

New talks offer, but

Teachers' action to go ahead

BY PENNY BLOOR

THE ten-week-old teachers' pay dispute took a new turn yesterday when management agreed to discuss referring the matter to arbitration. But teachers' union leaders said that selective strike action starting today will still go ahead until there is a definite agreement with no conditions attached.

The announcement of the talks move came after a meeting of the full management side of the Burnham pay negotiating committee.

Up to now the local authority side, led by the Tory-dominated Association of County Councils, has been opposed to arbitration, causing the selective strikes led by the National Union of Teachers and the National Association of Schoolmasters/Union of Women Teachers.

Philip Merridale, leader of the management negotiators, said his side had resolved to request the recall of the Burnham committee to discuss acceptable terms of reference for arbitration.

He said the management side would only be prepared to go to arbitration 'on the issue of this year's pay claim alone'. This excluded entirely the current negotiations for the long-term restructuring of teachers' pay.

So far the teachers have been offered 4.5 per cent and rejected it as totally inadequate.

Senses

Doug McAvoy, deputy general secretary of the NUT, said the employers had 'come to their senses at last'.

But he said industrial action would not be called off 'until agreement to go to arbitration is reached without any strings or conditions'.

The NUT begins the third of its series of three-day selective strikes today. It is planned to hit 32 local authorities — mainly Tory — who up to now have refused to allow the dispute to go to arbitration.

Along with half-day selective strikes in 12 authorities mounted by the NAS/UWT, a total of 500,000 children may be affected this week.

● PAY talks affecting 73,000 English and Welsh college lecturers adjourned until June 18 after management recommended the dispute be referred to arbitration.

SHIREBROOK railmen in Nottinghamshire yesterday morning stopped moving scab coal for the first time since the miners' strike began.

Management retaliated by sending 32 men home for taking action alongside the rest of the rail union membership, and local union officials warned last night that the action could escalate.

ASLEF district secretary Bill Ronksley said: 'If they wish to widen the issue to other areas that is the responsibility of the British Railways Board.'

He said that both the headquarters of the NUR and ASLEF would co-ordinate a national response to the suspensions if the management did not back down.

Earlier in the dispute BR withdrew suspensions following instructions from Thatcher's civil war cabinet which was anxious to keep the miners isolated. It insisted that other unions should not be drawn into industrial action during the miners' strike.

Appeal

The decision to black the coal came at a weekend meeting of union members at the Shirebrook depot, following a direct appeal last week by rail union leaders Ray Buckton and Jimmy Knapp.

● OVER 2,000 miners picketed the Creswell colliery in the Nottinghamshire coalfield yesterday morning.

And there were six arrests at nearby Shirebrook colliery where another 800 miners gathered.

● ONLY 50 pickets were at the Orgreave coking plant near Sheffield, and they were overwhelmingly outnumbered by a 6,000-strong force of police on foot, and several on horseback.

Pickets at Orgreave had five police cameras trained on them continuously. There were three video cameras and two still cameras — one equipped with a powerful 300mm lense enabling it to take photographs of miners' faces for police files.

During the day, 30 workers at the coke plant faced disciplinary action for blacking coking work in support of the miners.

A total of 35 lorries were in the convoy of coke bound for Scunthorpe steel works

A SOVIET tanker with thousands of tons of oil is due to dock in Britain this week, bringing supplies for power stations which will be used to undermine the miners' strike. The oil has been ordered by the Central Electricity Generating Board which said yesterday it was receiving regular supplies of foreign fuel for power stations during the strike.

The 'Morning Star', PPPS and the Communist Party SET-BACK FOR THE 'EUROS'

BY ALEX MITCHELL

THE COMMUNIST Party leadership appears to have suffered a severe setback in its plans to regain control of the 'Morning Star'.

When counting concluded last night, it had won only two of the six places on the People's Press Printing Society management committee.

Its only successful candidates were party chairman George Bolton, the vice president of the Scottish NUM, and Chris Myant, the diplomatic correspondent of the 'Morning Star'.

Those elected from the management committee's slate were Ken Gill, general secretary of the TASS section of the Amalgamated Union of Engineering Workers (AUEW), Ken Brett, the AUEW's assistant general secretary, and 'Morning Star' circulation manager Joe Berry.

Last night the sixth position was the subject of a hotly-contested recount. On the first count, only five votes separated party executive committee member Ron Halverston, SOGAT '82 official Ann Field and Pat Hicks, of the Transport and General Workers' Union London cabs section.

The most significant loser was Ernie Roberts, Labour MP for Hackney North and Stoke Newington, who had been vigorously recommended by the PPPS management committee.

His candidacy epitomised the 'Morning Star's' political break-away from the Communist Party engineered by editor Tony Chater and his supporters. He told the 'Sunday Times' last weekend: 'I'd like the "Morning Star" to become a broadly-based paper within the whole labour movement.'

'It can never become a mass circulation paper until it can show the public that it's not tied to the Communist Party.' ('Sunday Times', June 10, 1984)

of the shareholders thought otherwise.

The other significant vote was for Myant, the party leadership's nominee for the editorship in place of Chater. He came second in the poll to Ken Gill and scored more votes than party chairman George Bolton.

Because the party's resolution calling for the removal of Chater and his replacement by Myant was ruled out of order, shareholders appear to have voted solidly for him to be on the management committee. This is seen as a stinging political rebuke to Chater.

The party's executive had set out to take all five vacancies on the PPPS management committee. The sixth vacancy was sprung at the last minute with the resignation of SOGAT official George Willoughby.

In their election address, Bolton and Myant said they would fight to restore the relationship between the party and the 'Morning Star' and they would 'press for the placing of all the facts relating to the plans for commercial printing and other options before the shareholders in the PPPS and before the executive committee of the Communist Party so that a considered judgement can be arrived at.'

Tellers from all around the country were accommodated at hotels in London last night pending the resumption of counting at the 'Morning Star' offices today. 'It's like being on an Old Bailey jury,' one of them said.

Shareholders still have to hear the crucial result of Resolution 9 which the party fought hard to get rejected.

The resolution, in the name of Midlands UCATT official Ken Barlow, supports the commercial printing scheme and gives a vote of confidence to Chater and his assistant David Whitfield.

Brewery workers sacked

STRIKERS at the big Whitbread brewery in Luton yesterday expressed shock and anger after learning that the company had sacked them.

Union officials said the decision to throw 300 workers on to the dole came 'like a bolt from the blue'. They had been on strike for the last six weeks over pay.

Transport union convenor Colin Archer said: 'We didn't have an inkling this would happen.'

'We said to the management throughout the strike that if they were contemplating a shut-down to inform us first so we could consider the situation.'

'The action taken seems very drastic when you think it started over a one-day stoppage.'

In April the brewery workers staged a lightning walk-out in protest over protracted pay negotiations.

The company retaliated by holding its own investigation into what it called 'unconstitutional' action and the first worker interviewed was sacked on the spot. This victimisation provoked a walk-out by the rest of the labour force.

The plant's industrial relations manager David Jones said: 'The site has been closed and disposed of. The one-day strike took us completely by surprise and even union officials were taken by surprise.'

White-collar unions go for Lea

THE right-wing leaderships of two white-collar unions yesterday nominated David Lea in the contest to find a successor to TUC general secretary Len Murray who is due to retire later this year.

Backing for Lea, currently a TUC assistant general secretary, came from the clerical union APEX and the rail union, the Transport Salaried Staffs Association (TSSA).

The nomination of Lea follows last week's decision by the giant transport union to support TUC deputy general secretary Norman Willis for the post.

Tory cuts hit GLC tenants

THOUSANDS of tenants will suffer because of the Tory government's arbitrary decision to slash the capital spending programme of the Greater London Council.

In Greenwich, the loss of a £2.5 million capital contract for repairs to ex-GLC properties will affect 5,000 people.

On one estate, tenants have to put up with leaking roofs, unsafe front doors and sewage coming back into their houses.

Another 5,000 people will be affected if, as looks certain, a £3 million contract for 1985/86 is cancelled.

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Mike Yates, chairman of Greenwich housing committee, commented: 'Because of these cuts, badly needed repairs may never be carried out.'

The GLC has its capital spending programme approved under a Money Bill in parliament.

Wrecking

Agreed with ministers beforehand, it usually sails through.

This time the Tories have cut it by 50 per cent — wrecking a number of projects in the process.

It will mean no new capital projects being approved under the GLC's community areas programme.

This will hit housing, employment, environmental and social facility schemes.

BL loses £50 million

BRITISH LEYLAND has lost an estimated £50 million as a result of the strike provoked at the giant Longbridge works.

The 300 forklift drivers on strike to win the reinstatement of sacked West Indian worker, Zedekiah Mills, are not due to meet again until Thursday.

Mills was dismissed after allegedly hitting foreman Brian Brassington who he said had subjected him to racial abuse.

Livingstone calls for big Euro-vote

A LARGE Labour vote in Thursday's European elections would help the campaign to save the Greater London Council, Ken Livingstone said yesterday.

The GLC leader was speaking at a joint press conference with Labour Party leader Neil Kinnock.

'This is a desperate plea to Londoners — if you are worried about losing your GLC vote next year, make sure you use your Euro vote on Thursday,' Livingstone said.

'The more we get a massive Labour vote in London, the more that will be interpreted as a demand from Londoners to continue to have their GLC.'

Speaking about the voting due last night in the Lords over abolishing the GLC elections next year, Livingstone said if they voted in favour of abolition they would 'do the most mortal damage ever done to the Tory Party in London'.

