By Paul G. Stevens

News from Trotskyist sources in Greece indicates that the Stalinist betrayal of the masses in the Civil War last December was accompanied, and in some cases preceded, by a horrible massacre of hundreds of members of the Greek section of the Fourth International. The program of The Greek Trotskyists called for the election of democratically elected committees in the factories and on the land, the formation of workers' militias and the carrying out of a working class policy both before and after the rout of the Nazis. They warned against the reactionary aims of the Allied imperialists and the Greek capitalists and urged the masses to distrust them and to rely only on their own independent strength in the struggle for their emancipation.

Pierre Frank

The deportation order now pending against Pierre Frank, a French Socialist living in London, should arouse every supporter of civil liberties and fundamental democratic rights.

In 1939 Pierre Frank opposed the imperialist war. He was forced to leave France as a political refugee because of this opposition. In 1941 the Churchill government issued an order for his deportation. But it was never enforced, and Herbert Morrison, Secretary of the Home Office, assured Frank he would not be sent back to France.

However, within two weeks after the Labor Party came to power, Frank was informed that he would be deported the following month. No official written order was handed this opponent of the capitalist system. The cowardly officials wished to accomplish their aim without assuming responsibility. They tried to get Frank to sign an application form for an "exit permit" to France. When he refused, the police took his French passport, his alien registration book, and changed his identity card for a provisional one valid only until November 15, 1945.

Several Members of Parliament have taken up his case and are protesting the deportation proceedings. Hence the case has been taken out of the hands of the police and now rests with the Home Office. An extension has been granted Frank, according to a verbal report given one of the MP's interested in the case. But Frank has heard nothing from either the Home Office or the police. His papers are thus offically valid only until November 15. The British working class voted for socialism when they put the Labor Party in power. But in persecuting Pierre Frank, the heads of the Labor Government are violating the most elementary democratic rights. Instead of enforcing Churchill's deportation order against Pierre Frank, it is the duty of the Labor Government to quash the proceedings. Protests to the British Embassies and British Government are in order. Demand the right of political asylum for Pierre Frank!

swindle the workers out of the gains they might win on the picket lines. But the workers-united in program and action-are so overwhelming and mighty they can beat back any attack. That is the meaning of labor solidarity.

Bring Them Back Home!

On September 13 Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, U. S. Commander in China, revealed that American troops might be used in China. "The object of bringing in American troops would be to maintain order and facilitate the control of the Central Chinese Government in areas that have been occupied by the Japanese."

On September 30, the U.S. 1st Marine Division entered Tientsin "to assume police duties in northern China's political hotspot."

Wall Street's propagandists depict such utilization of U. S. troops in the "postwar" world as necessary to "win the peace." What they really mean is to put down the labor movement, suppress the colonial drive for freedom and safeguard the capitalist system.

How deliberately Wall Street plots the use of American troops for this purpose is graphically revealed by the fact that on June 4, 1942, when the Duke of Windsor, then governor of the Bahamas, appealed to Washington for help in a "labor crisis," Roosevelt ordered members of the Sixth Cavalry Regiment flown in for use against the workers. The troops took field supplies, ammunition and hand grenades. The incident was revealed only last week by one of the men now on duty in Berlin. In 1942 the use of these troops to put down the workers of the Bahamas was kept a deep secret by Roosevelt since the news of his scandalous order would have conflicted violently with the Allied propaganda about the war being for "democracy" and the "freedom of the peoples."

The Bahamas incident was simply a foretaste of what is now in store for the Chinese masses. When Chiang Kai-shek, like the Duke of Windsor, appeals to Washington for aid in a "labor crisis," American troops will be ordered into action against the Chinese.

Thus the American boys who were dragooned into the Second World War under the pretext that they were being sent on foreign battlefields to free the peoples of the earth from fascism, fear and oppression, find themselves winding up as a brutal police force. Instead of freeing the world, they find themselves enslaving it for the benefit of Wall Street. Their demand to come back home must be backed to the hilt.

Digging Up A Corpse

The October 7 "Daily Worker," official mouthpiece of the American Stalinists, carries without comment an article from Athens which declares the Greek Stalinists are urging the revival of the Third International. A few facts will help to clarify this proposal.

