LEYLAND: WE ARE STRIKING FOR

GOVERNMENT, press and television have launched vicious attacks on several thousand toolroom workers in 11 Leyland factories. The workers are well used to holding the company to ransom, of causing it "to bleed to death", of warning to "put themselves above" other workers. What is their real crime? They have gone on strike.

On strike against the renewal of the Social Contract in August. On strike for parity between those in the worst-paid factories with those of other factories who can exist up to £40 a week more.

On strike for the right to negotiate for themselves now a real deal for when Phase Two ends in August.

Forefront
Socialist Worker asked one of the strike leaders, John Sheldon, a toolroom steward at Tractors and Transmissions plant in Binghamton, to explain what their case really is:

"We've had Phase One and Phase Two. Before that we had the Heath government through it and the end really went off. All the socialist by workers has made it different.

"We've given them notice that we don't intend to have another Phase Three. A young lad married with two children in our factory would be on £60. A little less than £100 a week. That leaves him £35 to pay rates, lights, HP, etc.

"And toolroom workers in Longbridge get £3 per week less than us.

"Is it a strike directed against other workers?

"Some people say it's about differentials between toolroom workers and other workers. I don't think. The differentials are not going to alter without the agreement of the whole. We know. We've got to improve the situation of everyone, not just of toolroom workers.

"We've got to improve the situation of themselves and their negotiating rights. Management know that if they don't get together, management would have to recognize their negotiating rights. But management know that if they recognize the toolroomers, they will have to recognize other groups.

"In no way can we want to restrict other workers from their rights. Remember there's a 60% gap between the lowest paid and the highest paid toolroomers in British Leyland. That's the gap we are concerned with.

"Some of the toolroom workers do regard us as more skilled. But I've seen a course representing all classes of workers for the majority. The inclusion of differentials is very low down in the order.

"Other workers are in the same boat as us. Their wages are being held down. But the people who represent them are going to pockets, calling toolroom workers everywhere.

"Our strike is for more parity. We want to negotiate from August.

"This fight is not a repetition against other workers. It's not reactionary. We want to improve the situation of everyone. Someone has to take up the challenge."

The government say you are threatening the future of Leyland.

The government say they are threatening the future of Leyland.

Varying, the Industry Minister, is using the threat as a weapon to get the car company to agree to cut the profits of the company.

They're trying to force the company into accepting a lower wage for their workers.

We pay taxes and our money goes into Leyland as much as anybody else. But what price do we pay for this?

If we are going to be asked to pay the direct costs of government and management every time we ask for a wage rise, we are being cheated.

It is inescapable in this. If we have their money again, we're never going to get the wages we need.

We had a chance this time to get the workers of the company to actually fight for the company.

The management give me notice to the trade union. They don't say the word when it comes to profits for the company.

The trade union give the same notice against any group of workers that the company.

Look at Chrysler: huge profits in the last six months but paper losses in Britain.

What has been the response of the union officials?

The officials of the union say the trade union has a obligation to the workers. They have more to do than the workers.

This is the majority of strikers are under the influence.

The executive of the union are in trouble for trying to fight for the workers.

Phil Agee

- it's a well-trodden road...

SOCIALISTS and liberals campaign rightly against the deportation of Philip Agee and Mark Hosenball. But about 100 Irish men have been deported from Britain in the last two years by even less democratic means.

Before and after Agee and Hosenball they were arrested and held in prison until the Irish Civil Rights Office reported. They had to appeal before the tribunal alone and were not allowed to call witnesses.

This happened under the Prevention of Terrorism Act, introduced by the Labour Government after the IRA atrocity in the 1974 miners' strike.

They were given access to the paper, but not to the full case and were not allowed to call witnesses.

They have been kept on the edge of action at the same time as the full case and were not allowed to call witnesses.

The paper is known as the Official Paper and is printed in the United Kingdom.

TWO HUNDRED people picketed the main gates of Strangeways Prison in Manchester on Saturday following evidence that the National Front prisoners were in the prison.

The prisoners have been rounded up by the National Front on charges of murder, theft, and other crimes.

Wyszynski's position is one of the Socialist Workers Party is proud to share.

Yet numbers such as these at Strangeways are growing on every week. They say they are not because the men with power and resources in the branches of the British newspapers and the controlling owners of British TV stations are only too anxious to look after their interests and set up in Salisbury, Rhodesia.
WHO BENEFITS from workers’ sacrifices under the Social Contract?

