China. Except for the rise of Shanghai as a world financial center, China is little different today than it was a few years ago. The Chinese Communists still hold the city of Canton, but their forces are now largely concentrated in the south. The Nationalist government, under Chiang Kai-shek, has retained control of most of China proper.

The fall of Canton to the Communists is a major setback for Chiang Kai-shek's plan to create a united front with the United States against Japan. The Communists, under Mao Zedong, have been able to seize control of the city and establish a People's Republic of China.

CANNON TEST CP
Cannon is certainly not satisfied with the results of his campaign in the south. He had hoped to use it as a stepping stone to the capture of the entire country. But the Nationalists suffered heavy losses and were forced to retreat. Cannon's forces now control most of China.

The fall of Canton is a major victory for the Communists. They have been able to expand their control and consolidate their power. The Nationalists, on the other hand, have been weakened and their forces scattered.

The fall of Canton has also had international implications. The United States has been supporting the Nationalists, but the fall of Canton may change their policy. The United States may now be more inclined to support the Communists, who are seen as a more viable alternative to the Nationalists.

The fall of Canton is a major setback for Chiang Kai-shek's plan to create a united front with the United States against Japan. The Communists, under Mao Zedong, have been able to seize control of the city and establish a People's Republic of China.

The fall of Canton is a major victory for the Communists. They have been able to expand their control and consolidate their power. The Nationalists, on the other hand, have been weakened and their forces scattered.

The fall of Canton has also had international implications. The United States has been supporting the Nationalists, but the fall of Canton may change their policy. The United States may now be more inclined to support the Communists, who are seen as a more viable alternative to the Nationalists.
Lewis Asks Joint Fund

By WYATT LEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—A federal court judge yesterday issued an opinion that could make possible the unionization of the United States government agencies in the face of a lawsuit brought by the American Federation of Government Employees, who have been working against the government's refusal to recognize their union.

The opinion, which was issued by Judge Edward W. Brooke of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, upheld the union's right to represent federal employees. The court had previously ruled that the union could only be certified if it could prove that a majority of federal employees supported it.

The government had argued that the union was not representative of the federal workforce, but Brooke said in his opinion that the union had shown it had support from a majority of employees.

The union has been working to organize the workers of the Veterans Affairs Department, which is responsible for providing health care to veterans. The union claims that the department is understaffed and that employees are overworked.

The court's decision is a victory for the union and a setback for the government, which has been trying to replace the union with a workplace bureaucracy.

Lewis Asks Joint Fund

By WYATT LEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—A federal court judge yesterday issued an opinion that could make possible the unionization of the United States government agencies in the face of a lawsuit brought by the American Federation of Government Employees, who have been working against the government's refusal to recognize their union.

The opinion, which was issued by Judge Edward W. Brooke of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, upheld the union's right to represent federal employees. The court had previously ruled that the union could only be certified if it could prove that a majority of federal employees supported it.

The government had argued that the union was not representative of the federal workforce, but Brooke said in his opinion that the union had shown it had support from a majority of employees.

The union has been working to organize the workers of the Veterans Affairs Department, which is responsible for providing health care to veterans. The union claims that the department is understaffed and that employees are overworked.

The court's decision is a victory for the union and a setback for the government, which has been trying to replace the union with a workplace bureaucracy.

Lewis Asks Joint Fund

By WYATT LEE

NEW YORK, Oct. 18—A federal court judge yesterday issued an opinion that could make possible the unionization of the United States government agencies in the face of a lawsuit brought by the American Federation of Government Employees, who have been working against the government's refusal to recognize their union.

The opinion, which was issued by Judge Edward W. Brooke of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia, upheld the union's right to represent federal employees. The court had previously ruled that the union could only be certified if it could prove that a majority of federal employees supported it.

The government had argued that the union was not representative of the federal workforce, but Brooke said in his opinion that the union had shown it had support from a majority of employees.

The union has been working to organize the workers of the Veterans Affairs Department, which is responsible for providing health care to veterans. The union claims that the department is understaffed and that employees are overworked.

The court's decision is a victory for the union and a setback for the government, which has been trying to replace the union with a workplace bureaucracy.