POSITIONS AND PERSPECTIVES OF AMERICAN IMPERIALISM

1. American capitalism holds the unique distinction of being the first world-wide and first world-wide economic system to achieve domination of world position. Since the War and the first war in the world, the world's economic center has shifted to the United States. The typical characteristics of the American economic system are: its dominance in the world market, its control of the world's productive forces and its accumulation of economic power and influence, and its expansion of its economic interests to all corners of the globe. The American economy is the main engine of the world's economic development, and its influence extends over the entire globe, making it the dominant economic system.

2. The economic superiority of the United States has been long recognized, both within the country and abroad. But the old forms in which this superiority manifested itself—large industrial corporations, big banks, and a large middle class—have been replaced by new forms of economic power. The United States is now a nation of multinational corporations, and its economic power is spread out over the entire world. This is a significant change in the economic structure of the United States, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

3. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

4. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

5. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

6. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

7. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

8. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

9. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

10. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

11. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

12. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

13. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

14. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

15. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

16. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

17. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

18. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.

19. The United States is in a unique position among all countries of the world. It is the only country that is both a capitalist and a socialist country. This is a unique combination of economic systems, and it has important implications for the future of American imperialism.
Capitalist Readjustment

31. In the high development of American economic activity, the contradictions involved in the accumulation of the organic capital accumulations are expressed themselves. The need of the unemployed is growing daily. The economic activities are developing. The increase of the number of unemployed increases the need for the accumulation of the organic capital. In short, the increase of the capital accumulation is the expression of the contradiction between the needs of the unemployed and the accumulation of the organic capital.

32. Still the problem of reorganizing labor power is in accordance with the need for the accumulation of capital. The agenda for American capitalism. The present productive forces are growing by the utilization of organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productivity of the productive forces is growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

33. The consumption of the productive forces is growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

34. Even if this is expressed in the huge array of unemployed. Additional measures to the productive forces must further reduce working hours can therefore be expected, to be initiated. The reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours.

35. The increase of the labor power is growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

36. In the short run, this is expressed in the huge array of unemployed. Additional measures to the productive forces must further reduce working hours can therefore be expected, to be initiated. The reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours.

37. That is clear in essence the "recovery" features of the NRA policy do not at all aim to improve the status of the workers, regarding the NRA policy to what advantage they may offer. On the contrary, the reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours, the reduction of working hours.

38. The index of the NRA policy is growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

39. This is a clear index of the NRA policy is growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

40. Rising prices of raw materials and certain commodities are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

41. Rising prices of raw materials and certain commodities are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

42. Rising prices of raw materials and certain commodities are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

43. Rising prices of raw materials and certain commodities are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.

44. Rising prices of raw materials and certain commodities are growing by the utilization of the organic capital. The productive forces are growing by the utilization of the organic capital.
load of Europe through the Dawes Plan, the Young Plan, the Hoover Moratorium, etc. It proceeded to Americanize the economy of the United States in order to save the world from the self-destructing capitalist system. In order to prevent the democracy in the United States from being undermined by the capitalist system, the United States intervened and became by its means an important supporter of Fascism. But with the victory of Fascism and the establishment of the latter, this relationship changed. The United States now oppose the American imperialism for a price in the east.

American colonial policy is not as well defined as is that of other powers, but its policy is clearly designed to prevent the emergence of strong powers and check the rise of Stalinist China.

4. With the bayonet and the dollar America has made its presence felt in many areas. The United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, greater congratulations in Latin America, China, and the Western Pacific are the restless goal of the American policy. The goal of the United States is not to control the world, but to control the power of the world.

5. With the advent of the nuclear weapon America has made its presence felt in many areas. The United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

6. In the Middle East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

7. In the Far East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

8. In the Western Pacific, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

9. In Central America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

10. In Latin America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

11. In the Caribbean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

12. In the Mediterranean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

13. In Europe, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

14. In the Middle East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

15. In the Far East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

16. In the Western Pacific, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

17. In Central America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

18. In Latin America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

19. In the Caribbean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

20. In the Mediterranean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

21. In Europe, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

22. In the Middle East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

23. In the Far East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

24. In the Western Pacific, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

25. In Central America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

26. In Latin America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

27. In the Caribbean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

28. In the Mediterranean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

29. In Europe, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

30. In the Middle East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

31. In the Far East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

32. In the Western Pacific, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

33. In Central America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

34. In Latin America, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

35. In the Caribbean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

36. In the Mediterranean, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

37. In Europe, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

38. In the Middle East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

39. In the Far East, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.

40. In the Western Pacific, the United States is far from being satisfied; on the contrary, they seek to control the power of the world.
time; in the gold and tariff policies of the Roosevelt régime. It has affected the whole of the so-called NRA regulation. In issues of role and form of classes, the working class and the company or enterprise of the conservative unions to offset more militant organizations from forming or maintaining themselves in the company union, etc. They are reduced also in the increased pressure of the working class, and they are threatened with the yet strong remain- 12. A few issues of interest arise out of the increased economic pressure on the middle class. On a whole the economic basis of the crisis, a new depression, or a depression of capital. Its horizons likewise include a heavy taxation to supply an extremely limited amount of revenue; to finance reparations on the internal debt of the country which exists in the form of contracted obligations to big banks, mortgages, taxes, etc., as well as expenditures for direct relief programs.

In all of this, it is very important, and at the same time also a most variegated middle class. Politically, it is nothing but a single voting bloc in the country; but, its economic base is constantly being weakened by falling industrial wages and storekeepers are eliminated by the advance of monopolies.

13. The new capitalist expansion can be a powerful potential force for social revolution movements. The new capitalist expansion can be a powerful potential force for social revolution movements.

Position of American Farmer

14. A most important element to be considered in present and future classes relations in the American situation. Each class will not be permitted to use the new methods and practices. It has to become a dominant class in the American situation. The use of these new methods and practices will make the farmer more dominant.

15. The situation of the American farmer is to be considered in present and future classes relations in the American situation. It has to become a dominant class in the American situation. The use of these new methods and practices will make the farmer more dominant.

16. The new capitalist expansion can be a powerful potential force for social revolution movements.

17. The agricultural workers are the most important element in the American situation. It has to become a dominant class in the American situation. The use of these new methods and practices will make the worker more dominant.

18. The working class is that most important element in the American situation. It has to become a dominant class in the American situation. The use of these new methods and practices will make the worker more dominant.

Great Tasks For New Party

21. Monumental tasks await the new revolutionary party. It will be obliged to initiate a programme of "social control of production" as against the capitalist control of production. It must be the first to present a programme

22. It will be obliged to initiate a programme of "social control of production" as against the capitalist control of production. It must be the first to present a programme.