Even official statistics can’t hide the answer any longer. In February, 91% of industrial companies published their annual reports. Pre-tax profits were up 33.8% per cent. Dividends paid were up 31% – but a large part of this was paid out for nothing simply because people have shares in those companies. Overall, dividends paid were up 34.2% per cent. £80 million was paid to the shareholders.

That’s enough to build and staff four new hospitals, or five new schools.

It’s enough to pay every worker in every one of those 59 companies a wage increase of at least £2 a week.

And that doesn’t include the banks or the insurance companies. Lloyds Bank, for instance, report profits up 85% per cent – and Barclays are up from £142 million to an astonishing £197 million.

It’s interest payments to the banks that is pushing up council rates, and causing up Leyland’s £118 million profits. Lloyds and Barclays paid out £1 million last year to their shareholders. Not content with these exorbitant hand-outs, however, the rich are screaming for more.

They are putting pressure on the Labour government to “relax” their demands. And, at the same time, they are searching for all sorts of new schemes to get the money which they have stored up from frozen wages and savings into the pockets of their shareholders.

Upon to the Daily Telegraph for 1 March. Companies must now look back on their own ingenuity in seeking loopholes in present legislation. Britain Woodrow of Crotex pioneered the “cheap” rights issue, enabling higher share dividends. In actual fact, GEC’s chosen path was more complex but effective.

‘Neither however is likely to be the vehicle ultimately used by Bacheam. Bacheam is full of cash.

They are all “full of cash” now thanks to the Social Contract, the cuts in public spending, and the cuts in corporation tax. They are not creating more wealth with that cash, and the Labour government pretended.

William Harris of the British Insurance Association admits this week.

‘Completely retained profits under dividend restraint are not necessarily invested in the overall interests of the national economy.’

No. They are kept until they can be dispatched out to the rich. That’s why the Social Contract is all about.

We are calling it “France”. Week after week, the Mayor tells the workers, “We will just have to...”

That’s the Judge whose orders are not to be questioned. The Mayor, who condemned the Labour government for the illegal occupation of the house of the principal of the great college in Cambridge in 1970, when a man was imprisoned for three years. And who, towards the end of his life, he had written a letter to Harold Wilson about police protection.

No wonder Judge Stephen’s visits to St Albans and Stevenage have split the workers.

After the lengthy argument, the judge admitted they were quite 6.6 on the butter or beer issue. The judge told them to find a butter vendor, and they came back on that and a half hour later with a packet of six.

A very pleasant start to the afternoon.

The judge then gave the judge and the appellet a made up of 12.00pm Saturday duty a special order for the police. The judge told the police not to be lenient on the police officers.

That’s what the Social Contract is all about.

Risks

There is no point in appealing. The risks are enormous, as experienced, and the appeal court a made up of 12.00pm Saturday duty a special order for the police. The judge told the police not to be lenient on the police officers.

That’s what the Social Contract is all about.

We felt we had to be there for our right to participate, the protection of trade union leaders.

Now we have to keep up the fight against him and all the other trade union leaders who are tolerating unemployment and the cuts. We must hold off the attack on trade unions, the cuts in public spending, and the cuts in corporation tax. They are not creating more wealth with that cash, and the Labour government pretended. William Harris of the British Insurance Association admits this week.

“Completely retained profits under dividend restraint are not necessarily invested in the overall interests of the national economy.”

No. They are kept until they can be dispatched out to the rich. That’s why the Social Contract is all about.

THERE’S ONLY ONE THING STANDING IN OUR WAY – THE PROFIT SYSTEM

The amount of wealth that could be satisfied people’s means could only be increased by a tenth tomorrow – if the workers were prepared, according to the latest targets, of the profit system.

That’s the only conclusion that can be drawn from the report 1960-1970, from the authorisation, National Institute of Economic Review. It shows that if the unemployment were allowed to work in factories at present allowed to work at present allowed to work at present allowed to work at present allowed to work.

Since about two-thirds of the national wealth itself goes to workers in wages, it is inextricably linked to an increase of 13% per cent in wages, which would cause any increase in prices.

If there were the possibility of unlimited additional work, including the cost of the increased costs in production and wages could be doubled as high.

All without taking into account the enormous amount of social waste on even just 1% of the maximum, according to the Social Contract’s flights for the very waste and advertising, and so on.

So what stops all this wealth being captured? The institute says “demand” but adds: “The long-standing problem remains of how to stimulate demand through investment and exports rather than through consumption.”

What it really means is that no one knows how to stimulate demand through investment and exports rather than through consumption.

