Sixteen Years of the Russian Revolution!

The Creation of a Fourth International Is the Best Defense of the Soviet Union

The Rebirth of Revolutionary Internationalism Alone Can Save the First Workers' FATHERLAND

Sixteen years after the October of which millions of the world are so deeply deeply aware, the 1920s are upon us. In the 20th century's second decade, the October Revolution of 1917 is still with us. It is clearly visible in the Russian Revolution of 1917.

The Bolshevik Heritage Must Be Preserved in the Struggle Against the Stalinist Revisionists

This and every other need for the renaissance of the Fourth International, an international which is the product of a more than half-century history of revolutionary experience, is a need of revolutionaries everywhere.

Leon Trotsky on the Saar Question

The stand of the official party as an answer: clearing of Waldheim's candidacy in the Saar plebiscite, as well as its attempt to resolve the question of the Saar by the workers' masses. In so doing, the party has shown that it is resolved to defend its policies both at home and abroad.

N.Y. Optical Workers Out on Strike

Four hundred optical workers in New York City went out on strike October 29th, in a befitting protest against the Blackshirts in this country. The optical workers in the New York City area have their tobacco, clothing, food and housing all controlled by the military police and the Blackshirts. They are working in the most unsanitary conditions and are paid the absolutely lowest wages in the world. The optical workers in New York City are the most oppressed workers in the world.

In the strike, the workers are demanding the right to free speech, the right to form a union and the right to collective bargaining. They are also demanding the right to work in a safe and sanitary environment.

Strikers are sending messages to other workers in the United States and around the world. They are calling on workers everywhere to join the strike and demand the same rights as the New York City optical workers.

The strike is being supported by workers in other industries and by the international labor movement.

The光学 workers strike is a demonstration of the power of workers to organize and fight for their rights. It is a demonstration of the growing strength of the international labor movement.

Sinking Cotton Pickers Murdered in Cold Blood

In Alabama, a cotton picker was murdered by a group of white men. The cotton picker had been working in the fields all day in the hot sun. When he returned to his cabin at night, he was found dead with a bullet wound in the head.

The cotton picker was a member of the Communist Party and had been active in the struggle for workers' rights. His murder is part of a pattern of violence against workers and labor activists in the South.

The workers' movement must unite to demand justice for the cotton picker and to call for an end to the violence against workers.

The workers' movement must also call for an end to the system of black slavery and sharecropping that continues to this day.

Militant Builders

In Chicago, the workers at the United Automobile Workers (UAW) have launched a militant campaign for their demands. The UAW is demanding equal pay for equal work, an end to the use of strikebreakers, and the right to form a union.

The workers are also demanding that management stop using violent tactics against them.

The workers' movement must support the UAW in their struggle for their demands. We must demand that management listen to the workers and respect their rights.

An Open Letter to Browder: On Hookigism

In Chicago, the Workers' Revolutionary Party (WRP) has published an open letter to Krishna Prabhu, the leader of the Socialist Workers Party (SWP). The letter denounces Browder's attacks on the WRP and calls for unity among workers.

The letter states: "We reject Browder's attacks on the WRP and call for unity among workers. We demand an end to the split in the workers' movement and for joint action against the capitalists and their agents."

The Growing Dissatisfaction of the Middle Classes

The Revolutionary Isolationist Party of the Right (O.P.I.)

The growing dissatisfaction of the middle classes in Germany has reached a new peak with the recent events. The O.P.I., or the Revolutionary Isolationist Party of the Right, has become increasingly popular among those who feel left out by the current political climate. Their dissatisfaction is fueled by a sense of isolation from mainstream politics and a desire for change.

Towards the Creation of a Fourth International

The article below is an op-ed from the New York Times discussing the potential creation of a Fourth International. The author argues that the current world order is failing, and a new international organization is needed to address the global challenges.

The International Miners

Although the miners are not actually on strike, they are under threat of strike. The US mine industry is in a state of crisis, with the miners demanding higher wages and better working conditions. The mine owners, however, are determined to keep their costs down and are threatening to strike if the miners do not accept their terms. This situation is exacerbated by the fact that the US government is not taking any action to resolve the conflict.

American Communism and the Russian Revolution

This is the international congress of the independent and democratic organization of the working class in the United States. The congress was called by the American Communist Party and was attended by delegates from all parts of the United States and the world. The congress was a major event in the history of the American Communist Party, and its resolutions outlined the party's strategy for the struggle against capitalism.
