UNITE EMPLOYED AND UNEMPLOYED IN RELIEF STRUGGLE

As in the last issue we pointed to the growing need for relief work in the cities, so we must now point out the necessity of the workers organizing the mass of the unemployed. The unemployed are the greatest single factor in our industrial and labor movements. The unemployed are the nucleus of the labor movement, and the workers who are employed must support them if they are to find employment. The unemployed are the backbone of the labor movement, and the workers who are employed must support them if they are to find employment. Chicago I.L.D. In Persists in Isolation Policy

The Chicago I.L.D. is still persisting in its isolation policy. The union has been in existence for at least ten years, and it has been active in many local strikes. The union is now in conflict with the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, which is also active in the same area.

Rush Funds To The Militant!

The Militant needs more economic support. Since our appeal to the workers for funds, we have received many contributions. Through the New York City branch, we have received funds to the tune of $100. This money will be used to support the weekly publication. We have also received contributions from workers in various cities, including those in the South and West. The contributions have been very helpful, and we appreciate the support of our readers.

Railway Bosses Drop Their Masks

The railway bosses have dropped their masks, as they have done in the past. The railway companies have been accused of many transgressions, including the breaking of strikes and the violation of labor laws. The railway bosses have been known to use violence and intimidation to keep the workers in line. The railway bosses have been known to use violence and intimidation to keep the workers in line. The Morgenstein-Goodman Case and the I.L.D.

The Defendants Present a Statement of the Facts

The Morgenstein-Goodman Defendants

The Morgenstein-Goodman defendants have recently met to discuss the M. of M. case. The Morgenstein-Goodman Defendants are a group of workers who have been arrested and are being held for trial. The defendants are members of the Communist Party of America, and are being charged with violating the Sedition Act.

The defendants have been arrested for their refusal to cooperate with the police in the investigation of the Morgenstein-Goodman case. The defendants have been held without bail for over a month, and are currently being held in a city jail.

Some of the defendants are well known for their involvement in the labor movement and their support of the Communist Party of America. The defendants are demanding that they be released on bail, and are planning to go on a hunger strike until they are freed.

The defendants are being held in a city jail, and are being denied access to legal representation. They are being held without bail, and are being denied access to the outside world.

The situation in Germany

Although it is a little late for the true story of the 1932 elections to be told, it is of interest to note that the situation ought to have determined all the politics of the C. G. D. P. of the Third International. The whole history of the party and its policies in the decade since 1928 is based upon this situation. The C. G. D. P. is a party of revisionists, a party that has abandoned its revolutionary principles and its revolutionary methods. It has become a party of reformists, a party of the修正主义派. It has become a party of moderation, a party of compromise. It has become a party of reaction, a party ofreaction.
EDITORIAL NOTES

AN APOLLOGIST FOR DEBTORS
One of the most regrettable signs of the passes of the Business Depression has been the substitution of the wholesale bankruptcy of the indebtedness of the country for the individual bankruptcy status of the individual debtor. It is a sad situation, indeed, that we are now finding ourselves in a position where it has become necessary to undertake a thorough review of the whole question of debtor's rehabilitation. It is a situation which demands careful thought and consideration, and one which must be dealt with in such a way as to give the greatest amount of protection to the interests of both creditors and debtors.