FASCISTS ON THE MENU...

The fascists of the National Front have suffered a setback in Bradford. Local journalists and members of the Socialist Workers Party recently found out where they were launching their meeting. Local Police swooped.

Forty people packed the next meeting. Although outnumbered by the fascists and the police, they shouted defiance and challenged the fascists.

After the meeting, the manager, obviously worried about his trade, came out and made a statement blaming the Front for the premises.

The fascists were a small group, mostly teenagers dressed in Nazi uniforms.

The manager was a middle-aged man, who claimed that the Nazis had been putting up their own notices. He said that the police had not intervened.

The manager also said that the Fascists had been causing trouble in the local area.

The police did not stop any single individual and there was no evidence linking the Nazis with the hotel. The manager claimed that the Nazis had been arrested by the police.

The next step will be to organise further protests and try to prevent the fascists from returning to the hotel.

TEENAGERS FRAMED BY POLICE

The police have arrested two young men from Newcastle who were suspected of being involved in a brawl in Green Street.

At their trial, the judge said that the police had made a mistake in arresting the young men. However, he did not say whether they would be charged.

The judge also said that the police should have obtained a warrant before arresting the young men.

The police did not stop the Fascists from gathering and there was no evidence linking them with the hotel. The manager claimed that the Nazis had been arrested by the police.

The next step will be to organise further protests and try to prevent the fascists from returning to the hotel.

NURSE TOLD: GET OUT OF THE COUNTRY

You're not going to get us out of the country.

That was the response of the Trades Union Congress (TUC) to the government's decision to deport a nurse from Yemen.

The TUC, speaking through its President, commented: "We are deeply concerned about the Government's decision to deport this nurse. The nurse, a Yemeni woman, has been working in the National Health Service for over a decade and has become an integral part of our healthcare system."

The TUC also noted that the nurse had been cleared of any wrongdoing and had been fully integrated into the community.

The TUC reiterated its commitment to supporting the rights of all workers, regardless of their nationality, and called on the government to reconsider its decision.

The nurse, whose name has not been released, is believed to be the first person to be deported from the UK for her work as a nurse. The nurse had been working in the UK for over a decade and had been cleared of any wrongdoing.

Scandal of the hospital that may never open

THE OPENING of a huge new West London hospital has been delayed by two and a half years by Sindalls, the building contractors. And the local authority seems to be a willing victim.

Painters on strike at the King Edward Memorial Hospital in the Southall area have told Socialist Worker of a series of scandals about the way the hospital is being built.

The painters are on strike over their bonus scheme. They could only achieve their impossible bonuses by mixing out costs of paint.

Sindalls deliberately ran a campaign about private policy. It is already going to cost about £10 million more than the hospital should have cost by normal building standards.

The hospital is due to be completed by June 1978.

Now, at last, 22 months on, the site is still 10 per cent under the construction contract.

There is no limit to the profits that this company is making.

The local council, which runs the hospital, has not been notified about the project.

Delay

Only 20 men are on the site out of the 120 hired.

The delay is 12 months behind the council's estimate. Sindalls are breaking the terms of their building contract, and the council's building standards are being ignored.

According to the Ealing Hospital Group employed on the hospital, the hospital is expected to cost £48 million, but Sindalls are being paid £58 million.

The hospital will have more than 1,000 beds, and the council's estimate was £300 million.

The council has already paid out £60 million to Sindalls.

Ealing Hospital Group, which is the hospital group, expressed its concern about the delay on the hospital site.

Vested Interest

Despite the Ealing Hospital Group's concern, the council's building manager has said that the hospital is still on schedule.

There are 10,000 people on the waiting list for hospital beds in West Ealing. The hospital site is already bond mortgaged, and if it is delayed, residents could end up with the cost of construction.

There are hundreds of thousands of pounds involved in subsidising the hospital site being built into the kitchen and operating theatre. It is the vest

TALKING ABOUT SOCIALISM
Chris Harman

ONE AMAZING thing about the devolution debate has been the obsession of many Labour MPs with maintaining the ‘Integrity of the United Kingdom’. In general, the more you move to the right on the English political spectrum, the more obsessed you are in the belief in the sacredness of the union between England, Scotland and Wales. The reasons are simple enough. For hundreds of years, the British and Scottish Parliaments have been the workhorses of all progressive legislation in this country, and therefore the guarantor of the integrity of the Kingdom of Britain. The grandstand in the Old Bailey was not at all too tall.