The Bill was due to be discussed alongside an amendment describing its proposals as 'a dangerous precedent'.

But Livingstone added that whatever the outcome of the vote, the campaign was not over to defend local democracy. 'If we lose tonight, all eyes will be focussed on Thursday,' he said.

Kinnock said the plan to abolish the GLC and to prevent the elections had 'offended deeply against democratic values'.

He said that 64 per cent of people against 17 per cent had shown in opinion polls that they wanted the GLC to continue to exist

Push ahead now with June Fund

IT IS TOO slow a pace. Please join us in a special effort now to boost our total. We have in £131.16 so far. Let's all go into action and drive our June Fund up now.

It is certainly needed. At a time when it is vital to keep the News Line right out in front, it needs your fullest support. This is a crucial time in the miners' struggle. The vast majority of miners remain firmer than ever in their battle against the Tories and in the fight to defend their jobs.

However much the NUM leaders enter into behind-the-scenes talks with MacGregor, they face a huge onslaught from their membership if they try to accept pit closures in any form.

The urgent issue today is to mobilise the rest of the working class to join this fight and to take strike action to defeat Thatcher and her plans once and for all.

Only the News Line speaks out loud and clear and gives a firm lead today. Back it up all the way. Take action immediately to collect our Fund. Post your donation today to:

Dock strike called off

A FIVE-day-old strike by 1,150 registered dockers in the Port of Liverpool was called off at a mass meeting yesterday. The dockers, employed by the Mersey Docks and Harbour Company, voted overwhelmingly to accept the recommendation of transport union shop stewards to return and allow talks with the management to reopen.

Shipyard jobs fight

SHIPYARD shop stewards decided at the weekend to launch a campaign to resist further plans for closures and mass sackings by British Shipbuilders.

Under the latest BS corporate plan three engineering plants, which employ 1,700 workers, are immediately threatened.

Sikhs shut Kent bank

SIKHS forced a bank in Kent to close yesterday as a mark of respect for their dead colleagues in Amritsar.

Twenty-five Sikhs told the Punjab National Bank in Gravesend they would draw out all their money, about £1 million, if the manager did not comply with their request for a 24-hour closure.

Bill Donovan funeral

THE funeral of BILL DONOVAN will take place this Thursday (June 14), at 3.30p.m. at East London Cemetery, Grange Road, Plaistow, E13.

Bill died of cancer on Sunday June 3, in Ashbourne hospital, Derbyshire, aged 62. He was a member of the Millwall, east London, branch of the Workers Revolutionary Party for six years.

Bill was born and lived all his life in Poplar, in London's East End.

Before he became ill, he worked in Hackney college as a maintenance technician. He was well known throughout Tower Hamlets as a seller of the News Line.

Pendulum swings for Greens

TWO climbers hung a banner proclaiming 'Time to stop nuclear testing' across the south face of Big Ben yesterday. The Greenpeace volunteers ended their protest at 4p.m. after dangling in hammocks for 11 hours. They climbed up ropes and scrambled to safety on the highest scaffolding parapet near the top of the tower.

Ron Taylor, 30 from Hants and Renato Ruf, 26, from Zurich emerged at the foot of the tower to cheers from supporters of the environmental group Greenpeace, which organised the protest. They were immediately bundled into a police van.

The action was part of an international campaign aimed at persuading the major powers to resume negotiations on a comprehensive nuclear test ban treaty. It was also on behalf of servicemen who had become irradiated by taking part in tests, said Greenpeace.

Plutonium two-way traffic

PRESIDENT Reagan could use plutonium from British civil nuclear reactors in US warheads despite a 'gentlemen's agreement' not to do so, Labour warned yesterday.

Robin Cook, Labour spokesman on Europe, said that plutonium from the Hunterston A nuclear power station in Ayrshire could return to the Clyde as warheads at the US base at Holy Loch.

He said President Reagan's huge nuclear build-up was leading to a shortage of plutonium in the US.

Plutonium from Britain was used by the US in experimental fast breeder reactors but, according to a 'gentlemen's agreement' not for military purposes, he said in Glasgow.

Cook said he would be asking Energy Secretary Peter Walker to seek assurances from the Americans that British plutonium would not be used in US weapons.

He would ask the first meeting of Labour's Euro MPs to raise the matter with Euratom, the European atomic watchdog.

Cook said Strathclyde West was a 'nuclear bullseye, the epicentre of a dart board of Europe'

Two million arrests this year

Tory Bill will make it worse

ARRESTS will increase dramatically when the Tories' Police and Criminal Evidence Bill becomes law.

Nearly two million people will be held this year alone and about half the arrests will be at night.

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Many of those 'invited to help the police with their inquiries' will never be charged with an offence or may eventually be found to be innocent of any crime.

The number of arrests — 1,600,000 in 1982 and higher last year — is expected to increase under the Bill.

Suspects held in police stations will be entitled to legal advice, and the Law Society has just published proposals for providing such advice free to all suspects in police stations.

For the first time the Law Society is planning a 24-hour service, recognising that the right to legal advice can only be effective if duty solicitors are available round the clock.

The society has issued a consultation paper to local law societies, Citizens Advice Bureaux and other groups for comments.

The paper proposes that statutory arrangements for duty solicitors at magistrates courts, which are being introduced this year, should be extended to provide duty solicitors at police stations.

Areas

The society will launch experiments in three police areas later this year to find out how many suspects will exercise their right to legal advice.

Anxious that solicitors of sufficient experience will be attracted to participating in the police station duty solicitor schemes, particularly at unsocial hours, the society has put forward its own proposals for remuneration.

The government, however, has made no response to the proposals.

Similar 24-hour and out-of-hours solicitor services already exist in Southampton, Portsmouth and Birmingham.

In 1983, the Southampton scheme received over 1,700 telephone calls of which almost 700 were about criminal matters.

Of the latter, 450 resulted in people being seen at police stations. Most of the calls were received from friends and relatives of suspects at police stations rather than from the suspects themselves.

Uranium mining warning

THE LONG-RUNNING Sizewell inquiry will hear fresh evidence starting today on the hazards of nuclear power and uranium mining.

It will be the first time such evidence has been presented to a public inquiry of this nature in Britain.

At present 50 per cent of British uranium comes from Canada and most of the rest from Namibia.

Those giving evidence include two women aboriginal leaders from Australia, who will outline how uranium mining is leading to the destruction of sacred sites and the forced removal of land.

Barbara Flick, Aborigine spokeswoman for the National Federation of Land Councils, warned yesterday that Britain is likely to buy more uranium from Australia in the future, and less from Namibia.

This would mean larger quantities of uranium being brought to Britain for reprocessing, posing the problem of how to dispose of waste here.

Rob Rosenthal, for the Namibia Support Committee, said that he would tell the Central Electricity Generating Board that it would not be worth their while renewing their contract for uranium with the Rio Tinto Zinc company operating in Namibia.

The contract is due to expire later this year.

He will warn CEBG that future contracts with a SWAPO government could be in jeopardy.

Brig Oubridge, from the Ecology Party, will give evidence on radiation hazards of uranium mining to miners and to the public.

£70,000 asbestosis award

A LONDON service engineer who contracted the lung disease asbestosis while working with asbestos over a period of ten years was awarded £70,000 agreed damages in the High Court yesterday.

Kenneth Moule, 56, of Acton, West London, claimed that he was suffering from a probable fatal tumor as a result of exposure to asbestos dust while stripping insulation from pipes and boilers.

He was given judgement, by consent, against three former employers — the London Borough of Ealing: Tylin Cae Ltd, of Wandsworth; and Corral-Montenay Ltd, of Portsmouth — for whom he had worked between 1965 and 1975.

ARGENTINA GEARS UP
FOR AN IMF DEFAULT

BUENOS AIRES — Argentina will continue to function even if the International Monetary Fund (IMF) rejects a letter of intent due to be submitted yesterday, Economy Minister Bernardo Grinspun said.

Banking sources said Argentina was taking the unprecedented step of putting such a plan to the IMF without reaching prior understanding with Fund officials.

BY A FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT

If an agreement is not finalised by the end of the month Argentina will default on its $43.6 billion foreign debt. And if the accord is not reached by Saturday the country will also lose a key guarantee from the US Treasury.

But Grinspun, speaking at Buenos Aires airport as he saw off President Raul Alfonsin on a five-day visit to Spain, said: 'If the IMF does not accept the letter of intent (on the recovery plan) presented by the government, the country will not cease functioning.'

There is no reason the IMF should oppose the economic expansion of any nation, Grinspun said.

Economy Ministry sources said IMF officials who have been in Buenos Aires for about a month trying to reach agreement on the document had objected to its highly political introduction which criticises traditional IMF policies.

Argentina is seeking about $3.5 billion in financial assistance from the IMF and commercial banks to make debt payments falling due in 1984.

Visit

Alfonsin, making his first presidential visit outside Latin America, will not return from Spain until after June 15 when a $300 million loan guarantee from the US government is due to expire.

That loan would be used to pay back four other Latin American countries — Brazil, Colombia, Mexico and Venezuela — which contributed to a $500 million rescue package in March to help Argentina pay interest overdue to US banks.

While in Spain, Alfonsin will meet Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez and King Juan Carlos.

Alfonsin is expected to renew his call for talks with the Thatcher government on the Falkland islands and to express backing for Spain's claim to the British colony of Gibraltar.

'We'll join hands to fight the remnants of colonialism both Spain and Argentina are facing,' Alfonsin said recently.

