Bell Strikers Go Back, To Fight Case of 22

By Michael Fernandez

The strikers of 22 Local of the United Steel Workers of America have won a court order compelling the company to return to work the 22 steelworkers who were discharged in the Brownsville strike. The company had fired the workers on the basis of an order of the Brownsville Federal Court, which had found the company guilty of violating the National Labor Relations Act.

The strikers, led by the Local 22 committee, have been fighting for recognition of their union, the United Steel Workers of America, and for the right to negotiate with the company over wages and working conditions. The company had refused to negotiate with the union, and the strikers had been on strike for several months.

The court order, which was granted on the basis of a petition filed by the union, required the company to return to work the 22 discharged workers and to negotiate with the union over the terms of their employment. The court also ordered the company to pay the workers their back wages and to reinstate their seniority.

The strikers hailed the court order as a victory for the working class and for the union movement. They said that the court had demonstrated the power of the working class to defend its rights and to fight for justice.

The company announced that it would appeal the court order, but said that it would comply with the order in the meantime.

In a statement, the company said: "We respect the right of workers to organize and to strike, but we will not tolerate any interference with our operations. We will comply with the court order, but we will appeal it as soon as possible."
One Line Locking on the Ball—A Labor Party!

GOP Offers a Red辉 to Philly Politics

By KARL CRAB

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 25—The real political turmoil in the city today is the battle between the Republican and Democratic parties for the control of the mayor's office. Mayor Nicholas F. D'Amico, a Democrat, has been reared as the candidate of the Republican party. The Democratic candidate is Robert F. Kennedy, a former state senator and member of the Democratic party of New York. The election is scheduled for November 7.

Kennedy has been campaigning vigorously in the city, and his speeches have been well received. D'Amico, on the other hand, has been much more reserved and has not had the same success in his campaign. The results of the election are expected to be very close.

State Vet Bonus in Pennsylvania to Be Voted On

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 24—The Senate of Pennsylvania will hold a special session on November 1st to vote on the proposed $122,000 bonus for veterans of the World War. The bonus is intended to recognize the sacrifices made by the veterans of the war.

The bonus was proposed by Senator William J. Davidson, a Republican, and was supported by most of the Senate. The bonus was opposed by several of the Democratic members of the Senate. The final vote on the bonus is expected to be close.

KKK, Out in Open, Faces Appeal to ‘Good’ Jews and Negroes

By STEPHEN KENNEDY

A state of emergency has been declared in Maryland and Virginia in anticipation of a possible race riot in the state. The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) has warned of possible violence and has called for a peaceful resolution of the situation.

The NAACP has condemned the KKK for their activities and has called for a peaceful resolution of the situation. The NAACP has called for a peaceful resolution of the situation and has urged the KKK to disband.

Citizens of all races are urged to remain calm and to avoid any actions that could lead to further violence. The NAACP has urged the KKK to disband and to support peaceful resolutions to the situation.

Readers of Labor Action, the Voice of the Worker...

Dangers—Hack at Work!

With the current economic conditions, workers are facing increased pressures to work longer hours and under more stressful conditions. This has led to an increase in workplace accidents and injuries. Workers are urged to take necessary precautions to prevent accidents and injuries.

In addition, workers are encouraged to voice their concerns about working conditions to their employers and to union representatives. This can help to improve working conditions and reduce the risk of accidents and injuries.

The call for change is not new. Workers have been fighting for better conditions for decades. The fight for workers' rights is ongoing.

Cripples on Devolution

The struggle for devolution in the UK is a long and complex one. The devolution process began in the early 1990s, with the devolution of powers from the UK government to the Scottish and Welsh governments.

The devolution process has been slow and contentious, with many people arguing that it has not gone far enough. There has been a push for further devolution, with some arguing for the devolution of powers to the devolved governments.

The devolution process has been marked by many challenges, including the devolution of powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The devolution process has also been marred by the devolution of powers to the English Parliament.