The Third International was organized in 1919 by the leaders of the October 1917 revolution in Russia. Lenin and Trotsky were its outstanding spokesmen. They called on the most devoted and class-conscious workers of the world to join together in an international organization to fight for their common interests and establish a socialist society. The Third International in those days opposed imperialist war and did its utmost to overthrow the capitalist system before it could breed another World War. With the degeneration of the Soviet Union under Stalin, however, the Communist International, or Comintern as it became known, likewise degenerated and ended up as a docile instrument of Stalin's foreign policy. He sold its services to the highest bidder among the capitalist powers. In 1939 when Stalin signed a pact with Hitler, the adherents of the Comintern acclaimed the pact as a "blow for peace," and denounced the Allies as war-mongering nations. When the Soviet Union was invaded, the Comintern flopped overnight into support of the "peace-loving" Allied imperialists and denunciaton of the Axis. Finally in 1943, in response to the demands of Allied imperialists, Stalin dissolved the Comintern. It was buried without regret or mourning, for it had been dead since the day in 1933 when it permitted Hitler to rise to power without opposition. The true principles of internationalism were embodied in the Fourth International, founded under the leadership of Leon Trotsky in 1938. These principles in this country are supported by the Socialist Workers Party. In the United States, Earl Browder, head of the American Stalinists, carried out Stalin's line by dissolving the Communist Party. Recently the American Communist Party was revived and Foster placed in charge to the accompaniment of criticism against Browder. But not a word of criticism was breathed against the "genius" in the Kremlin who dissolved the entire Comintern. The resolution of the Greek Stalinists to revive the Comintern coincides with the breakdown of the London Conference of the Big Five. Obviously the resolution is inspired by Moscow. Just as Truman dangles the atomic bomb over the conference tables, so Stalin seeks some new weapon with which to threaten the imperialists and so gain greater bargaining power. The proposal to reconstitute the Comintern is nothing more than such a threat. That the proposal comes from the Greek Stalinists is singularly appropriate, for it underlines what the revived Comintern would look like. The Greek Stalinists betrayed the Greek people to Allied imperialism. They welcomed British troops to Greece and when the British provoked civil war, the Stalinists under cover of the military struggle murdered the flower of the working class vanguard. Thus a new Stalinist Comintern would simply begin where the old one left off-working for the capitalists whenever they met Stalin's price. Such an organization would be the utter opposite of a real Communist International.

Plight of Mentally Disabled Veterans

"A police patrol wagon roared up to the front steps of Lakeside Courthouse. Two uniformed officers opened the rear doors and pulled from the inside a disheveled and ashen - faced young man who gazed wildly about him then emitted a fearful scream.

"Men, women and youngsters gathered quickly and looked on in wonderment or shocked surprise as the young man was dragged into the main lobby of the Courthouse, up the steps and around to the inquest room of Probate Court."

This young man was not a criminal, says the Cleveland Press of August 30, in which the incident was reported, even though he was being treated as one." He was a World War II veteran "who had been driven into a frenzy by some unknown fear."

He is one of the mental casualties of World War II, one of the psychotics, those in need of institutional care and treatment by highly trained doctors. In March of this year the army listed as receiving pensions 23,270 men who were similarly afflicted.

An additional 171,309 psychoneurotic cases were reported on the same date as being recipients of disability pensions. Their condition is not as serious as that of the psychotics. But they have been emotionally unbalanced by the experiences in the war. Without proper care their condition may worsen and, at best, will continue to be a handicap all their lives

Authorities estimate that 600,000 of the men discharged from the armed forces will be psychoneurotic. They do not need extended hospitaliza. tion, but they do need treatment by trained psychiatrists using modern facilities.

However, neither those classified as psychoneurotic nor those who are psychotic have the slightest change of receiving the highly skilled treatment they require.

Of the 3,500 psychiatrists in the country, 3,000 are normally needed in hospitals and institutions. The remaining 500 have private practices from which they draw fabulous sums for treating the well-todo and wealthy. Even if induced to give up their lucrative practices, there are too few to treat more than a small fraction of the mentally disabled veterans.

Although aiding the mental casualties of this war is one of the most pressing problems before it, the Veterans Administration has relegated the task to a very small, understaffed division of four or five officers and two secretaries crowded into a single room of the Veterans Administration building. To this force is assigned the job of directing 40 per cent of the Administration's entire medical load.

Proposed mental reconditioning centers are, at this late date, still in the planning stage. None had been established by the end of August, said Charles Hurd, specialist on veteran affairs for the N. Y. Times. He added that psychoneurotic cases requiring hospitalization "are being treated in general hospitals, but the system is not satisfactory."

