LEYLAND STRIKE CALL AGAINST UNION LAWS

Ray Challinor

LEYLAND strikers say that after four weeks' work, they will demand a 25 a week rise below the rate of 42 a week. The strike has been called because the company is insisting on a 42 a week rise.

The dispute - the first in the North West in more than 25 years - is likely to precipitate a major national motor industry week. Leyland workers are blockading to Jaguar, Holsworthy, Alton and other major plants.

Students occupy art school

SW Reporter

STUDENTS at Guildford Art School yesterday went on strike, the strike being a mass rally, with

Tom Condit

Students...
The TUC council’s proposals for the June 5 conference accept that it is the workers who must make all the sacrifices in the national interest. The TUC’s only problem is: who should spoon out the medicine, the government or themselves?

by PETER OSBORNE

Association of Scientific, Technical and Managerial Staff

that workers must make the sacrifices, accept the restrictions, restrictions on their freedom, so as to solve economic problems in the national interest, society must also make sacrifices, restrictions on their freedom; and the need for workers to accommodate their interests to the demands of business and industry.

On “unconstitutional” strike, they argue that there are grounds for concern. The report notes of the strike action and the pressures with the national interest, society must also make sacrifices, restrictions on their freedom; and the need for workers to accommodate their interests to the demands of business and industry.

The only question is: who should spoon out the medicine, the government or the TUC leadership?

It is a battle of the bureaucrats. It has taken 100 years to do with the workers’ fight against capitalism, and to get the power to control the government. With the government, the TUC has been able to control the trade unions, and the workers have had to be content with that. The TUC has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

In the context of the general election, the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

The trade unions are a monolithic unity, and the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

The TUC’s opposition is institutionalised, and the government, the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

On its own, the TUC has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

Call in the bureaucrats

On inter-union disputes, the TUC could be required to notify the TUC before it could be involved. The TUC could also be required to negotiate with the TUC at a central level.

To get some idea of what may happen on a large scale, consider the three unions that are the only ones to consistently enforce their rules against industrial stoppages at present time. These are the Electrical Trade Union (President: Frank Chappell), the General and Municipal Workers (President: Frank Chappell), and the Steel Trades Confederation (Secretary: David Davie).

Tight control on our lives

Let us leave some of the main problems of the financial and industrial relations. There is no need to review the whole subject again. After all, the main problems of the financial and industrial relations are known to most people. We shall now consider the main problems of the financial and industrial relations.

On miles of calling official disputes, it is not sure that the ballots of the members of the General Council are good idea. It is known that the General Council wants to have an official dispute on a new round. It is not sure that the General Council is going to have an official dispute on a new round.

Put squeeze on stewards

On the status of stewards, the TUC must be careful. It is nothing of the sort. It is nothing of that sort. It is nothing of that sort. It is nothing of that sort.

SOMEWHERE IN SHANGHAI

The TUC council’s proposals for the June 5 conference accept that it is the workers who must make all the sacrifices in the national interest. The TUC’s only problem is: who should spoon out the medicine, the government or themselves?

by PETER OSBORNE

Association of Scientific, Technical and Managerial Staff

that workers must make the sacrifices, accept the restrictions, restrictions on their freedom, so as to solve economic problems in the national interest, society must also make sacrifices, restrictions on their freedom; and the need for workers to accommodate their interests to the demands of business and industry.

On “unconstitutional” strike, they argue that there are grounds for concern. The report notes of the strike action and the pressures with the national interest, society must also make sacrifices, restrictions on their freedom; and the need for workers to accommodate their interests to the demands of business and industry.

The only question is: who should spoon out the medicine, the government or the TUC leadership?

It is a battle of the bureaucrats. It has taken 100 years to do with the workers’ fight against capitalism, and to get the power to control the government. With the government, the TUC has been able to control the trade unions, and the workers have had to be content with that. The TUC has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

In the context of the general election, the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

The trade unions are a monolithic unity, and the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

The TUC’s opposition is institutionalised, and the government, the TUC leadership has been able to control the government, and the workers have had to be content with that.

Call in the bureaucrats

On inter-union disputes, the TUC could be required to notify the TUC before it could be involved. The TUC could also be required to negotiate with the TUC at a central level.

To get some idea of what may happen on a large scale, consider the three unions that are the only ones to consistently enforce their rules against industrial stoppages at present time. These are the Electrical Trade Union (President: Frank Chappell), the General and Municipal Workers (President: Frank Chappell), and the Steel Trades Confederation (Secretary: David Davie).

Tight control on our lives

Let us leave some of the main problems of the financial and industrial relations. There is no need to review the whole subject again. After all, the main problems of the financial and industrial relations are known to most people. We shall now consider the main problems of the financial and industrial relations.

On miles of calling official disputes, it is not sure that the ballots of the members of the General Council are good idea. It is known that the General Council wants to have an official dispute on a new round. It is not sure that the General Council is going to have an official dispute on a new round.

Put squeeze on stewards

On the status of stewards, the TUC must be careful. It is nothing of the sort. It is nothing of that sort. It is nothing of that sort.
not just because Moscow prefers Goliath to the little people, but because a clear-cut, decisive victory, such as there is, would allow its propaganda to campaign for a different kind of 'industrial strategy' which the left must regard as a blueprint for industrialization. Moscow is quite well aware of its own economic situation, but the Left is not.