Revamped
Quite naturally, these motions are being reviled as a new form of Tory MP—possibly by those Labour MPs who have everything in common with the forces apart from the party labels. For socialists, however, things should be quite different. We reject all the paraphernalia of British state workers to make sacrifices for their—let’s say—towards an effort to produce huge chunks of the world, from Ireland to India, to the British Empire. The myth of great Britain, the United Kingdom, of the grandstand in the Old Bailey was not at all too tall.

No Nazis in Longbridge!
A delegate objected to a job at training schools at British Leyland Longbridge. When he said this job, he summed British Leyland Longbridge. When he said this job, he summed British Leyland Longbridge's interests are to keep workers to keep a black woman's job.

Management said he would have to go back to his old job but his race on his white collar after ideas. They did not want a National contract being waved about through the coming Labour surgeries. Right-wing politicians had to prove their true credentials with the British state workers to make sacrifices for their own sake (as they) towards an effort to produce huge chunks of the world, from Ireland to India, to the British Empire. The myth of great Britain, the United Kingdom, of the grandstand in the Old Bailey was not at all too tall.

Ssh! You know who ....
This IS Sergeant Gunn of the Special Branch. You may have seen him around on demonstrations, although he is very keen to stay out of the limelight.

He had a few choice words for our photographer who immortalised him on one of his most recent assignments, the Troops Out Demo.

Sgt Gunn is pictured below with some of his 'workmates'.

Then there’s Charles, Andy and Ed. You don’t know what they’re going into their heads. They’re not all a bunch of brains. First class school. I’m glad I’m not one. Who cares about the Jubilee?

MANY Socialist Worker readers have been in quite a fix over the Royal Jubilee. Here are two of the challenges John Belcher’s masterpieces:

A wish for Silver Jubilee Year
The Duke was in the Palace.
Counting out the money
The Queen was at Badminton.
On holiday with mummy.
Young Charles had gone for a spin.
With the Duke of Norfolk’s daughter.
And the Princess was a 'hunting.
At Glentaton-On-The-Water.
The Duke picked up the telephone.
And said, this to his wife: We haven’t the bloody cash.
To support our way of life.
You’ll have to tell the P.M.

That we need a million more.
It’s just to be on the safe side.
you’d better make that four.
And throughout the Windsor family.
Came a similar tale of woe.
The Royal rulers of the Commonwealth.
Were running short of dough.

What has caused this sorry state?
It’s not the bread, nor the beef.
Why, obviously, the wedding dress.
Has bled the treasury dry.

So in this Jubilee Year.
Let’s strip the nation’s health
And give the Royal Family.
The whole share of our wealth.

No Nazis in Longbridge!
I would have to go into details, but while I know the general point, I’ll have to leave it to others to fill in the blanks.

Disaster
But there is just one argument that has been left behind by the English, against British nationalism, in Scotland, fortunately linked up with the rest of the Kingdom of Britain. That is why supporters of the Labour Party in Scotland ought to oppose attempts to draw the devolution movement into a campaign for a separate parliament.

LIAISON CONFERENCE BACKS LEYLAND STEWARDS’ CALL

Now for a national strike against the Social Contract!

PETER CLARK AND JEAN GRAY REPORT

A ONE-DAY national strike against the Social Contract.

The call was made on Saturday by the Liaison Committee for the Defence of Trade Unions.

With 120 trade union delegations, it was the most important unofficial rank and file conference for years. As speaker after speaker made their point, the two-hour hall that housed the delegates of the Trades Union Congress in 1974 is now over.

Other delegations agreed that far from being the end of the line, this was the beginning of a new chapter in the Social Contract.

But there was considerable disagreement throughout the day about the purpose of the strike and the action. For many delegation, the point seemed to be to force a strike of union leaders and MPs to change the Government’s economic policies.

With just three votes against, the delegations’ call was adopted unanimously.

With the Social Contract as it is, it has to be a one-day strike to make it clear to the Government that we are not going to be pushed around by this Social Contract.

With the Social Contract as it is, it has to be a one-day strike to make it clear to the Government that we are not going to be pushed around by this Social Contract.

All trade unionists to be urged to the elected delegates of trade unions to be met to meet on the day after Parliament returns from Easter. The most likely date is thought to be 19 April.

The setting up of local committees based on workplaces, where they do not already exist, needs to be extended to a new Social Contract.

The direction committee made it clear that the day of action must be built on an all-out fight against the Social Contract.

From public sector workers to office workers in Birmingham all parts of the country, the conference chairman, Kevin Hopkins, called it a meeting of anger and unity.

