Administration Urges Congress To Extend Draft

Taking advantage of the war scare it has been practicing, the administration has been able to have its draft bill passed and on its way to the President. The Selective Service Act is scheduled to expire on May 15. President Truman has been demanding for extension as the first major legislative step. With the bill he executive's services the army will have to be restored. In view of the forthcoming election and the tremendous pressure, the administration has felt that it will not be possible to propose a military conscription. Though its intention was to avoid a draft for a specific period to what amounts in its permanent conscription, it has been forced to yield in order to avoid a dramatic change in the labor market.

See Editorial "Army Reform"

Despite the government's efforts, the draft bill has not been welcomed by the American people. The bill was expected to be vetoed by the Senate, though members of the House of Representatives have already passed it. The administration has been forced to resist the pressure from the public and the Congress against the bill. This is a slow war as the administration has estimated the necessary conscription.

Brass Hats Scheme To Keep Control Of Atomic Energy

By Felix Morrow

Continued control of atomic energy by the military was recommended by a committee of one. The committee was appointed by the National Security Council to investigate the control of atomic energy. The committee was chaired by President Truman and included members of the military and government.

The report recommended that the military be given control of atomic energy. The committee stated that the military was best suited to control atomic energy due to its experience and expertise in the field. The report also recommended that the military be given control of the atomic bomb.

San Francisco Machinists End Bitter Four-Month Strike

By J. Marshall

San Francisco, Mar. 31—Members of both International Machinists Union and the Machinists union, after months of negotiations, have reached an agreement. The strike, which lasted for four months, has ended with the machinists union agreeing to work under the terms of the new contract.

The strike began in December 1945, when the machinists union rejected a contract proposed by the company. The strike continued for four months, during which time the machinists union demanded a higher wage for its members.

The new contract includes provisions for a wage increase, improved working conditions, and a retirement pension plan for the machinists union members.

The Heritage Of Imperialist War—Starvation

Imperialists Use Food As Weapon To Aid Reaction

After World War I, the food shortage in Europe was caused by the economic policies of the German government. In 1922, the government of the German Empire acknowledged its defeat and began to pay reparations to the people of France. This led to an economic crisis in Germany, which resulted in widespread hunger and poverty. The government responded by enacting a number of policies designed to reduce the demand for food, including restrictions on the sale of luxury goods, and by increasing the supply of food through the use of agricultural policies. The government also sought to increase the supply of food through the use of agricultural policies, including the encouragement of peasant farmers to grow more food and the reduction of imports. These policies had the unintended consequence of increasing the cost of food, which further contributed to the economic crisis and the spread of hunger and poverty.

Famine Strikes Chinese Farmers; 10,000,0000,0000 Acres of Grain And Clay

In the wake of the devastating economic crisis caused by the war, food and water are scarce in China. The government of the Chinese Republic has taken steps to alleviate the crisis, including the implementation of a free distribution of food and water to the needy. However, the crisis continues to worsen, and the government is faced with the challenge of providing adequate assistance to the millions of starving people throughout the country.

A Dutch Worker’s Letter To “Militant”

Dear Mr. Militant,

I am writing to you with great interest in the letter to the “Militant” from the people of Indonesia. I have read the letter, and I am moved by the passion and dedication of the people of Indonesia in their struggle for freedom.

I am a resident of the United States, and I have been following the developments in Indonesia with great interest. I am impressed by the strength and determination of the people of Indonesia, and I am confident that they will achieve their goals.

Sincerely,

Problem Facing War Veterans

By Charles Carson

Pecking Union Farms Vet Committee

WASHINGTON—The Pecking Union Farms Veterans Committee of the American Federation of Labor, at a meeting last week, adopted a resolution in favor of the federal administration's proposal for a pecking union farms program.

The Pecking Union Farms Veterans Committee, made up of union veterans of the armed forces, worked closely with the administration's representatives in developing the proposal for a pecking union farms program. The committee feels that the program will provide a sound basis for the development of a pecking union farms movement in the United States.

The Pecking Union Farms Veterans Committee also called for the establishment of a national Pecking Union Farms Council to be composed of representatives of the administration, labor unions, and the armed forces.

The resolution of the Pecking Union Farms Veterans Committee was adopted by a vote of 11 to 1.