Security forces step up attacks on SWAPO

WINDHOEK, Namibia — South Africa's top official in Namibia said security police would take further action against the SWAPO opposition organisation unless it halted military operations.

Thirty-seven SWAPO leaders were arrested during a raid on a barbeque near Windhoek including Nathaniel Mazuilili, the acting president.

Namibia administrator-general Willie van Niekerk said security forces would take further steps against SWAPO unless it ended hostilities.

Van Niekerk, a Pretoria appointee, said: 'It is in fact only SWAPO which now stands in the path of peaceful independence.'

Solidarity
leader captured by police

WARSAW — Bogdan Lis, a key member of the four-man underground leadership of the banned Solidarity trade union, has been captured by police.

His arrest in the Baltic port of Gdansk was announced by state television.

He had been in hiding since martial law was declared in December 1981 to crush the Solidarity movement.

Lis's detention was the biggest blow to the union since the surrender last August of Wladyslaw Hardek who like Lis was a member of Solidarity's clandestine provisional co-ordinating committee (TKK).

Details of how and when he was found after successfully eluding arrest for 30 months were not disclosed.

Lech Walesa, Solidarity's former chairman, described Lis as a 'high class activist whose capture is a great loss'.

BOGDAN LIS

He added: 'We shall put forward three new candidates for his post. We shall not run short of people during the coming 50 years.'

There was no immediate indication of what charges Lis, 32, might face.

Hardek, who the authorities said surrendered under an amnesty offered to the underground after martial law was lifted last July, was released immediately after questioning.

Lis has been arrested amid intensifying speculation that a further amnesty may be offered by the government to its political opponents to coincide with celebrations to mark the 40th anniversary of the deformed workers' state.

Lis, a former Communist Party member who worked in an electronics factory, was a founder member of Solidarity and was deputy leader of the union in Gdansk as well as an influential participant in its national commission.

Tehran suspends bombing

TEHRAN — President Ali Khamenei has agreed to suspend bombing attacks on Iraqi towns today 'to show good faith' but reserved the right to retaliate against Iraqi violations.

He pointed out that Iran only resumed its shelling after the Iraqi regime bombed the northern town of Banah killing more than 600 innocent civilians.

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

In his most recent speech on the war, Khamenei said: 'Today, more than at any time before, the firm association between the Iraqi regime and the regimes associated with the Persian Gulf region has become significant.'

'How astonishing! These people waste the money of their people on weapons in order to fight Islam and the Islamic Republic of Iran. They are not satisfied with that. They allow the United States — the enemy of Islam and the Moslems — to declare war in their name with the aim of protecting them from the Islamic Republic of Iran.'

'Let the peoples of the region know that some of the reactionary countries in the Persian Gulf have paved the way for a direct

US interference in the Persian Gulf.'

The Syrian daily 'Ath-Thawra' said NATO's strategic plan is not aimed at the Gulf countries alone, but is also directed against the entire Arab regime.

Danger

'Momentous dangers are now engulfing the region,' the paper said. 'The Arabs must take the initiative to prevent expansion of the Iraq-Iran war and must exert more efforts to contain the efforts by Saddam Hussein's regime to internationalise the war by giving the US and other Western countries the necessary excuses to interfere and carry out aggression.'

● A Chilean arms company has admitted exporting 5,000 cluster bombs to Baghdad for use against Iran in the Gulf war.

A senior official of the Chilean fascist regime told Radio Cooperativa in Santiago that it was 'a normal trade transaction', adding: 'It is just like any other sale.'

The radio said that the cluster bombs are 'deadlier than nerve gas'. They can 'kill many enemy troops when the cluster bombs spread over an area equivalent to ten football fields'.

Ortega prepared to send advisers home

MANAGUA — The Nicaraguan government is ready to send home all foreign advisers immediately if US forces are pulled out of other Central American countries.

Sandinist leader Daniel Ortega said: 'Nicaragua is willing to withdraw all foreign advisers from its territory as long as all foreign advisers are withdrawn, bases are dismantled and US military manoeuvres cease in other Central American countries.'

'We are willing to do this immediately,' he added.

Ortega's statement came only hours after a visit to Managua by Foreign Ministers of the four-nation Contadora group seeking a peaceful solution to the crisis in Central America.

The group — Mexico, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia — handed Nicaragua's government proposals for a peace treaty for the troubled region.

These include withdrawal of foreign advisers and a provision for third parties to take part in the peace process. Diplomatic sources said this would allow Cuba and the United States to be involved.

There are about 1,700 US troops in neighbouring Honduras and 55 US military advisers in El Salvador.

TORIES ADVISED ON PUNJAB MASSACRE

BY A FOREIGN CORRESPONDENT

NEW DELHI — The Thatcher government provided military advice for the assault last week on the Golden Temple of Amritsar that resulted in the massacre of more than 1,000 Sikhs.

Sikh officers and soldiers continued to mutiny yesterday as bodies were still being fished out of the huge man-made lake around the holy shrine, six days after the barbarous assault.

British military experts advised two Indian secret service officers, Garry Saxena and R N Kay, who made several trips to London, while 600 crack troopers trained on a life-size replica of the temple in the Chakrata Hills, 150 miles from New Delhi.

The London 'Sunday Times' said the assault troops were placed on alert no fewer than five times in the past three months before Prime Minister Indira Gandhi finally gave the go-ahead.

In Bihar on Sunday a brigadier at the Ramgarh regimental centre was shot dead and two colonels wounded by Sikh soldiers who fought a three-hour battle inside the camp before commandeering 35 trucks and heading for New Delhi.

A Sikh member of Mrs Gandhi's Congress (I) Party and a confidant of President Zail Singh, also a Sikh, Amarinder Singh, has resigned his seat in the Lok Sabha (parliament).

It is almost certain Zail Singh, who gave Mrs Gandhi presidential powers to rule by decree, will resign also.

Zail Singh is increasingly being recognised as a man who was subservient to and actively collaborated in Mrs Gandhi's increasingly dictatorial rule despite capitalist press propaganda that a visit to the temple after the storming left him 'outraged and shaken'.

Outrage swept the Indian sub-continent as news leaked out of the mounting death toll, despite the military and government censors.

The bodies are decaying fast in the especially hot summer, with temperatures running at above the hundreds.

The army, in a hurry to be rid of the evidence, was transporting the bodies in garbage trucks and cremating them 50 at a time.

Mass arrests are taking place and India's northern states are in a state of siege as thousands of Sikhs continue to defy the army and march on the major capitals.

Two people were killed and 11 injured in the fighting that followed a mutiny by Sikh soldiers about 50 miles from Bombay.

The soldiers were members of one of several battalions enforcing martial law rule in Maharashtra, where fighting broke out among Hindu and Moslem communities three weeks ago.

About 40 of the mutinying Maharashtra soldiers were arrested but a large number of them made a getaway in commandeered army trucks and were last reported heading along the Bombay-Poona Highway, in the direction of Amritsar.

More than 200 Sikh soldiers from Bikaner, Rajasthan state, commandeered army trucks on Thursday and drove through a security cordon near the Punjab state border.

They were intercepted at Malout in the Ferozepore district the next day and fought a pitched gun battle with the military interceptors before being overpowered.

A similar mutiny was reported in the state of Uttar Pradesh. Mrs Gandhi ordered a crack mountain warfare unit out of army headquarters in New Delhi and despatched them to Bihar but they were delayed because the soldiers at Ramgarh cut communications before making their getaway.

Condemn

More than 1,000 Sikhs, including many of the most prominent, in Bombay met on Sunday night to condemn what they called 'the inexcusable act of sacrilege committed by the government'.

The meeting carried a resolution calling for a protest march tomorrow in defiance of a military ban on marches.

Businesses run by the more than 150,000 Sikhs in the city will close in a popular form of shopkeepers' protest known as hartal.

'Pope of Eurocommunism' dies

ROME — Enrico Berlinguer, the Italian Communist Party leader who died yesterday aged 62, was the Pope of Eurocommunism.

His death five days after suffering a stroke drew as many tributes from the Italian ruling class as it did from the left.

A presidential plane was laid out to fly his body from Padua to Rome for a semi-state funeral tomorrow. President Sandro Pertini, 87, told reporters: 'I will carry him with me, as a fraternal brother, as a son, as a companion in the struggle.'

Francesco Cossiga, president of the Italian Senate, issued a statement saying: 'The death of Enrico Berlinguer has deprived Italian democracy of a protagonist who was much loved and respected by all for the sincerity and the moral and intellectual integrity he dedicated to the civil and social advancement of Italian workers and the whole country.'

The son of a wealthy landowner, he was born in Sassari, north-west Sardinia, on May 25, 1922. He joined the Communist Party in 1943 and was jailed the following year for instigating riots against Mussolini's fascist dictatorship.

After his release in late 1944 he travelled to Rome where he joined the Stalinists' youth movement, serving as its secretary-general from 1949 to 1956.

His rise in the party bureaucracy was meteoric. In 1948, at the age of 26, he joined the party's directorate. He entered the Italian Chamber of Deputies, the lower house, in 1968 and he became PCI general secretary in March 1972.

ENRICO BERLINGUER

At his first party congress after his election, delegates chanted: 'Gramsci, Togliatti, Longo, Berlinguer' — a slogan affirming the continuity of the party's leadership.

But Berlinguer rebuked them saying: 'No, comrades. Gramsci, Togliatti and Longo are one thing, but I am something else.' And he was.

He was the architect of the 'historic compromise' between the PCI and Italy's biggest bourgeois party, the Christian Democrats, which has ruled since the end of World War II.