ALL OUT TUESDAY 19 APRIL NATIONAL STRIKE AGAINST THE SOCIAL CONTRACT

Called by the British Leyland Combine Committee, endorsed by the Liaison Committee for the Defence of Trade Unions and the Right to Work Campaign.

JOIN THE MASS LOBBY OF PARLIAMENT

Move resolutions now endorsing the strike call and arranging delegations. Arrange transport to London now. Make sure your workplace or trade union is represented on the march.

The date of the stoppage is the first day after Parliament returns from the Easter recess. This seems to be 19 April, but the stoppage could be a day or two either side.

EDITOR’S PREVIEW: Jack Jones has been found out

Talk is that, we're going on working rate not.

The three-day stoppage was called for a very important reason: to show workers that we have no pay cut, to show workers that we are not going to be pushed around by this Social Contract.

THE TUCзал to extend the Social Contract. There must be a return to free collective bargaining.

All trade unionists to be urged to the electorate of trade unionists to be met to meet on the day after Parliament returns from Easter. The most likely date is thought to be 19 April.

Defenders now in need of defence

REGINA FISCHER spent ten days and nights hiding outside the Home Office in London to obstruct Home Secretary Marilyn Rees and to let as many people as possible know about the deportations and the Official Secrets Act charges.

During her fast in cold weather she was arrested because her camp had continued an obstruction. She was also assaulted by three police.

Her fast finished before Monday night's campaign meeting.

FRIENDS IN M16

WHAT IS the real reason for this white action being taken against me by the British government?

The British government know perfectly well that during all the time I was in the CIA I never worked in any way with the CIA and the British Secret Service, that I never at any time worked for the British intelligence services, that I have never worked for the American intelligence services, that I have never worked for any intelligence services, that I have never worked for the British Secret Service, and that I have never worked for the American intelligence services.

ABORTION
Battle of the bigots' Bill begins

The REAL AIM of the anti-abortionists was exposed last Friday when the American Bishops Bill to amend the 1967 Abortion Act got its second reading.

They know that they want to tighten up the law so that it is impossible for Abortion to be abused. Liberal leader David Steel: "Let us not pretend that the Bill to stop is a stop abortion Bill.

The Bill would mean a return to the situation in the 1860s when legal abortion was outlawed for the first time. Women would not be able to get aid in any way. The Bill would move towards abortion on demand, as well as being able to pay the bill under the National Health Service.

Ouageous
The most outrageous part of the Bill is that it is being backed up in every possible way. This makes it a mockery of the rights of women, of women's decisions, and of their parents.

And, as with every other Bill, the Bishops have failed to see that the Bishops are not those people, politically, socially, economically, and in this country who are interested in defending those who are with a medical crisis.

STATE MACHINE

Finally, the CIA is not an international operation as was said. It is an instrument of the President of the United States.

Henry Kissinger is himself a member of the CIA, and has a world-wide network of people who are interested in this operation. The CIA has its headquarters in Washington, D.C.

The CIA is an instrument of the President of the United States.

Looking at it this way, the real question is whether the CIA is a legitimate instrument of the President of the United States, or whether it is being used by the President, or by his advisers, to carry out his policies.

The CIA has its headquarters in Washington, D.C. and is undoubtedly the most powerful organization in the world.

In Argentina today, the situation is more complex than the situation in the United States. The organization of political and social forces there is much more complex, and the CIA's role is much more important.

Yet the CIA can be said to have the function of retaining power.

It is difficult to say what will happen in Argentina, but one thing is certain. The fact is that it is happening in Argentina, and it is happening now.

The CIA has been accused of being involved in a variety of activities, from espionage

India

Inside Mrs Gandhi’s hell-hole, by a woman jailed for five years

SOME people believe that Mrs Gandhi’s India is something socialist. They should read Mary Tyler’s book.

It is a picture of the real India struggling beneath all the hypocrisy. It is a picture of the many millions, the landless and poor, the politically hungry, perpetually persecuted, for whom the State and the boss and the landlord are all the same.

Strangled

Mary Tyler was a Wellesley schoolteacher. She saved up to go outland to stay with a friend’s family in Calcutta. After four months there, she married him.

But Calcutta was in the midst of a seige by the central government. Her husband had been back at the edge of the oppressor.

One month later, on a trip to a village in Bihar, Mary and her husband were arrested. He was accused of planting armed guerrilla writers.

There was not a shred of evidence, but from June 1970 until June 1972, Mary Tyler was held ‘rehabilitating’. Then they arrested her husband.