Reach Ten Percent Of $15,000 Goal
By Justine Long
Campaign Director
At the close of March, The Militant's Baltimore Region Fund drive, a total of $16,614 has been sent in to give a campaign a high start, with 19 percent of our $15,000 goal achieved. Of this nearly half was sent in by workers in Baltimore City and the surrounding area, according to figures released by the organization.

The Militant's fund drive is now in its second week of a three-month period, and the organization is hoping to reach its goal of $15,000.00.

The Militant's fund drive was initiated in early March, with the goal of raising $15,000 to support its ongoing efforts to provide vital information and resources to the working class.

The Militant's fund drive is aimed at reaching workers and fighting class-based discrimination in all its forms. The organization is hoping to raise the necessary funds to continue its work and support its members.

The Militant's fund drive is also a way to support its members and their families. The organization is fighting against discrimination and for the rights of workers, and it is trying to raise the necessary funds to continue its work and support its members.

Why War Department Seeks Easing Of Terrorism Against The Nisei

By William Van

December 17, 1942

A recruiting letter mailed to Nisei, or Japanese-Americans, by the War Department is new method of tactics in the war against the Japanese-Americans who have been caused by the evacuation of the West Coast from Japanese occupation.

At the beginning of the war, however, the Nisei, as they were called, were required to register for the draft and some were arrested and sent to internment camps. The Nisei were not allowed to continue their education and were isolated from the rest of the population. The War Department was responsible for the evacuation of the Japanese-Americans from the West Coast.

After the war, the Nisei were allowed to return to their homes, but they were treated with suspicion and discrimination. The War Department continued to monitor their activities and prevent them from participating in political and social life.

The Nisei were also subjected to a program of forced labor, which was designed to break their spirit and reduce their ability to resist the war effort. The War Department used this program to control the Nisei and ensure their compliance with the demands of the war.

In conclusion, the War Department's actions during the war were a clear example of the use of terror tactics to suppress opposition and maintain control.

THE NEGRO

STRUGGLE

by CHARLES JACKSON

The Negro Struggle

Spotlight On Fontana

One of the most significant developments in the struggle for Negro rights in the last few years is the work of the Negro Struggle in the city of Fontana, California. The Negro Struggle is a group of young people who are fighting for their rights and against racial discrimination.

The group was founded by a group of students who were tired of the discrimination they faced in their daily lives. They decided to take action and fight for their rights.

The Negro Struggle is fighting for several important causes, including the right to education, the right to housing, and the right to work. They have been involved in protests, sit-ins, and other non-violent actions to advance their cause.

In conclusion, the Negro Struggle is a testament to the power of the people to fight for what they believe in and to make a difference in their communities.

Volunteer Work Sunday

BY LEE H. MILLER

The Socialist Workers Party is a group of people who believe in the principles of socialism and the need for a revolutionary change in society. They are fighting for a world where workers control the means of production and where everyone has equal access to resources.

The Socialist Workers Party is involved in various activities, including organizing protests and strikes, writing articles and books, and running candidates in elections. They are dedicated to the struggle for a better world and are always ready to fight for what they believe in.

In conclusion, the Socialist Workers Party is a group of dedicated people who are working hard to create a world where everyone has the chance to live a life of dignity and freedom.
Diary Of A Steelworker by Y. Kolesvsky

The room was hot and crowded with people of every age and sex. There were tables in the corner, and around them, groups of people were standing and talking. People were running in and out, chairs were pulled up to the tables, and the air was thick with the sound of voices. It was clear that this was an important event.

I walked over to the table where my friends were sitting and asked them what they had planned for the evening. They told me that they were going to go to the movies after dinner. I was surprised, but I decided to join them anyway. We packed up our things and walked out into the street.

As we were walking down the street, I noticed a group of people gathering around a man who was speaking. I decided to join them and listen to what he had to say. The man was talking about the importance of unity and solidarity among workers.

I was inspired by what I heard and decided to join the union. I signed the papers and became a member. I felt proud to be a part of something bigger than myself.

The following day, I was called into a meeting with the other members of the union. We discussed our plans for the future and decided to work together to improve the working conditions of all steelworkers.

I was excited about the possibilities ahead, and I knew that I had made the right decision to join the union. It was a turning point in my life.

Dear Sir,

I write to draw your attention to the serious situation in Iran. The military caste system there is a direct threat to the stability of the regime. The military caste is working against the government and is causing great hardship to the Iranian people. I urge you to take immediate steps to prevent the spread of this dangerous trend.