He launched his proposal for the 'historic compromise' a few weeks after the Chilean armed forces overthrew the Allende government in September 1973.

In a series of celebrated articles in the party weekly 'Rinascita' entitled 'Reflections on the coup d'etat in Chile', Berlinguer argued that the Allende government came to grief because its base of support was too narrow.

Corrupt

From this he drew the conclusion that the Italian Stalinists needed a 'grand alliance' with the right-wing and immensely corrupt Christian Democrats. Berlinguer's policy was aimed at the 'preservation of democracy', which meant in practice the rescue of the Italian capitalist state and the ruling class.

But the rightward, class collaborationist policy only led to divisions in the PCI and failed to get a response from the working-class electorate which was looking for the end of Christian Democratic rule, not its continuation.

The Stalinists' treachery is directly responsible for the growth of urban terrorism as frustrated youth became mistakenly involved in the Red Brigades.

As the party's vote slumped from peaks of 36 per cent to 30 per cent and below, Berlinguer swung back from his 'governments of solidarity' in which the PCI, while excluded from power, kept the Christian Democrats in power.

He now introduced the 'democratic alternative' which is an all-party, non-class approach to the political and economic crisis of Italian capitalism.

His last days were spent hammering on the door of the Socialist Party coalition led by Bettino Craxi demanding a place in the government.

Smuggled gold

CARACAS — More than $100 million worth of gold mined in eastern Venezuela was smuggled over the border to Brazil last month. Celestino de Armas, president of the Mines and Hydrocarbons Commission of Venezuela's Chamber of Deputies, said the discovery was made when commission members visited the gold mining area in Bolivar state recently.

The deputies also found that mining methods were causing serious environmental damage there, he said. De Armas said the commission was drafting legislation to increase government control over gold mining, which is notoriously unregulated.

Venezuela's officially registered gold production last year was 1,033 kilos (2,300 pounds), but many politicians say this represents only a fraction of national output. They estimate that up to 90 per cent of all gold mined in the country is smuggled to Brazil and Guyana.

Parents occupy Bell Green school against closure

BELL GREEN Primary School in Coventry is under occupation by parents and members of the Bell Green Education Action Group who are determined to stay put until the Coventry City Council reverses its decision to close the school.

The occupation began last Wednesday. Parents accompanied their children to school at 9am as usual — but on this occasion they stayed.

Almost immediately they came under attack. They were handed a printed set of rules by the deputy director of Education, instructing them that if any children were on the premises out of school hours, the Social Services would be informed and the children would be taken into care. The parents fought back and have succeeded in forcing the council to withdraw their threat.

'We see this as a political issue' Martha Young, vice-chairman of the action group, told News Line.

'This isn't an election year, so the council feel they have a year to do what they please, closing four of five schools, before they come up for election or re-selection.'

roads to Courthouse Green School.

The parents completely reject the City council's justification that there are too many places and not enough children, and have produced an alternative plan which would ease the overcrowding in certain schools and fill up the spare capacity in others by altering the present catchment areas.

'There is no rhyme or reason for the closure of this school' Councillor George Linfield told News Line. As a member of the City Council's ruling Labour group he has opposed the closure of Bell Green Primary from the outset.

'This is a pivotal fight. The Council have said that all the teaching staff here will be re-employed. But it has been suggested at Labour group meetings that two major comprehensives in the city must close.'

Crucial

The fight to save Bell Green School is seen by the parents as crucial, not only for their children, but for the whole education system throughout the city.

Bell Green Primary is a fully functioning school with well over 100 children attending.

Closure would mean their having to travel over a mile, across busy

TUC call for new Pensions Act

BY A NEWS LINE REPORTER

THE TUC has called for a new Pensions Act to reform the occupational sector and revise Trust Law. It seeks greater equity and accountability in dealings between schemes and its members.

'While this process can be assisted by wider consultation, the main need is for a new Act,' the TUC says in evidence to the Fowler Inquiry into the provision of retirement, published yesterday.

The TUC states that trust law provides a shaky foundation for the structure of occupational pensions, whose total assets exceed £100 billion. It claims that a new Act would place control of these schemes on a new footing.

Standards

It would extend the rights and duties of the occupational pensions board and member trustees, set standards of investment, procedure and administration, promote fair treatment of members within schemes and impose a much wider requirement on funds to disclose information.

In its submissions to the inquiry, the TUC totally rejects Tory and big business claims that the number of retired people is growing to the point that they will be unsupportable.

The TUC's long-term aims for basic pensions are:

- A pension of half the average wages for a married couple, or a third for a single person
- Up-rating at six-monthly intervals
- Re-establishment of the link between prices and earnings.

NALGO CONFERENCE STARTS IN BRIGHTON

HEALTH WORKERS DISCUSS CAMPAIGN ON PAY

ADA MADDOCKS

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

PAY, privatisation and the fight against Tory cuts were under discussion yesterday by health service workers in the NALGO local government trade union.

The national health group conference of the union in Brighton was attended by about 200 delegates representing 80,000 NHS employees.

A motion from Exeter health branch demanding a flat-rate element to the pay claim was substantially carried by about 4-1 against the platform.

Ann Savage, Trafford Hill, said her members had been out for 9 months in 1982 and all they had ended up with was 75p a week.

'Of course the higher grades will oppose the flat-rate increase,' she said, adding: 'Our branch has no confidence in the national health committee.'

But an amendment from Oldham calling for all-out strike action was defeated.

Motion

Ada Maddocks, moving the national health committee motion on pay, claimed it was the responsibility of ministers to improve pay levels.

She said NHS employees were the worst treated of all public service workers, and the only group of workers being offered 3 per cent in the current pay round.

The Whitley Council management side were 'firmly puppets of the government'.

The conference agreed that branches would report back in mid July to discuss industrial action to support the pay claim.

Many delegates spoke angrily both of the role of the TUC and NALGO leaderships during 1982.

On privatisation, the Birmingham Solihull branch moved a motion which overturned existing policy of non co-operation on tendering.

Ann Savage said that her union branch had expelled 26 members for strike breaking during 1982.

Appeals

The NEC had upheld 24 appeals and therefore she was demanding a clear policy on privatisation from the leadership.

National health committee representatives made it clear that branches would be left to determine how to fight privatisation locally.

Moving the committee's report on cuts, Mike Thorpe from the platform said that branches should try to persuade district health authorities not to implement a further round of manpower cuts.

In the meantime branches should organise 'some action' on July 5.

Ian Harrison, Bloomsbury health, pointed out that new legislation was being introduced to remove DHA members who resisted. The only defence of the NHS could be by rallying entire local communities in defence of the health service.

He drew attention to Arthur Scargill and Ken Livingstone's calls for health workers to stand alongside the miners and called for the TUC to call a General Strike to link up all the struggles against the Tory government.

Harrison earlier called for financial and physical support for strikers at Barking hospital.

Opens

Around 520 local government branches of NALGO met for their annual group conference in advance of the union's annual conference which opens this morning.

A number of service condition improvements were voted through quickly — to enhance leave entitlement, part-time workers' conditions, car-mileage allowances, continuous service entitlements.

The residential social workers received support for a recalled national delegate meeting to consider taking further industrial action if no progress is made on their claim.

Claim

The local government pay claim for 7 per cent and other benefits will be further considered alongside proposals for industrial action at a recalled meeting on July 17.

Striking Bolton nursery nurses — out for 11 weeks — collected over £1,300 and drew support for campaigning for more action in other branches.

Public deceived about acid rain

THE TORY government was accused yesterday of 'deceiving' the public about the extent and effects of acid rain on the environment.

A survey carried out by Friends of the Earth with the help of a German forestry expert has allegedly found evidence of acid rain damage to trees in many parts of the country.

Andrew Kerr, the environment group's acid rain campaigner, said the independent survey was decided on because they could not accept official assurances from the government and the Forestry Commission that there was no evidence of damage.

'Our results strongly contradict these official assurances. Effects of damage are particularly evident in the Lake District and the Forest of Dean, and many species of trees are being attacked.'

Some of the worst damage was found near the Whinlatter Pass in Cumbria, but in the Forest of Dean there were signs that oaks were being attacked as well as coniferous trees.

The monitoring system was 'woefully inadequate', he said.

'Our survey drives a coach and horses through the claim by the government and Forestry Commission that the damage is negligible. The public is being deceived by the government about the effects of acid rain.'

Britain hits bottom in Europe's wages league

BY A NEWS LINE REPORTER

BRITAIN is now fully in the relegation zone of the European wages league, according to a report published today by the Low Pay Unit.

It says the United Kingdom has been found by the Council of Europe to be in breach of the European Social Charter by failing to ensure all workers receive a wage 'sufficient to give them and their families a decent standard of living'.

The finding follows a complaint to the Council of Europe by the unit — the first of its kind ever submitted by an independent body — about the government's failure to observe its obligations under the charter.

The European Charter is 'an important but little known international convention' established by the Council of Europe in 1965. The UK was one of the 19 signatories.

Policy

On Wednesday the Low Pay Unit will be urging an all-party committee of MPs who are examining government policy on low pay to back the Council of Europe and demand a reversal of present policies which are causing severe hardship to Britain's poorest workers.

The committee of independent experts, whose job it is to see that the charter is observed, established a 'decency threshold' at £100 a week (68 per cent of average earnings) below which wages are considered unfair.

The unit says the proportion of full-time male adult manual workers falling below this threshold in Britain has almost doubled since 1979 — from one in ten to one in six.