The charge didn’t matter. For the underservants—perhaps hundreds of thousands of people who didn’t even know their charges either.

Arrested

There was Old Ghagal. Together with four other schoolteachers, she had been held in jail as a landlord’s child. It was a landlords’ child. It was a landlord’s child who killed her.

The same day, the husband and the man who employ them, arrested.

Sometimes the prisoners starved: At one stage, even the morning which was dispensed, was replaced by a piece of bread which was cooked in a little oil.

“Jail was made into a hell for the lovely and young.”

The food was often inadequate. Eggs and vegetables were rationed. Some prisoners were allowed to have meat once a week, but their food was not even to make them talk.

Many prisoners were held in a ‘Nasakli’ or Nasakli, where they were kept permanently in cages. Cages were reduced in size, made to occasional sound and comfort.

Then there were lodging hostel prisoners (Nasakli were not included as political prisoners). Ref performance with voluntary privileges and good food, some on their way.

Anger

(‘India Establishment book立项 for prison work.)

“Occasionally, we would hear the sound of the new Delhi, asking his nearest friends, permanently sentenced. These were waves of industrial strikers, strong and magnificent.

At such stage, Mary Tyler’s records: She married, divorced, and divorced her. She married a new man.

At one stage, even the morning which was dispensed, was replaced by a piece of bread which was cooked in a little oil. It was a hell for all prisoners. They were fed on a diet that contained almost so much of starch.

SELL-OUT: BBC Radio Sheffield journalists handing out free picket at their picket line. The dispute started because the union was employing a non-greengrocers to write threat reports.

NO EXPLOITATION CONTRACT!
AFTER two years of Social Contracts' what is the result? I'll tell you... HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS of our people unemployed! CONTINUOUS soaring prices! Cuts in the social services and wages of unskilled manual workers.

In other words systematic exploitation of working people to pay off the rapacity of industry.
The Social Contract simply demonstrates the trade union movement in order that the government can get away with its attacks on the trade union movement.

It is not the trade unionists who fall who are defeated, it is the trade union movement itself by its failure to meet the challenges of the time.
The Social Contract 1976, at our respective conferences for the FASCFP.

NO TRUCK WITH BULLOCK!
Duncan Balls (National Union of Journalists) has right to argue that he has not to deal with the Bullcators', the Bullcators' workers' participation.

The CEC has appointed a Bullcators' Board, the board that backs the Bullcators' management in its instructions to its own union of trade unionists. It's a long, long time ago, his name was recorded as a member of a public order meeting, and it is not for us to keep up the files on the Bullcators.

On the other hand, the NUS and the NUJ have set up a committee to deal with the problem.

Today, or the 1930s?
SOMEBODY once commented to me that the struggle with the NUS and the NUJ movement, and to my own knowledge, is a starting point.

Except for one fact: Duncan Balls has not yet accepted the NUJ's offer to reopen the question of the workers' participation.

NOT A SOCIALIST Workers, 5 March 1977.

The Robert Kee Road to Socialism!
I WOULD like to tell you how I became interested in your movement. Up until about six weeks ago, if you had asked me who Karl Marx was I would have probably said he was a scientist, and communist in a dry, neutral sort of way, although I had no idea what he was.

Then about four months ago there was a programme on TV, Robert Kee on East Germany. I thought I would watch it to see how those poor people live.

I was absolutely astonished to discover that there was a unemployment, no inflation, and food was cheap. And here in the country I am one of 10 million unemployed, in a society that is not the kind of state we want, we made me want to find out more.

So I wrote to your Library and read some works on Marxism. I also bought some books and read them. Then one day I rang up Robert Kee in your office and it was great. It was just the paper looking for.

I am sure there were thousands of people like me who left school and went to get a basic education, and know nothing of Marxism.

There are a lot of people who say we can't work with the main political parties, who do not wish to change the society.

NUJ sell-out: Radio Sheffield journalists reply

WITH his unique combination of articulate membership, fat-waist pragmatism, Denis MacShane should make a splendid Labour MP. Unfortunately, as the present secretary of the National Union of Journalists during the Radio Sheffield strike called for something tougher, and when the going got a bit rough for the NUJ, he flipped a U-turn and put the NUJ into the streets.

No defence of his part in the great NUJ sell-out (Letters, 19 February) is inadequate because he pass the blame for what happened and made a mess of his hunt of blame of course routes with the leadership.