The devolution process has been marked by many challenges, including the devolution of powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The devolution process has also been marred by the devolution of powers to the English Parliament.

The devolution process has been marked by many challenges, including the devolution of powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The devolution process has also been marred by the devolution of powers to the English Parliament.

The devolution process has been marked by many challenges, including the devolution of powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The devolution process has also been marred by the devolution of powers to the English Parliament.

The devolution process has been marked by many challenges, including the devolution of powers to the Northern Ireland Assembly. The devolution process has also been marred by the devolution of powers to the English Parliament.
SILVER LINING

ECONOMIST SEES COLD WAR AS SOON TO CAPITALISM

By MAL DRAPER

One of the most extreme and important statements on the present state of things in the world is in the present state of things in the world is from the Austrian economist, Professor Dr. von Mises. He has written a book called "Human Action," which is now being published in English. The book is a comprehensive study of human action and its implications for economic policy. It is a powerful and influential work that has been widely discussed and debated. Dr. von Mises argues that the government should not interfere in the economy, that it should be left to the free market to determine what goods are produced and how they are distributed. He also argues that the government should not attempt to control the economy, that it should be left to the free market to determine the prices of goods and services. Dr. von Mises's ideas have been influential in the development of classical economics, and they have been a major influence on modern economic thought. The book is a must-read for anyone interested in economics and economic policy.
AMA's Campaign Against 'Compulsive' Health Program Reeks of Hypocrisy

By RAY LEONARD

The American Medical Association has organized one of the most systematic campaigns in its history to defeat the United States Senate from taking any action on the Social Security Health Insurance Bill...The AMA has no way except by law to any organisation managed to handle the Senate from taking any action on the Social Security Health Insurance Bill...The AMA has no way except by law to any organisation managed to handle the Senate from taking any action on the Social Security Health Insurance Bill...

By GORDON RUSHBALL

Cal. ACLU Warns Against Witchhunt, Offers Legal Protection to Victims

The ACLU has warned against the spread of the so-called "witchhunt" tactics being used by critics of the health care reform bill, which is currently being debated in California. The ACLU has urged the state's lawmakers to consider the bill carefully and to ensure that any legislation passed is constitutional and fair to all Californians.

CIO Convention --

(Carried on page 1:)

ventive floor. A committee of the American Medical Association has been appointed to study the question of medical education in the United States. The committee has met several times, and their recommendations will be submitted to the house at an early date.

Hoffman --

Hoffman, a large corporation in the insurance industry, has announced a new plan to offer health insurance to its employees. The plan will provide coverage for medical, dental, and vision care, as well as life and disability insurance.

ENDEARSK ROSS

There is little evidence of the early death of the CIO. The American Medical Association (AMA), the American Dental Association (ADA), and the American Hospital Association (AHA) have been working to undermine the legislation since its introduction. The AMA has been particularly active in its efforts to delay and prevent the passage of the bill.

Will They Face Us?

What will happen to the health care reform bill after the Senate passes it? Will there be a compromise in the House? Will there be a veto override? Will there be a vote on the measure?

Rights Cases Up To Supreme Court

Seminole Tribe of Florida files case facing the Supreme Court. As it did four years ago, the tribe is appealing an effort by the state to regulate gambling on its reservation. The case will be heard by the Supreme Court.

Bell Strikers Back In

(Continued from page 3):

honorably. The giving up of our rights to the most fundamental freedoms is the broader basis for the struggle against the Senate, as well as the efforts of the AMA to defeat the Social Security Health Insurance Bill.

The very least we can do is to refuse to comply with any proposals for health care reform that are not in the best interest of the American people.

The battle is still far from over, but we must continue to fight. The battle for health care reform is a battle for democracy. We must stand up and be counted. We must be heard. We must be counted.

The battle is far from won, but we must keep fighting. The battle for health care reform is a battle for democracy. We must stand up and be counted. We must be heard. We must be counted.

The battle is far from won, but we must keep fighting. The battle for health care reform is a battle for democracy. We must stand up and be counted. We must be heard. We must be counted.