The proportion of adult low paid women manual workers has risen from two thirds to three quarters, it says.

It is also estimated that some seven million adult workers in Great Britain — almost a third of the adult workforce — now earns less than the Council of Europe's decency threshold.

Trap

And the number of low paid families caught in the poverty trap of taxes and means-tested benefits has trebled since the present government came into office.

Rosa Guy in Brixton

ROSA GUY signed many copies of her book 'A Measure of Time' at the Paperback Centre, Brixton, last Saturday.

Rosa Guy, one of the founders of the Harlem Writers Guild, was very pleased to meet so many young readers of her books in Brixton.

Many young people came into the shop during the afternoon to tell Miss Guy how much they enjoyed her books, in particular 'The Friends', a story about two young girls growing up in New York.

publication

£1.00 + 25p p&p

'Nowhere are the class antagonisms more sharply defined than between the miners and the ruling class. They run deeper than any mine shaft in the country.'

Crucial to understanding the struggle of the miners today, this pamphlet analyses the decline of the coal industry in the course of this century. Tracing the history of the struggle against closures and increased exploitation, it shows why only socialism can solve the crisis, and examines the problems of leadership in the miners' union.

Organised theft

THE PREDATORY policies adopted by the seven imperialist leaders at the London economic summit are already affecting relations between the debtor states of Latin America and the international bankers.

The summit declaration made it absolutely clear that the debtors will be expected to pay their debts in full regardless of the cost in mass misery, poverty and social upheaval.

They got no guarantee that interest rates will not continue to rise. Complaints from some of the other summit leaders that US policies were causing higher rates fell on deaf ears.

The overriding objective is to ensure the stability of imperialism and its banking system by forcing the rest of the world to meet intolerable and ever-rising bills.

There will be no change in the 'case-by-case' approach which has placed successive Latin American, African and Asian countries under the heel of the International Monetary Fund.

This approach has the great advantage from the imperialist standpoint that debtors have to come cap in hand one at a time to meet their creditors, rather than as a body.

The only change in policy is the announcement that debtor countries which carry through the dictates of the IMF may at some point in the future be given more time to pay.

No doubt this arrangement will be 'self-financing' along the best Thatcherite lines. The extra cost of extending the debt repayments for one country can be met by tightening the screw even harder on the others.

Among the large Latin American debtors, Mexico is the favourite for privileged treatment, since Prime Minister Thatcher believes the Mexican government has 'made enormous strides in tackling the underlying problems'.

The IMF prescription for Mexico has destroyed the meagre living standards of the country's workers and peasants, many of whom are among the worst-off people on the planet.

The 'enormous strides' Thatcher talks about have only been possible because Mexico is a major oil-producer with a universally saleable commodity. In order to meet the bankers' demands, the oil resources have been hocked for years in advance.

Even this drastic scenario is out of the question for the majority of Latin American debtor countries, whose debts far exceed any possible future export earnings, no matter what austerity measures are imposed.

As Simon Alegrett, secretary-general of the Latin American Economic System (SELA), said yesterday, the summit decision is aimed at splitting the debtor countries and preventing united action.

He rightly described the summit communique on the treatment of debtor countries as 'reminiscent of colonial language'. The imperialists hope their divide and rule policy will lay the spectre of a debt moratorium involving several major debtors.

The first practical reaction to the summit decision came yesterday when the Argentine government refused to accept austerity measures demanded by an IMF team currently in Buenos Aires.

The IMF wants drastic wage reductions in order to cut the Argentine budget deficit, currently around 17 per cent of gross domestic product.

This is piffling by comparison with the $120 billion Federal deficit run up by the Reagan administration in the United States. But no one at the London summit was twisting Reagan's arm about that.

The high moral tone adopted by Thatcher and her fellow summit participants about the need for debtors to bite the bullet was sheer hypocrisy.

The same principles emphatically don't apply to the banks which until a couple of years ago were falling over themselves to lend money to Latin America.

The Federal Reserve Board is lending some $2 billion a day to prevent the Continental Illinois Bank from going under and dragging down the world banking system. Truly, there is no honour among thieves and imperialism is the greatest system of organised theft in the history of mankind.

LIKE TO BACK THE MINERS

During today's Day of Action march through Cardiff

Wales Day of Action No compromise on closure plan

NO COMPROMISE can be reached with the Coal Board on its closure programme, it must be totally withdrawn, Trelewis Drift miner Paul O'Sullivan told News Line yesterday.

He said: 'I think it's a waste of time talking to the Coal Board. What I'm afraid of is that the talks will be used to build up people's hopes when there is really a position of no compromise.'

Craftsmen's representative O'Sullivan gave this warning when he spoke to News Line on the eve of today's day of action in Wales in support of the miners' fight for jobs.

Thousands of workers are expected to demonstrate their backing for the NUM by taking strike action for the day and by joining mass demonstrations in Cardiff and Wrexham.

FROM SIMON VEVERS

Workers at the giant Hoovers factory in Merthyr Tydfil were due to walk out along with many smaller factories in the valleys. And the public employees union NUPE has urged its members to take strike action.

Solidarity

O'Sullivan hoped for a massive turn-out on the Cardiff march and urged other trade unionists to take solidarity strike action, and stressed that the current talks with the Coal Board could be a trap.

He said: 'The NCB are past masters at psychology and I feel they could try and keep the talks going and when nothing comes out of them people will feel even more demoralised and depressed.

'We've been out on strike now for 14 weeks and we're not going to go back on any compromise deal in which colliery closures are just put off for two or three years.

'We want a strike to end all strikes in that sense. Feelings are certainly hardening.'

O'Sullivan was bitterly critical of the Wales TUC, who, he said, had failed to mobilise trade unionists for today's action.

'I'm not happy with the way it has been handled. People I have spoken to in other industries have either had no meetings to discuss the day of action or little or no information about it. There seems to have been a block between the leadership and the rank and file.

Support

'In the short-term this dispute will only be won with the support of other unions. But whatever happens, we have voted with our feet and are ready to stay out until 1985 because we have nothing to go back to.'

Gwyn Williams, Lodge Secretary at Taff Merthyr, said: 'There can't be any compromise with Thatcher and MacGregor. There can't be a deal over our pits and jobs.'

Gladys, 70, fights on with family

FOOD parcels are given out every Friday to striking miners in Gorseinon by the Women's Support Group. Gladys Davies is from a miners' family with a husband, sons, nephews all working underground.

'My grandson is only 23, but he has worked in three pits already,' she said. 'Since Brynlliw was closed last year, they have been overmanned at Betws colliery, only guaranteeing their grade of pay, not their jobs.

'Thatcher is trying to break our backs, because we brought the Tories down in 1974,' Gladys added. 'Everybody must stand as one solid band, I'm prepared to struggle forever, and I'm nearly 70 !

Gladys feels strongly about the privatisation of other nationalised industries, especially the NHS.

'In 1939, I had my first child and I had to pay for the doctor and midwife. I remember my father having to pay the doctor so much a week, when on the dole. That's what privatisation means,' she said.

Criticise

Gladys, a Labour Party member, was not scared to criticise Labour MPs like Foot and Kinnock, who had not attended any of the 12 rallies in South Wales.

'It's disgusting,' she said. 'They must stand by the people who put them in parliament. Their lack of support undermines all the tremendous work of the local Labour wards.'

BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT

Betty Evans from Loughor has been actively collecting food and money since the first week of the strike. 'The donations amongst the working class, the elderly especially, and the unemployed, is fantastic,' she said.

One retired miner stocked up 17 tins of food, patiently waiting for her to call at his street.

'The miners' strike is everybody's fight,' Betty said, herself a Labour Party member. 'If unions don't win this battle, it will backfire on other industries and communities.'

'At this stage of the strike other unions are not showing enough support,' she emphasised.

'There must be an all-out effort for Wales TUC's Day of Action.'

'As long as the miners carry on, we will support them,' said Janet Evans. 'We will do the foot-slogging.'

Parcels

A rush of customers suddenly left a table of food parcels empty except for a lone tin of Chum dog food.

'Anybody got a dog?', shouted Gladys. Then, jokingly: 'Never mind the dog, it's lovely on toast.'

Everyone laughed. Nobody at Gorseinon need ever eat that with these women.

The women appealed for more donations, especially children's clothes, and shoes and asked donors to ring Gorseinon 896283 after 4p.m.

Wrexham has food overflow

MINERS and their families from Bersham pit, Wrexham, were overwhelmed by the huge response to their appeal for support which they have received from workers and unemployed in Liverpool.

On Saturday a bus organised by the Merseyside Trade Union, Unemployed and Community Resources Centre in Liverpool brought so much food that the miners' office in Wrexham was almost overflowing.

'They asked what we needed, and we got it all,' a member of the women's support group said. 'Not only food, but fruit, washing powder, toilet rolls, baby food, everything.'

'We got 300 parcels out on Sunday, and there's still a huge pile of boxes waiting for us to open.'

Raymond Ellis, North Wales NUM president, was full of praise for Liverpool support groups.

'Our gang of helpers have worked themselves to a standstill,' he said, 'and I understand that they are bringing another busload over tomorrow.'

Ellis said they were preparing for a big demonstration through Wrexham on today's Welsh TUC day of action.

'The miners will be in the forefront of the march,' he said. 'But there will be a lot of other trade unionists there too. If the weather stays good, we should have a big turnout. We are sure it will be a big success.'

Pressure

There has been a lot of pressure from rank-and-file miners in North Wales to take disciplinary action against the men who are still working at Point of Ayr.