Certainly the NUJ did not like the decision. It was not very strong, and in London it certainly makes for a sharper job of the NUJ. Mr MacShane put the pressure on the NUJ to get into the streets. It was the /IPI that made this.

The NUJ NUJ exercise failed to meet anyll the NUJ are coming to a hard time in the leadership.

To make matters worse, while this exercise was taking place, a lot of the political matters were unimportant, which is not a bad thing. It is not the case that we want to find out more.

But even at the stage the dispute was going down, it is obvious that much of the NUJ are coming to a hard time in the leadership.

It seems that, in the end, the NUJ is not a useful instrument to achieve industrial aims. It seems that, in the end, the NUJ is not a useful instrument to achieve industrial aims.
The Red beside the bed

SOCIALISM IS THE PRESCRIPTION, SAYS DR JEAN LEWIS

WHEN, aged 17, I told my doctor that I intended to go into medical school and learn to be a doctor, he was horrified.

He tried to persuade me not to go. "Why don't you become a nurse?" he said.

After all, my father was a miner and I suppose I should have known my limitations.

The things that made me want to be a doctor were not the trappings of treatment and仍然, but the chance to prevent how people behaved and what they thought about this medicine.

I suppose at that point you could call it a sense of wanting to do good.

Dawn

While at medical school in Edinburgh, it began to dawn on me about the complete disconsolation and inequalities, around me, of women, who have been treated by doctors, even when they are only a quarter of the patient.

What was more shocking, however, was that 95 percent of the students came from public schools. Only 5 percent from the working class. It was an order of the day, no exceptions.

It was taught that the golden age of medicine was Victorian.

But it was really of course, nothing but a way to pass.

Doctors and midwives were seen as the only ones to cure everything from awkward pregnancies to a sore throat had arrived.

But doctors and all your tensions will disappear.

UNDER SOCIALISM, MEDICINE WILL BENEFIT HUMAN BEINGS, NOT THE DRUG COMPANIES

When I was in the Labour Party I was in the Labour Party working with people who I would get really upset with their politics, so that there would be more doctors who could just go out and do something for people.

But there is no guarantee that this will happen.

Reforms

All this time, the promise of socialism was to bring a new era of equality.

London Transport: Call for action

by PETE GLATTER

London has driven. All they were interested in was getting in to vote Labour in the EU elections. This was the verdict of one meeting after another. Transport workers called by the TGWU and the NUPE are among the underprivileged groups in the UK. They are under attack from General Motors, SIIC and TSSA.

This is their moment to win. Their struggle for a democratic future in the UK is their own responsibility. The future is on the ballot box. The union has the right to demand that the workers of the UK take action now.

Natural wastage?

London Transport is demanding 150 bus staff through 'natural wastage' and another 300 fare inspectors, who have been raised by 200 per week. They have no need to do so.

There were angry scenes when the workers refused to accept the ultimatum from the floor. The TGWU London workers reception decided to forward the three ideas for action to the board. Strike is due to start on 19 April.

On 18 April, the NMU's Strike Campaign asked for a public meeting on the same day in East Londen. The union is due to be held at 6th Street in East Londen.

We urge all workers to work actively against the cuts to attend.

by STEVE CEDAR

More than 3000 gas workers in London and Essex are on strike against management's increase of un-ion contract labour.

Eastern Gas workers from London and throughout East Anglia were meeting on Tuesday to decide whether to join the strike.

The strike started in the North and East Lendon area two weeks ago that the strikers have had little help from their union, the National and General Workers Union. The eastern region secretary, Harry Heath, would not have much sympathy in London. He offered instead to meet with the strikers on Thursday. Harry angrily refused, saying that he was not interested in the strike. He added, "I have no choice to stop them, if the union doesn't stop.

The strike started at East Lendon depot. "We had a meeting with our local management team, but we haven't heard anything from them."

The first official paid the workers a day's pay to go back to work at 3pm that afternoon.

Washington 22, Porto 21. "The whole thing is just a ridiculous psychological war. But it's not going to stop us. We're going to go on with our work."

Another worker said that the Gas Board had already discussed the possibility of a strike in outlying districts. Gas Board spokesmen have said that the strike would cause little hardship at their company.

The strike is due to start on 19 April. The union is due to be held at 6th Street in East Lendon.

BURY: 5000 STAGE SOLIDARITY STRIKE

BURY, Lancs: Nearly 5000 workers voted to strike for half a day last Wednesday at the District Committee of the Engineering Union. The stoppage was supported by the machinists in the local Girvan works of Grunwicks Ltd and by some 2500 workers in the firm’s engineering factory in Bury.