Army brass hats knew from previous experiences that the mental casualties of this war would mount into the hundreds of thousands. They knew when the war began that thousands of trained psychiatrists would be needed to care for men who acquired mental-emotional disorders from it. Yet they made no provisions whatsoever to give medical doctors the long, intensive additional training required to enable them to treat veterans suffering from mental disorders.

Furthermore, early diagnosis and treatment are most important for cases of neurosis, as the condibecomes "fixated" over a period of time, that the longer cure is postponed, the more difficult it is and the less likely it is to be completed. In its neglect in this case as in its failure to provide modern artificial limbs, adequate hospitalization, its failure in every case to provide for their needs, the government demonstrates its callous indifference to the veterans.

Labor Solidarity

"An injury to one is an injury to all!" That is a most dynamic and powerful principle of organized labor. That principle has further proved its worth in a number of recent labor struggles.

Last week, in Hollywood, motion picture studio and city police assaulted peacefully picketing studio workers. A mighty outpouring of Lockheed aircraft workers came to the aid of the strikers and forced the police to retreat. Several weeks ago in Cleveland strike pickets at the Parker Appliance company were ridden down and clubbed by mounted police. Thousands of workers from neighboring plants, AFL and CIO, rushed to the picket line and forced a halt to police violence and strikebreaking.

In New York City, AFL and CIO seamen last week refused to move ships into the harbor for unloading by troops in the dock workers strike.

In Akron a few weeks ago, 15,000 CIO rubber workers in the Goodrich plant refused to cross picket lines of supervisory employes fighting for collective bargaining rights.

A million and a half Manhattan workers backed up the recent victorious strike of 15,000 AFL elevator workers.

With sound instinct, the workers everywhere are learning to use the potent weapon of labor solidarity. They don't ask whether the strikers are AFL or CIO, white or black. They know an injury to one worker, in any union, anywhere, is an injury to all.

Labor's enemies know the meaning of class solidarity. When any workers dare to strike for just demands, all the bosses and all their agents line up in solid ranks to fight them.

The kept press and radio propagandists pour out their lies and rumors to divide and deceive and demoralize the workers.

Company police and thugs, city and state armed forces join in attempting to smash the workers with violence and intimidation.

It may be necessary to recondition these tunnels for use as shelters for civilians and as locations for the production of essential war equipment."

Even Senator Bilbo of Mississippi pondered over the problem and came up with a brilliant proposal: "It would be a wise thing to move the Capital to the geo-

Government Rehearses New 'Anti-Trust' Farce

Another farcical "anti-trust" attack against the gigantic Mellon-owned aluminum monopoly was opened on September 17 by Trumans' Attorney-General Tom C. Clark. Break it up through "subdivision," he besought Congress, and give "competition" a chance.

But the magnates who own the Aluminum Company of America are certainly not too worried about losing their grip on the nation's production of aluminum. Four and a half years ago The Militant, February 15, 1941, pointed to a whole series of government show-piece suits against ALCOA, beginning as far back as 1912 when the Federal courts first declared the Aluminum Company a monopoly. Yet in 1941 forty per cent of its 10 million shares valued at $500,000,000 were owned by 17 stockholders.

These "anti-trust" suits were instituted again in 1924, 1928, 1930 and 1937. All of them ended in dismal failure to "bust the trust." The only real action the capitalist government took was to grant rebates of millions of dollars in taxes to the Mellon estate. Now the same farce is proposed again.

Before the war ALCOA produced 100 per cent of the nation's virgin aluminum and practically all of the fabricated metal. During the war ALCOA's annual production shot up seven-fold from 327,000,000 pounds to 878,000,000. When the government built $700,000,000 worth of aluminum plants producing over 50 per cent of the nation's aluminum, the lion's share of these plants were leased to ALCOA. Thus. with the government's own help ALCOA became a bigger monopoly than ever.

Clark himself admitted that ALCOA now controls, through ownership or lease, more than 90 per cent of the aluminum industry's productive capacity. He complained that Reynolds Metal, ALCOA's only competitor, is itself dependent on ALCOA for much raw material.

Even the capitalist press sneers at this latest "trust-busting" fakery. The N. Y. World-Telegram, September 20, points out the "interesting parallel in what happened to the Standard Oil Company when the court ordered it dissolved in 1911." After the "dissolution," it states, the Standard Oil companies "grew and grew and grew." Today, it declares, "some of the Standard companies are bigger than the original firm which was 'dissolved' in 1911."