'The men on strike at both pits think it is about time that some action is taken against them,' Ellis said.

'Two of our executive members are taking legal advice on it now. We consulted head office in Sheffield and they thought it best to leave it be.'

'But in view of the pressure from the men we are taking further advice and will then decide what can be done.'

THE MINERS' STRUGGLE

The case for Community Councils

EVERY trade unionist and worker must come to the aid of the miners in their struggle for jobs against the capitalist state, the Thatcher dictatorship and the National Coal Board.

The working class as a whole and their professional allies must share the burdens and sacrifices of the fight which the miners are waging in defence of the most basic of rights — the right to work and to organise freely in trade unions independent of the state.

Trade union branches, shop stewards' committees, trades councils and other labour movement organisations must take the initiative now in the setting up of Community Councils which will act immediately to meet the needs of the miners.

Thatcher and the state are out to smash up pit communities, driving families into destitution and starving the miners back to work. Their aim is not only to destroy the miners' union, but all trade unions.

Miners are, therefore, fighting on behalf of the whole working class. They cannot be left to shoulder the burdens of the strike alone. All workers must ensure that the miners can continue the struggle under the best conditions, and that a common front is presented to the class enemy.

As well as the trade unions, the Community Councils must draw in representatives of every section of the working class and their middle-class and professional allies involved in the anti-Tory fight — miners' wives, youth groups, voluntary organisations and local Labour councils.

At the very same time the Tories are attacking the miners, they are also establishing a central government dictatorship over local Labour councils, threatening cities like Liverpool with financial destruction and abolishing seven authorities covering the major industrial areas of England. Community Councils will take responsibility for the defence of local councils, jobs and services.

There are immediate and practical tasks which flow from the defiant resistance of the miners to the provocations of the NCB, an unprecedented military-style police operation directed by the Home Office through Scotland Yard and the organised harassment by social security, gas and electricity bureaucrats.

The Workers Revolutionary Party believes that the tasks of Community Councils, which should extend beyond mining districts, will be to:

- Provide food for families and children of those on strike. No miner to be starved back to work by the Tories.
- Pay urgent bills for electricity and gas, calling on workers not to carry out cut-offs as an act of solidarity with the strike. Raise funds for new clothing and footwear for strikers.
- Ensure that no miner is evicted by local councils for not being able to pay rent or rates. Make certain that medical supplies are paid for so that miners and their families can get the treatment prescribed.
- Arrange for the care of the elderly dependent on support from miners' families, ensure nursery provision so that miners' wives can participate fully in winning support for the strike.
- Organise the provision of free legal representation for miners who need it. Provide accommodation for miners from other areas.
- Watch out for and organise against provocateurs. Organise the defence of union offices and funds from state attacks.
- Rally other workers to support and back up miners' pickets and organise marches and rallies.

LABOUR COUNCILS must be asked to:

- Provide free school meals and transport for miners' children.
- Make office accommodation in council offices available to miners, with facilities for printing and communications.
- Make sure that no evictions take place because of mounting debts. Wipe out rent and rate arrears.
- Provide free public transport for strikers and their families. Make all council facilities available free to miners. Lay on entertainments and outings for miners' families.
- Resist having to foot the bill for the cost of the Downing Street directed police operation against the miners' union.

This is the best way to answer the challenge of the capitalist state, and the Tory dictatorship. Community Councils — as Soviet-type organisations — will give the working class confidence in its own independent strength to defeat the class enemy and provide the basis for the successful struggle for power which has now been joined.

Easington 'Free cafe' strengthens strike

EASINGTON miners' club in the Durham coalfield is the venue each day for hundreds of miners and their families to have a hot midday meal.

When News Line visited the 'free cafe', as it has been named, meals were being served to about 400 people in a lively and enthusiastic atmosphere.

Miners wives were busy preparing and serving the meals. One is herself a NUM member on strike from the NCB canteen. Another's husband is an official who refuses to cross the NUM picket line.

On the noticeboard in the club's entrance are lists of local traders who are supporting the campaign and messages of support.

Stay

Press officer Heather Wood said when the cafe first started people came in, had their meal and then went out. Now they stay and have a chat — which must strengthen the determination and morale of the strike.

The Save Easington Area Mines (SEAM) group started in November last year because of concern at the high unemployment in the area and the lack of juvenile recruitment into the mines.

Representatives from every group operating in the district — churches, the chamber of trade, all the unions — attended meetings which led to a huge rally in February attended by Labour leader Neil Kinnock.

Heather told us this was the biggest rally ever held outside of the Durham miners' gala.

'Before we knew it, the strike was on top of us and then we decided we could do something to help the miners who were out on strike,' she said.

'We formed a working party of women to look into it. The very next morning food was already arriving.'

'We decided to open a cafe in Easington and once this got under way people in different areas started ringing me asking how to form a group.'

'Now we have 13 groups operating in Hetton, Murton, Horden, the three lodges in SEAM, Herrington, Houghton, Blackhall, Thornley, Wingate, Wheatley Hill and Easington.'

Heather explained that each group collects food and money in its own electoral ward. Only the main committee, the SEAM relief fund, collects outside the area.

The other groups have all formed cafes, with Blackhall just starting off by giving out food parcels.

'Nobody is starving here,' said Heather. 'The food is available if you want to come. The Press wanted the soup kitchen image, but to us a soup kitchen is where you get soup because you can't get money in to help.'

'We are a free cafe with a different meal every day and we're getting brilliant support from all over.

'The chamber of trade have been particularly helpful and so have all the unions.'

'One lady from London — she must have read about us in News Line — sends us £20 each week.'

'This time we realise if we don't stand up we've had it. Wheatley Hill and Thornley dwindled and died when they closed their pits.'

'Thatcher thinks she knows what's best for us, but we have a good community and we want to keep it.'

Donations and support should be sent to Margaret Defty, Treasurer, SEAM Relief Fund, 52 George Avenue, Easington Colliery, Co. Durham.

Delegates for Sheffield from threatened pit

BULCLIFFE Wood NUM branch have decided to send at least six delegates to the ATUA conference in Sheffield on June 30 to discuss the organisation of the General Strike.

Bob Johnston, branch secretary at the closure-threatened pit near Wakefield, will be joining the delegation.

He believes that the current talks with the NCB are a ploy in which the Board will make some concessions such as stopping the pit closure programme for a limited period, owing to the amount of coal they've lost.

'The reason behind this ploy is that they hope to divide the rank and file from the leadership. They hope that the social security legislation which deprives miners of payments and the electricity board's threats to cut off supplies to families, will starve the miners back to work.'

Liar

'Thatcher has been proved to be a blatant liar in the past and MacGregor is her puppet, so how can we believe what he or his paymaster says?'

'I believe the miners will see through this ploy and that the whole trade union movement should support us because if we're defeated everybody else will lose.'

'We'll finish up with sweat shops in this country with the children supporting their parents, who will be unable to find work, just like it is in the Far East and South America,' he said.

'Thatcher's policy is to get the cheapest workforce in the world. The next step in this policy would be to cut unemployment benefit to the bone so that people would be desperate to take any paying job.'

Windscale cover-up by Tories

THE TORY government are putting lives at risk on the Cumbrian coast rather than pay compensation over the radioactive pollution from the Windscale plant, the environmental group Greenpeace said over the weekend.

George Pritchard, Greenpeace spokesman, told News Line that the latest discovery of highly radioactive material on the beach near the site proved that the beaches should not have been declared fit for use by holidaymakers.

'The latest discovery of radioactivity on the Ministry of Defence property near the plant confirms our information that the radioactivity is spreading along the beaches rather than being cleared up.'

Decision

'The government have made a political decision rather than a moral decision, and they have done this for financial expediency.'

'A political decision to reopen the beaches was made against the advice of government scientists.'

'They took that decision because a lot of the people locally were clamouring for compensation because of the effects on the holiday trade,' said Pritchard.

He said the danger to children playing on the beaches remained as high as before. Under United States safety standards, a child picking up a contaminated object on the beach would receive a yearly 'safe' dose in a mere 90 seconds.

British regulations are less stringent — a matter not unconnected to the much higher levels of pollution from the British nuclear industry — but even under British standards, 30 minutes exposure to a contaminated object on the beach is over a yearly 'safe' dose.

Pritchard explained

Scientists at the Windscale, Cumbria plant that the Windscale plant is still pumping out the same level of radioactivity as before, in addition to the highly radioactive material released on to the beaches from the accident last November.

Greenpeace was not satisfied with the latest statement from British Nuclear Fuels Limited, which claimed they would look for ways of cutting down radioactive releases.

Cautious

'Although we gave the announcement a cautious welcome, it now turns out that they are talking about a 10-year period. We want the releases stopped now. In ten years they will have put all that extra amount of radioactivity on the beaches.'

Greenpeace are hoping to bring international pressure to bear on the British government by passing a resolution at the Paris conference in a fortnight's time insisting on immediate introduction of modern techniques to cut down the discharges to nearly zero.

● THE West German nuclear fuel firm Nukem AG is still planning to send nuclear waste to China despite opposition from the Bonn government, who are planning a nuclear waste dump site on West German territory.

The company has announced an agreement with the Chinese government to store 3,000 tonnes of waste up to the year 2000.

Common Market accept hormones

THE Common Market is to permit the use of sex hormones to fatten livestock — despite medical fears that they may affect human health and child growth.

Although the EEC's executive commission banned the use of two artificial growth hormones — trenbolone and zeranol — there is to be no ban on the use of three naturally-produced hormones, oestradiol 17, testosterone and progesterone.