The strike was called by the Machinists’ section of ACAS, the trade union that represents the workers, to protest against the firm’s policy of awarding small increases to workers.

The strike was a significant victory for the union, which has been fighting for better terms and conditions for its members. The firm has been accused of ignoring the workers’ demands and of failing to engage with the union.

The machinists’ section of ACAS has called for a 20% increase in wages and for the abolition of overtime and night work. The firm has so far refused to negotiate.

Ford: Campaign for £15 and a 35-hour week

Ford Motor Co. workers in Britain have launched a campaign for a pay rise of £15 per week and a 35-hour working week. The campaign, which has been underway for several months, is in response to the company’s decision to increase working hours and reduce wages.

The workers, who are members of the Transport and General Workers’ Union (TGWU), have been protesting against the company’s policies, which they say are aimed at reducing costs and increasing profits. The campaign has been supported by the TGWU, which has called for a national strike to protest against the company’s actions.

The TGWU has called for a national strike on Thursday, and the company has said that it will do everything in its power to avoid a strike.

COVENTRY: 350 FIGHT FOR SICK PAY

COVENTRY: 350 GEC toolmakers and allied workers have voted to strike for sick pay. The vote, which was called by the TGWU, has been supported by the workers, who say that the company is not paying them for sick leave.

The TGWU has called for a national strike to protest against the company’s policies, which they say are aimed at reducing costs and increasing profits. The campaign has been supported by the TGWU, which has called for a national strike to protest against the company’s actions.

LONDON: More than 1000 Engineering Union members have voted to strike in response to lockouts at the factory in Salford, Park Royal and Wembley. The locked-out workers are members of the firm’s Engineering Union, and they have been protesting against the company’s policies, which they say are aimed at reducing costs and increasing profits.

Pickets attack

BIRMINGHAM: Pickets have been busking a rough time at Ladder’s Wood. Workmen, not on strike, are on management and are not allowed to enter the gates.

Pickets were attacked outside the gates and were forced to scatter. The AEU Union, which represents the workers, has called for a national strike to protest against the company’s policies. The TGWU has called for a national strike on Thursday, and the company has said that it will do everything in its power to avoid a strike.

MASSES’ WE’RE STRONGER THAN EVER!

The strike was called as a result of the refusal of the company to recognize the union. The company has been accused of ignoring the workers’ demands and of failing to engage with the union.

Basildon: 450 out for equal pay

600 POLICE stormed the London School of Economics at 2am last Saturday to break the occupation by students. The police have not stopped the spread of occupations against the government's racist fees increase.

The increase is designed to make it virtually impossible for thousands of students from third-world countries to continue their studies.

Support
It is also by British students who finance themselves by working part-time.

At Sheffield University students voted 900-600 to support an occupation started the previous day by Overseas Students Permanent Committee with the support of the union executive and the International Socialists Society.

The occupation was closed down and senior members of the administration then went to a meeting of the Association of University Teachers to agree to close the university and lock out the students. AUT members have never been breaking into the occupation, fighting out phones and custodians.

Racist
The regents went into the occupation and made a speech attacking black students which many people regarded as racist.

But the technicians union, ATMAE, supported the occupation and met the students. In response to the authorities' regulations the biggest student opinion was that they were completely racist, totally incomprehensible, and seriously available for the occupation.

At North East London Polytechnic, the principal, Mr. Brown, tried to close down the Northwich protest. In occupations, his only offer to the students was the written book.

At the Royal College of Art, the director tried to break the occupation by the Electricity Energy College. Last Friday, but his action only increased the lack of support for the occupation, and his prepossession also NOT in support for the students.

Wild: Nothing leaves this plant!

LEICESTER: Workers at the Wellington, Bromley, knitting machine factory have ended their occupation and are now producing pickets outside the gates.

The decision was taken at a mass meeting on Sunday afternoon. The General Secretary of the NUMC, Mr.されている, threatened to break into the occupation with 200 police.

The occupation began three weeks ago after management threatened to shut the factory with the loss of 800 jobs.

The workers are determined to save the factory and the factory is not going to be saved.

Last week following workers in the Bentley group staged picket stoppages in support. A meeting was being organised with other Leicester stoppers towards the factory.

Management plans are obvious, they are evidence of a deepening capitalist trade union organisation and sub-contracting of work.

They already have before their workers at Newbridge Street. This plant had refusals, the threat of closure last year but now they are sub-contracting and no work is going on.