If the government really meant business about its "trust-busting," the first step it would take would be to operate all the government-built aluminum plants under workers' control.

DISCUSSION ON PUBLIC OPINION

Gentlemen:

We are submitting an article for publication in your periodical, The Militant. We feel that this is a timely article and should receive as much circulation as possible. Thanking you in advance, we extend the right of fellowship in the fight for the elevation of the workers.

Respectfully yours, GEORGE E. CLOUTIER, JR. Acting Chairman, Policy Committee Plant No. 3, Chevrolet-Flint Local 659, UAW-CIO

since the last war as a brutal weapon in their counter-revolutionary work. There was a recent example of this in Greece, where the British ran the UNRRA food supplies as an auxiliary method in their armed struggle against the Greek insurgent movement.

The Greek experience recalls the infamous work of the Hoover Commission of the last war. The role of this Commission is fully analyzed in an article, "The Imperialist Strategy of Food," by C. Charles in the January 1943 Fourth International. The author gives a factual, documented description of international intrigue in "the use of a food and medicine blockade against a revolution while helping the counter-revolutionary preparations." "The use of 'philanthropy' now," the author concludes, "will not be substantially different than it was in 1918-22. Lehman (UNRRA head) will duplicate Previous installments of Comrade Cannon's book described the emergence of the American Communist Party out of the left wing of the Socialist Party in 1919, the expulsion of the Trotskyists in 1928, the formation of a new party and the beginning of mass work. The Minneapolis truckdrivers' strike was a milestone for the Trotskyists.

He came out of a coal yard in Minneapolis into the union and the strike, and then into the party. He first beand the pickets. At first the pickets went out barehanded, but Then they equipped themselves with shillalahs for the next trips. A shillalah, as any Irishman can tell you, is a blackthorn stick you lean on in case you suddenly go lame. Of course, it is handy for other purposes too. The attempt of the bosses and the police to crush the strike by force culminated in the famous "Battle of the Market." Several thousand special deputies in addition to the whole police force were mobilized to make one supreme effort to open up a strategic part of the town, the wholesale market, for the operation of trucks. Those deputies, recruited from the petty-bourgeois and the employing classes of the town, and the professions, came to the market in a sort of gala holiday spirit. They were going to have fun down there just beating up strikers. One of the special deputies wore his polo hat. He was going to have one hell of a time down there, knocking strikers' heads around like polo balls. The ill-advised sportsman was mistaken; it was no polo game this time. He and the whole mob of deputies and cops ran into a mass of determined, organized pickets of the union supplemented by sympathetic unionists from other trades and by members of the unreached. The bosses were swept off their feet, the whole country was clamoring to get the thing settled. There was pressure from Washington and from Governor Olson. The settlement was severely attacked by the Stalinist press, which was very radical at that time, because it was not a sweeping victory, but a compromise; a partial victory that gave recognition to the union. We took full responsibility for the settlement our comrades had made, and took up the challenge of the Stalinists. Our press simply chased the Stalinists off the field in the controversy. We defended the settlement of the Minneapolis strike and frustrated their campaign to discredit it and thereby to discredit our work in the unions. The radical labor movement was given a complete pice

The General Strike Shakes Minneapolis

In May the general strike burst into flames. The bosses, grown complacent from long unchallenged domination, were greatly surprised. The lesson of the coal strike had not yet convinced them that "something new" had been added to the trade union movement in Minneapolis. They still thought they could nip this thing in the bud. They tried stalling and maneuvering, and bogging our people down in the negotiations with the Labor Board where so many new unions had been cut to pieces. Right in the middle of the business, when they thought they had the union tangled in this web of negotiations for indefinite delay, our people just cut through it at one stroke. They hit them on the nose with a general strike. The trucks were tied up and the "negotiations" were taken to the streets.

This May general strike shook Minneapolis as it had never been shaken before. It shook the whole country, because this was that the whole country heard about it, and about the role of the Trotskyists in its leadership—the bosses advertised that widely. and also hysterically. Then we saw again the same response among the observing radical workers that had followed our resolute action in the case of Field and the New York hotel strike. When they saw the performances in the May strike in Minneapolis, that same sentiment was expressed again: "These Trotskyists mean business. When they undertake anything, they go through with it." The jokes about the Trotskvist "sectarians" began to turn sour.