Fears

Although these three latter hormones are naturally produced, there have been fears that they may affect the growth pattern of children if consumed in high levels in meat.

Agriculture ministers are expected to approve the proposals before they take effect.

— leaving the vehicles as virtual shells.

The major problem facing the government is the contamination of grain reserves due for export, and the potential threat to high-value crops such as vegetables and grapes.

Mice plague Southern Australia

A PLAGUE of mice in southern Australia is posing serious problems to scientists responsible for pest control.

Although some farmers in the cereal-growing belt of the country are poisoning mice at the rate of 15,000 a night, the population is still growing.

The infestation has got so bad in the State of Victoria that Agriculture Minister Eric Kent has issued a directive telling the public how to tackle the mice.

The mice are descended from the European mouse which was brought to Australia on the first ships arriving on the continent two centuries ago.

There are additional problems for farmers because long-range weather forecasters are predicting a mild winter in Australia.

After stripping villages of any available food, the mice have been reported to climb into cars — eating the plastic off wiring and the rubber off wheels

Polish factories open to West

THE Polish government is apparently planning to open up its computer factories to Western capitalist investment.

A report which claims that Polish computer science is over 12 years behind developments in the West also proposes an end to government monopoly over the industry.

Professor Wieslaw Grudzewski, who is drawing up a report for the Jaruzelski military government, estimates that the specific gap between the Polish Riad computer and the IBM computer systems is 24 years.

He lists electronics and industrial robotics as the areas in which the technology gap is most evident.

But his solution to the problem favours the ending of monopoly and the introduction of 'competition' between factories.

He suggests that individual factories should be opened up to the international money market for investment, and that the principle of profit should govern any central investment programme.

Satellite sent into uncontrolled orbit

FOR the fourth time in 15 months, a US space launch has sent a satellite into an uncontrolled orbit.

On Saturday night, the Intelsat 5 telecommunications satellite — insured by a 108-nation consortium for $102 million — was tumbling out of control in space.

By tonight, the satellite was to have been boosted into a 20,000-mile high stationary orbit above Gabon. But after the failure of the second stage of the Atlas Centaur rocket, the satellite is in useless elliptical orbit varying between 92 and 765 miles above the earth.

The problem was the latest in a string of disappointing satellite launches for the US space programme.

On the 11th space shuttle flight in February this year, two communications satellites, one belonging to Western Union and the other to Indonesia, did not enter their desired orbits because booster rockets failed.

In April 1983, NASA almost lost an expensive nuclear war communications satellite because of an error in a booster rocket, although scientists managed to manoeuvre it back into orbit after several weeks.

The latest failure was the seventh in 36 Intelsat launchings. The last two Intelsat satellites were launched by the French Ariane rocket from Guyana.

Winning Post

Rapid Lass to show her tail again

SELECTIONS

LINGFIELD: 2.00 Fort Nayef, 2.30 The Copocabana Kid, 3.00 Van Dyke Brown, 3.30 Alpine Strings (n.b.), 4.00 Free Range, 4.30 Mirabiliary.

YARMOUTH: 2.15 Lord Jagged, 2.45 Tropical Storm, 3.15 Video Man, 3.45 Rapid Miss (nap), 4.15 Rothko, 4.45 Donovan's Choice.

HAMILTON: 7.00 Gunfighter, 7.25 Top That, 7.50 Bettabet Geraghty, 8.20 Corston Lad, 8.50 Hazel Bush, 9.20 Blaze Ahead.

RAPID MISS (3.35), provided Norma Macauley with her first winner for two years when scooting home at Thirsk earlier this month, and looks set to follow up at YARMOUTH today.

She will again have the assistance of apprentice Peter Bloomfield, and his claim will virtually nullify the seven-pound penalty she must carry in the Cradock Handicap.

The pair teamed up in fine style at Thirsk, when Rapid Miss came right away from her rivals inside the final furlong. Penchetta was two and-a-half lengths behind the selection that day, and even on these revised terms should not reverse the form.

Rothko (4.15), who ran very well when narrowly beaten at Leicester on his racecourse debut, can go one better in the Blackfriars Maiden Stakes.

Alpine Strings (3.30), the only three-year-old in LINGFIELD'S June Sprint Handicap, can get the better of his elders in what looks an open contest.

His two previous runs have been over seven furlongs, and although unplaced, he showed plenty of early pace on both occasions.

This return to six furlongs should suit him, and he may be too speedy for the consistent Dawn's Delight.

The Copocabana Kid (2.30), third to Duck Flight in a seller here last month, should win the Grange Selling Stakes, while hat-trick seeking Van Dyke Brown (3.00), is difficult to oppose in the OCS Sponsored Ladies' Stakes.

Elaine Mellor, who rides in the OCS Stakes also partners Hazel Bush (8.50), for Sir Mark Prescott at HAMILTON'S evening meeting, and her long trip should pay off.

Hazel Bush has already won twice on this Scottish track, and despite Elaine having to carry an extra five pounds as a special riding 'penalty', the four-year-old ought to be too good for Miss Diaward and Destroyer.

The Stakis Handicap is a very tricky affair, but it may pay to back Bettabet Geraghty (7.50), while Blaze Ahead (9.20), should beat fellow Newmarket raider Streamertail in the Saints and Sinners and Allander Maiden Stakes.

Lendl — champion

JOHN McENROE will be back in Paris next June — then, even more determined to capture the French Open tennis title.

'It's been a frustrating two weeks but I'll be back next year. I would hate to think this is the closest I'll come to winning at Roland Garros,' the New Yorker said after losing to Czechoslovakia's Ivan Lendl in the final on Sunday.

At one stage on Sunday, McEnroe looked to be cruising to his first French Open title — the first American to capture it since Tony Trabert all of 29 years ago.

But then everything just seemed to go wrong.

'Maybe it was fatigue, maybe I didn't push myself when leading by two sets and standing at 2-2, 40-0 in the third,' McEnroe admitted.

'I certainly couldn't have asked for more chances, but it's tough to serve well on clay in a long match. That's what makes this such a difficult tournament to win.'

After a fortnight of indifferent weather, Saturday and Sunday at the Stade Roland Garros in Paris were bathed in sunshine.

The temperature in the centre court bowl must have reached 90 degrees at times. McEnroe and Lendl battled through it relentlessly for over four hours.

Final

It was the longest men's singles final since the tiebreak was introduced in 1973.

Predictably, the match had its high moments of tension when McEnroe — and Lendl — disputed calls.

However, it must be said in the New Yorker's defence that the amnesty which the photographers agreed to earlier in the tournament was continually violated on Sunday.

After a meeting at the stadium early last week they had agreed not to take pictures when competitors were serving.

Above the silence of the 17,000 or so souls packed into the centre court there was always that tell-tale whirr of photographic motor drives.

Was this their way of teaching McEnroe a lesson? If it was it was childish, and the French Open organisers should take action before next year to see that there is no repeat of Sunday's unruly behaviour.

The American, as always, was magnanimous in defeat.

He had been beaten by a better player on the day — although until the day I die I will never understand how he let it slip away from him.

For the first two sets his service was magnificent. He played a perfect grass court serve-and-volley game on clay — and Lendl was made to look a clown.

Rugby league tourists penalised

BRITAIN'S Rugby League tourists recovered from Saturday's Test mauling by Australia to beat Wide Bay of Bundaberg, 28-18, in Queensland yesterday.

But their performance was far from convincing and afterwards coach Frank Myler hit out at referee Nick Hourigan, who awarded 22 penalties against the tourists.

'If referees aren't going to let our players play football then what's the use of coming up here,' Myler fumed in the changing room.

'Today's game was absolutely worthless as far as preparing for the second Test is concerned,' he said.

Hourigan penalised Britain three times inside the opening two minutes, which set the pattern for the match. By half-time Britain led 18-12, but had conceded 14 penalties.

Lendl was a worthy winner. Now the nightmare of, perhaps, going through his tennis career without winning a Grand Slam event is behind him.

Stage

He has reached this stage before. Paris in 1981 was his first major final. Bjorn Borg beat him. Then came two US Open finals, defeat again, and then last December he lost — on grass — to Sweden's Mats Wilander in the Australian Open decider.

Revenge, however, for McEnroe could come in the next few days.

Both players line up in the Stella Artois tournament at Queen's Club this week.

If they do meet there, it should be another enthralling final.

Cram may fight for 800m place

STEVE CRAM may give the British athletic selectors the biggest headache of the summer if he wins the Amateur Athletic Association's 800 metres race at Crystal Palace on June 24.

The world 1500 metres champion will be taking on Steve Ovett and could wreck the Olympic champion's plans to double up in Los Angeles.

Cram, the 23-year-old Geordie, who has kept a low profile since the world championships in Helsinki, may spring a surprise and run in both events himself.

In the past Cram has been reluctant to tackle both the two and four-lap races at a major championship, but now admits he has considered the proposition this year and did not rule out the possibility as he watched the Olympic trials at Gateshead on Sunday.

Fastest

He had been the fastest 800 metre runner in the world for the past two years and almost exactly a year ago inflicted a damaging defeat on the world record holder Sebastian Coe.

With only Coe and Peter Elliott assured of a place for the two-lap event in the Olympics, Ovett needs a fast time and to win to guarantee himself the third and final place.

Cram said: 'I keep thinking about doubling to my old belief that it wouldn't be wise.'

'I have been asked if I wanted to do both events but I would only accept it if I think I could win the 800 metres.'