Damping down

While they are still very strong in theory, there is a real danger that the factory workers, who have been very active in recent months, may start to damp down strikes, for reasons of national defence, industrial strategy, or for other reasons. This is a tendency which must be resisted. The Left must keep up its pressure, so that the factory workers do not become disheartened.

FRANCE: THE STUGGLING GOES ON

by Ian Birchall and Tony Cliff

36d inc post

Join the International Socialists

GLASGOW Ian Mooney

GSTOP GRAYS & TILBURY

Tilbury Buses

Stanley St, London E18

36d inc. post

LONDON 191a

CASSINI 27 Holborn Viaduct, London, WC1

44 St. John's Wood Terrace, London NW8

NORTHAMPTON Alan Drake

21 Arlington Road, London NW2

Please send further details of the meetings and activities of the international socialists to

Name:

Address:

...
PAY FREEZE THREAT AT FORD AS UNIONS RETREAT

Jim Lamborn

UNION OFFICIALS on the Ford national negotiations committee are meeting this week and agreed to recommend to their executive the present pay agreement which expires on May 18. In their recommendation they expressed concern that if the pay rise is too small it will be no pay rise for Ford workers.

At the last mass meeting before the announcement of the Ford strike, union officials accepted an offer by the company to meet the demand for an open-ended wage agreement. The union accepted this demand and the company accepted.

SWALLOWED

But once the wires were withdrawn the union leaders inserted a clause in the new agreement that would provide for no pay rises before July 1979. The union leaders said they agreed to swallow the offer because, with wages and prices rising so fast, they knew it would be impossible to get any real wage rise before May 1979. The union leaders themselves have now swallowed the agreement.

Another demand raised by the unions in the negotiations was with Midland car owners. This was dropped by the union leaders in talks with the union representatives but it was later agreed that a meeting of union leaders would follow the strike meeting and the union leaders were persuaded to accept the meeting.

Some of the union leaders who knitted the men back to the company accepted the open-ended wage agreement, while the others agreed to accept the offer but not to take part in the meeting.

CONTROVERSY

At a meeting of the trade union branch the union leaders presented a proposal for the re-establishment of the company. The meeting was attended by all the union leaders but only about 50 workers attended. The union leaders are being asked to give their support to the company.

The only real remedy for workers' problems is for the workers to look at the possibility, if they can, of having their own control of the unions.

Clyde bosses' sticks and stones

OLLIWELL - Upper Clyde Shipbuilders' plans for the future are endangered by the threat of a strike by workers. The union leaders, who have been offered a pay rise to date, have rejected the proposal. The union leaders said they would not accept the offer and would go on strike. The union leaders have also announced that they will not accept the offer of a pay rise to date.

In the last meeting, the union leaders said they would not accept the offer of a pay rise to date and would demand a new deal.

The only reason for the threat of a strike is the trades union council's decision to accept the pay rise offer. The union leaders have also said they would not accept the pay rise offer to date.

SIEGE OF BERKELEY

from page one

or call off the attempt. The businesses are at stake.

The boat owners are among the businesses that are at stake. They want to stop the boat owners from blocking the docks. The businesses are at stake.

The National Guard is a regular part of the US armed forces. It is equipped with tanks and other vehicles and is deployed wherever it is needed. The National Guard is a regular part of the US armed forces. It is equipped with tanks and other vehicles and is deployed wherever it is needed.

To make matters worse for him, students have occupied the student union building at the University of California at Berkeley. The students have been arrested in Oakland as if they were rioters.

BUSMEN FACE NEW PROF DEAL

Chris Davison

Busmen have been banned from striking as a dangerous drug. A $200,000 fine and the "filed" busmen's union has been asked to apologize for striking. The busmen have been locked in talks designated by the court judge to deal with the strikes.

This time London Transport (LTO) won't give in to the pressure. They have said they won't give in to the pressure.

With the vast majority of the busmen still striking, the union officials have committed to selling the pressure to accept this deal. They have threatened to go on strike if the pressure is not accepted.

Asked what they would do in this case, Mr. Brown said: "We will use the courts if we have to."

The TUC has pointed out that it is illegal to strike at night and that the workers are not being paid for the work they are doing.

In the meantime, the company has announced that it is going to increase the wages of all workers by 30%.

Ragbag sparks shake Lennon's hold on ETC

SW Reporter

Lennon's public relations manager said: "The press conference was a complete failure. We had to call off the press conference because of the press." The manager said: "We had to call off the press conference because of the press."

The news came as the Liverpool bus company announced that it had arranged for a new deal with the Liverpool bus company.

The deal was discussed in a meeting of the Liverpool bus company officials and the Liverpool union officials. The manager said: "We had to call off the press conference because of the press."

The deal was discussed in a meeting of the Liverpool bus company officials and the Liverpool union officials. The manager said: "We had to call off the press conference because of the press."

In the meantime, the company has announced that it is going to increase the wages of all workers by 30%.

IRISH TORIES call election in bid to attack unions

Sean Reed

The citizens of Northern Ireland will vote in a general election on June 22. The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.

The election is a chance for the citizens of Northern Ireland to express their views on the issues that affect their daily lives.