Consequently, they expected lead them into an isolated action. They began working through from the start that the union would have to fight for its right to the Central Labor Union, by conferences with the labor skates as exist; that the bosses would not yield any recognition to the union, well as by pressure from below, to put the whole labor movement would not yield any increase of wages or reduction of the scandalin Minneapolis on record in support of these newly-organized ous hours without some pressure being brought to bear. Proceeding from these general concepts, the Minneapolis employed organzations. Trotskyists, in the course of organizing the workers, planned a battle strategy. Something unique was seen in Minneapolis for the first time. That is, a strike that was thoroughly organized beforehand, a strike prepared with the meticulous detail which they used to attribute to the German army-down to the last button The battle has gone down in Minneapolis history as "The Battle sewn on the uniform of the last individual soldier. When the hour of the deadline came, and the bosses thought they could still maneuver and bluff, our people were setting up a fortress for action. This was noted and reported by the Minneapolis Tribune, the mouthpiece of the bosses. only at the last moment, day before the strike. The paper said: "If the preparations made by their union for handling it are any indication, the strike of truck drivers in Minneapolis is going to be a far-reaching affair... There were two casualties, and they were both on the other side. That was one of the features of the strike that lifted Minneapolis high in the estimation of the workers everywhere. In strike after strike of those days the same story had been monotonously repeated in the press: Two strikers killed: four strikers shot: twenty strikers arrested, etc. Here was a strike where it wasn't all one-sided. There was one universal burst of applause, from one end of the labor movement to the other, for where praised their name.

ture of this strike. We published a special issue of The Militant which described in detail all the different aspects of the strike and the preparations leading up to it. This issue was written almost entirely by the leading comrades in the strike.

The main point around which we wove the explanation of the compromise settlement was: What are the aims of a new union in this period? We pointed out that the American working class is still unorganized, atomized. Only a part of the skilled workers are organized into craft unions, and these do not represent the great mass of American labor. The American workers are an unorganized mass and their first impulse and need is to take the first elementary step before they can do anything else: that is, to form a union and compel the bosses to recognize that union. Thus we formulated the problem.

First Battle Wins Gains for Union

We maintained—and I think with full justice—that a group of workers, who in their first battle gained the recognition of their union, and on that basis could build and strengthen their position, had accomplished the objectives of the occasion and should not overtax their strength and run the danger of demoralization and defeat. The settlement proved to be correct because it was enough to build on. The union remained stable. It was not a flash in the pan. The union began to forge ahead, began to recruit new members and educate a cadre of new leaders. As the 🔨 weeks went by it became clear to the bosses that their scheme to trick the truckdrivers out of the fruits of their struggle was not working out so well.

Then the bosses came to the conclusion that they had made a mistake; that they should have fought longer and broken the union, so as to teach the workers of Minneapolis the lesson that unions could not exist there: that Minneapolis was an open-shop slave town and should remain that way. Somebody gave them some bad advice. The Citizens Alliance, the general organization of the employers and labor haters, kept needling and inciting the bosses in the trucking industry to break the agreement, to chisel and stall on the concessions they had agreed to give, and whittle. away the gains that had been made by the workers.

The leadership of the union understood the situation. The bosses had not been sufficiently convinced by the first test of strength with the union and needed another demonstration. They began to prepare another strike. Again the workers in the inwere fully conscious that this was the time for us to do more, to dustry were prepared for action. Again the whole labor moveits affiliated unions in support of Local 574 was pointed toward a great parade of organized labor. The members of the various expressed very graphically in the fact that in the moment of mass meeting in the City Auditorium, to back up the truck drivers and pledge them support in the impending struggle. It was an imposing demonstration of labor solidarity and of the new militancy which had taken hold of the workers.

Judd then placed in the Congressional Record of October 1 "a statement from a group of these scientists still residing in one of the centers where the bomb was developed." This statement is of considerable importance, for it soberly analyzes what development of the pomb holds in store.

"By using more bombs, larger bombs and more efficient bombs," says the report, "it will be possible in the near future to completely destroy the bulk of the population, industry, and military strength of any nation within a few weeks. At present the Truman administration preaches retaining the secret of atomic energy as a means of preventing other nations from manufacturing atomic bombs. The scientists observe: "Those who advocate that the secret of the atomic bomb be kept mislead our own people can atomic energy confer its inrather than other countries.