But with Coe, Ovett and now Elliott all bidding to run both distances in California, Cram too may be persuaded to go for two golds as well.

Cram will make his first track appearance over 1,000 metres at the Loughborough AAA's meeting next weekend and will follow-up with the AAA's 800 and then probably tackle another 1,000 metres in Oslo on June 28.

'It would take me about three races to get on song, and by the Oslo meeting on July 21 I should be ready for a quality race,' he added.

STEVE CRAM

Elliott applied the pressure to Olympic champion Coe by winning the Emsley Carr Mile in 3 mins 55.71 at Gateshead. It was only his second major attempt at the distance and he won with a final lap of 55 seconds.

Now the 21-year-old Rotherham steelworker will match Coe in the AAA's 1500 metres with the winner certain to clinch the final Olympic vacancy.

'OLD' SOCCER FINDS YOUNG EXPONENTS

ENGLAND'S young goal heroes, John Barnes and Mark Hateley, each saw the victory over Brazil as total justification for manager Bobby Robson's tactical plan.

Said Barnes: 'If anyone has any objections or qualms about England playing wingers and an old fashioned centre-forward, then I think our second goal shows the right judgement was made by the manager.'

'Mark Hateley automatically goes to the far post and if he gets the ball there he will always win more than his fair share of the high balls.

Added Barnes: 'Before the game Mark Chamberlain and I sorted out exactly where we were supposed to get back and help in defence. I had no worries about falling back and helping early on, when Brazil had a lot of possession.'

'I don't remember a lot about my goal, I cut inside and kept thinking that I had better shoot soon. But it went on and on and nobody came to tackle me.

'I didn't look to see if

BY A SOCCER CORRESPONDENT

my shot went in because I knew the keeper was not there when I hit it. The feeling was absolute elation. I hope to have many more moments like that but I can't imagine them just now.'

Said Mark Hateley: 'I felt I was a bit unlucky when the goalkeeper got a hand to my first half header. John Barnes' cross in the second half was right on the spot.

Nudge

'I gave my marker a bit of a nudge to make me a yard at the far post and headed it down towards the near post as the keeper was falling back.

'A goal in my first full game, an England win and Brazil beaten in the Maracana Stadium — that says it all for me.

'I gave John Barnes the pass for his goal and was screaming for a return. But his finish was brilliant so I settled for an assist and a goal.

'It was a brilliant overall team performance. The experienced players never stopped giving encouragement and we were by far the better side. We can only build good things from a result like that.

● THE L-plate internationals, asked to achieve the seemingly impossible in Rio's Maracana Stadium, survived their test of nerve and ability, to give England a memorable first win in Brazil.

Debut defender Dave Watson of Norwich survived a shaky start to anchor England's ultimate domination of the home front line.

First time starter Mark Hateley of Portsmouth headed a superb goal and was unlucky not to add a second, while three-cap Terry Fenwick of Queen's Park Rangers, grazed the cross-bar with as cheeky a free-kick as any Brazilian ever conjured up.

Top marks for progress though, had to go to England's incisive wingers John Barnes of Watford and Stoke's Mark Chamberlain.

Asked to contribute more to the team effort or force manager Robson to abandon his 4-2-4 strategy, they both graduated with high honours in the 'Mecca of soccer'.

Barnes sparked off England's triumph with a superb solo goal. Tacking across the penalty box, he left three defenders struggling to make contact before stroking home his first England goal.

Chamberlain, who until that opening goal looked the more enterprising of the two wingers, continued to produce skills allegedly learned exclusively on the beaches of the nearby Copacabana and duly won admiring applause from the Brazilian afficianados with his spectacular running with the ball.

Barnes and Chamberlain produced accurate crosses which the all-juggling home stars could not, and when Barnes placed one such centre to the far post in the 64th minute Hateley rose to head in with confidence and power.

England's youngsters deserved their moments of glory but the older generation laid the foundation for a victory to brighten the gloom of an unhappy international season.

Peter Shilton produced important saves in the early moments, when Watson and Kenny Sansom found themselves under fierce pressure.

Ray Wilkins and Bryan Robson can seldom have worked harder for 90 minutes in the England cause, and Tony Woodcock ignored a painful hamstring injury to help guide the young front-

Team

Manager Robson summed it all up: 'It was a team victory, the mix of senior and younger players worked very well. Everybody did his part and a few of the younger lads have grown up tonight,' he said.

One win, doesn't of course, make a World Cup qualifying side, however, and despite all the good points for England it should be said the rebuilt Brazil looked a team well below their traditional flair combined with technique and teamwork.

The result will have surprised the qualifiers for this week's European Championships almost as much as it surprised most of us.

But one wonders if the legacy of losing players like Zico, Falcao and Socrates to European club football has temporarily giddied the South American masters — they'll wreak vengeance for this from someone no doubt.

Against Uruguay in Montevideo tomorrow Hateley will almost certainly have a new striker partner.

Clive Allen, who substituted for Woodcock in the closing stages on Sunday night will probably get a start in place of the Arsenal man.

MARK HATELEY... Played a traditional centre-forward's role with great determination at the Maracana Stadium in his first full match

Kapil Dev hits out for Worcester

BY OUR CRICKET CORRESPONDENT

KAPIL Dev began paying Worcestershire back for hiring him when he struck 95 in 129 minutes against Hampshire at New Road yesterday.

The Indian captain's explosive innings for his new county included four sixes, all off Nigel Cowley, and thirteen fours, but ended tamely when he drove a return catch into the hands of Cardigan Connor.

David Smith, who partnered Dev in a stand of 153, made his best score so far for Worcestershire with an unbeaten 83 before they declared 12 runs ahead at 328 for five.

Dev then claimed his first championship wicket for Worcestershire, but after losing their openers for only 12, Hampshire built a lead of 121, reaching 133 for two at the close.

At Ilford Essex fought back in their quest to stave off defeat after being forced to follow on 220 behind Warwickshire.

By the close they had reached 249 for four, a slender lead of 29, thanks chiefly to half centuries by Graham Gooch, Chris Gladwin and Ken McEwan.

Combination

The county champions were bowled out for 114 in their first innings as the combination of an unpredictable pitch and overcast skies, which helped the seam bowlers, proved too much for them.

The West Indian tourists, set the impossible target of 173 in 80 minutes by Northamptonshire at Milton Keynes, settled for a comfortable draw.

The final day however, belonged to 17-year-old David Ripley, deputising for George Sharp.

The slim Yorkshireman came in to open the innings on Sunday night and stayed to make a confident 42, including six fours.

He batted for more than two hours, handling the West Indian pace attack without undue problems until he was bowled by Eldine Baptiste soon after lunch.

Baptiste finished with four for 49 as Northants declared their second innings at 200 for 5.

Baptiste has almost certainly clinched his place in the first Test against England starting at Edgbaston on Thursday, as his main rival Milton Small went off early in the game with a groin injury.

Gordon Greenidge's first two scoring shots in the tourists' second innings were sixes, but he and Desmond Haynes settled for batting practice.

At the close Greenidge was on 36, Haynes on 12, and the West Indies 50 without loss.

Early seeds fall at Queen's club

Krishnan upsets Swede

IT should have been a quiet day at Queen's Club yesterday.

The Stella Artois Grass Court Championships, valued at £136,000 on the Volvo Grand Prix circuit, was holding its breath waiting for the big guns to arrive from the French Open Tennis championships.

BY MATTHEW NUGENT AT QUEENS

But those who did turn up yesterday — making it a record first day at Queen's — were treated to a day of upsets as the championships got off to a giant-killing start.

No less than four seeds fell.

Probably the biggest upset of the day was the victory of India's Ramesh Krishnan against Sweden's Stefan Edberg.

In a compelling tussle on centre court, Krishnan, who is possibly among the world's top 20 grass court players, overcame his opponent, the No.9 seed, 6-7, 7-6, 6-3.

Krishnan, who on so many occasions has failed to live up to expectations, kept his cool to defeat an opponent who's very much in the Bjorn Borg mould when it comes to patience.

Chris Lewis of New Zealand, who reached last year's Wimbledon final, was well beaten by Frenchman Guy Forges in straight sets, 7-6, 7-5.

In another upset Australia's Paul McNamee defeated the No.14 seed, America's Brian Gottfried, 4-6, 6-4, 6-1.

Then Danie Visser defeated the No.6 seed, American Bill Scanlon in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4.

British hopes of reaching the second round were also dashed yesterday.

In an exciting tussle on centre court Casio Motta of Brazil defeated John Lloyd 7-6, 6-1.

Afterwards, Lloyd was very disappointed with the result, feeling that he could have beaten his opponent on the day.

Stuart Bale, the other British player in action yesterday, had four match points against Australian Greg Holmes — but still managed to squander them all. Bale was eventually beaten 4-6, 6-3, 9-4.

● THERE should be a rush for centre court seats here at Queen's Club this afternoon — now that the gladiators have recovered from their exertions in Paris at the weekend.

The Stella Artois defending champion, No.3 seed Jimmy Connors, opens his 1984 account with a first-round clash against Bernie Mitton.

Connors is followed on to centre court by the two players who brought us such a memorable French Open final at the weekend — Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia and America's John McEnroe.

Lendl, the new champion of France, faces Leif Shiras of the US while McEnroe faces another American, Martin Davis.

STELLA ARTOIS champion Jimmy Connors proudly displays the magnificent trophy he won at Queen's last summer. He's back there again this week defending his title but will be strongly challenged by John McEnroe, Ivan Lendl, Yannick Noah and Jimmy Arias.