Last night was a miserable night; rain, and wind, and more rain. I met Jimmy at the gate on the way to work, and he was pretty well soaked through. "God," he muttered to me, "it sure is hell coming out on a night like this!" I agreed one hundred per cent with him.

"Huh?" Jimmy turned to see if I was kidding.

"Look, Jimmy," I asked, "what do they teach in Mississippi?"

"Oh," Jimmy said. "Yeah, that's right, they teach a lot of race hate and all that."

"Sure they do. And not just Mississippi either! They fill the minds of little kids full of poison all over the whole country. And when the kids grow old enough for college, those that go, they get a lot more poison."

"Yeah," Jimmy said doubtfully. "I know all you say is true, but you told me yourself that the reason kids can go to public vents the workers from underschool without paying is that the labor movement used to have standing the class struggle. big strikes demanding free public schools. Foster Continues Browder Line Of Supporting 'Good' Capitalists

Bu Felix Morrow

The Communist Party ousted Browder and adopted "new" line. But, whatever the difference between the new and the Browderline, both have one basic thing in common: the claim' that there are good and bad capitalists, progressive and reactionary capitalists, and that the Communist Party should ally itself with the good or progressive ones against the bad or reactionary ones.

The net result is that the Fosterline cannot draw the class line between the workers and the capitalists, any more than the Browderline could draw it. And that means that the Fosterline, like the Browderline, holds back the workers from fighting

By V. Grey

When you were a little kid in school, you dreamed of the vanished great days of the world, the days of giants, of epigfights and heroes. You saw yourself on a fiery horse rescuing ladies fair "from distress and conquering all kinds of villains and dragons. Or you'd go to the movies and see Buffalo Bill in the Saturday afternoon serials and play cowboy after the show, pretending with all your little soul that you were a real two. gun pioneer.

If you lived in a small town you'd stand near the railroad tracks in the early evening and watch the express hurtle past out into the unknown and wish you were an engineer. The dining car would flit by with all those pretty people, gliding into the magic night, and you'd long for the far places and the great things they were surely going to. You wanted to be a fireman, an engineer, an explorer, a Galahad-a HERO.

But before you were even out of school, you learned to laugh at your own dreams. Why the world was all explored! The west was all pioneered. And the future was on ice. All the big stuff. was in books. The great days of the world were over, and now everybody had to be little and humdrum.

The world was all finished changing, you thought. The past might have been exciting. But the present was just a succession of meaningless days. How were you goile to do great things in the world, like the teacher said? That was kid stuff.

And when you went to work in the factory and the dust, of the capitalist system began to settle in your lungs and fill up your brain, the hopes and dreams of your childhood began to grow dimmer still. You saw yourself as one of a thousand or ten thousand gray people in that gray plant. What could you or they ever do besides slave your life away, wearing out your dreams even faster than your heart and lungs? Why the capitalist almost had you believing you were BORN to be his slave!

The capitalist did all in his power to brutalize you and degrade you. He took the energy out of your tired mind in the factory and then with his radio, movies and church, he poured into your brain his hypnotic message: "SUBMIT." He tried to enslave your whole soul. He tried to wipe out of your mind even the memory of the dreams you had of being great.

Red Blood Flows In Your Veins

But that was before. That was before you saw the power. of your class. That was before you realized that red blood flows in the veins of the gray people and red blood of the most revolutionary red flows in your own.

Now you are reading The Militant and you have begun to dream again-not with the wistfulness of a child, but with the insistence of one who knows the dream can come true. Now you realize that tomorrow is not the same as today. Now you see the tremendous sleeping energy of your class-and you see it beginning to wake up. You are going to point the way to the waking sleepers and help lead them to a waked up world. You are going to earn their everlasting gratitude even if they never find out your name.

You are going to join together with the pioneers of the future in the Trotskyist party. You are going to fight in the front ranks of your class army, in the greatest fight the world has ever seen, for the liberation of mankind.

Now you see that all the ordinariness around you is a mask, shell. It is like the rusty, battered iron and brick shell of the blast furnace that conceals the spitting boiling fury of three thousand degrees-hot liquid metal within. Soon the shell of the ordinary world is going to crack apart-like a blast furnace rests, only token pickets paraddoes when the pressure inside is too high. And there will be excitement, courage, sacrifice, heroism-all at their highest pitch,

You are going to share to the utmost in the fire and the glory. And that's not in the distant future. It's right here, inside the battered shell of the present. Your time of greatness is right now.
