California SWP Candidate Takes the Stand, Denounces Police Brutality

By Secretary of SWP

— See Page 2—

Cynthia Rogalin

Lashes ‘Little

Dies Committee”

TRUMAN GIVES PROFITEERS

OKAY TO SOAK THE PEOPLE

Cynthia Rogalin for SWP Candidate for City Council in New York City.

By Harold Joseph

— See Page 2—

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1 — The Toledo City Council tonight voted to exempt from taxation for the period of the War a series of military buildings.

Alderman James Cooper, in his motion, said he felt the

War

system.

There

was no opposition to the motion, which was carried.

(Continued on Page 2)

The Toledo City Council is in no way connected with the workers’ organization.

PETER ROSENBAUM

Cynthia Rogalin for SWP Candidate for City Council in New York City.

By Harold Joseph

— See Page 2—

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1 — The Toledo City Council tonight voted to exempt from taxation for the period of the War a series of military buildings.

Alderman James Cooper, in his motion, said he felt the War system.

There was no opposition to the motion, which was carried.

(Continued on Page 2)

How To Get Meat

By Harold Joseph

— See Page 2—

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 1 — The Toledo City Council tonight voted to exempt from taxation for the period of the War a series of military buildings.

Alderman James Cooper, in his motion, said he felt the War system.

There was no opposition to the motion, which was carried.

(Continued on Page 2)

Italian Jobless

Storm Palace in Rome; Many Shot

Since 388 Italian workers, veterans and unemployed, were killed in a Lawrence court on a Saturday night, thousands of frustrated

Italian workers have taken to the streets.

(Continued on Page 2)

SWP Candidates Present Program Over Telephone

Socialist Workers Party candidates are bringing their program to the nation in November over 200 radio stations, with messages

from their national headquarters.

(Continued on Page 2)

FORD CALLS STRIKE AGAINST GAS POISONING “SUBVERSIVE”

DETROIT, Oct. 13 — Billionaire Henry Ford 2d, yesterday, said a two-day strike by the workers of the Ford plant was a “political strike” and called for a “political strike” of the workers of the Ford plant.

(Continued on Page 2)

Stalism Goons Badly Injure Militant’s Agent; Beat Women

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — A Communist (Stalinst) Party group, meeting in the city of New York, has beaten up a group of workers who were distributing literature.
The fight against the Red-baiters

Statement by The Secretariat Of The Socialist Workers Party

The anti-red drive is mounting in fury. Attacks upon labor unions, communists, and other leftists are coming ever more massive and brazen. What’s behind this concerted campaign? Can we anticipate its will be nipped in the bud by the carrots and the sticks of the bosses and the unions? It is not a new drive, but the old drive comes again, this time more fierce and more ruthless. The bosses and their labor stewards are on the attack, and the unions are not responding. What are we to do?

The anti-red drive is not a new phenomenon. It has been a constant feature of capitalist society since its inception. The struggle between the working class and the capitalist class is not a struggle of ideas, but a struggle of power. The capitalists use all means at their disposal to maintain their control over the working class, and the red-baiters are one of the tools they use.

The Red-baiters are the agents of the bosses, who seek to undermine the power of the working class. They use a variety of tactics, including economic threats, political persecution, and violent attack.

The workers are the ones who suffer the most from the red-baiters. They are targeted because they are the ones who stand in the way of the bosses' plans. The red-baiters use a variety of tactics to try to break the workers' resolve, including economic threats, political persecution, and violent attack.

The workers must organize and fight back. They must form a united front against the red-baiters. They must demand the right to organize and bargain collectively, and they must demand an end to the economic and political attacks on the workers.

The bosses and their labor stewards are not our allies. They are our enemies. We must not be afraid to stand up to them. We must not be afraid to fight back.

The workers are the ones who suffer the most from the red-baiters. They are targeted because they are the ones who stand in the way of the bosses' plans. The red-baiters use a variety of tactics to try to break the workers' resolve, including economic threats, political persecution, and violent attack.

The workers must organize and fight back. They must form a united front against the red-baiters. They must demand the right to organize and bargain collectively, and they must demand an end to the economic and political attacks on the workers.

The bosses and their labor stewards are not our allies. They are our enemies. We must not be afraid to stand up to them. We must not be afraid to fight back.

The workers are the ones who suffer the most from the red-baiters. They are targeted because they are the ones who stand in the way of the bosses' plans. The red-baiters use a variety of tactics to try to break the workers' resolve, including economic threats, political persecution, and violent attack.

The workers must organize and fight back. They must form a united front against the red-baiters. They must demand the right to organize and bargain collectively, and they must demand an end to the economic and political attacks on the workers.

The bosses and their labor stewards are not our allies. They are our enemies. We must not be afraid to stand up to them. We must not be afraid to fight back.
Referendum Has Not Ended Instability of French Politics

Nazi Freed in Nuremberg

Japanese General Strike to Cap Labor Resurgence

Peruvian Trotskyist Group Denounces U.S. Imperialism

Lesions of Strike in India

Workers Fight for Democracy Inside Italian Stalinist Party

Seaman Reveals Marines Impose Martial Law in China
Defending Rail-Baiters

The American Railways, as represented by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, was placed in the dock at the Federal Railroad Administration, the rail system's congressional overseer, by the United Transportation Union in a scathing report released in February 1945. The report, titled "The Railroad Industry's Response to the Rail-Baiting Campaign," outlined the cases of rail-baiters, who were defined as employees who maliciously persisted in misinterpreting the rail system's policies and practices.

The report accused the railways of fostering a climate of fear and mistrust among employees, leading to a decline in safety and efficiency. It alleged that the railways had failed to address the grievances of rail-baiters, instead responding with retaliation and intimidation.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.

The report's findings were widely cited in the media and by labor advocates, who argued that the railways' response to the rail-baiting campaign was a prime example of the industry's inability to engage in constructive dialogue with its workers.

The report's release was a significant moment in the history of labor relations in the United States, as it marked the beginning of a broader movement to reform the railway industry's labor practices and policies.
The Militant
November 27, 1946
Page 5

Seattle Election Drive Boosts "Militant" Subs

The Seattle Branch of the Socialist Workers Party has started an election drive to boost subscriptions to "Militant," the weekly paper of the Party. A letter of recommendation to the Militant Sales Committee is sent to every new subscriber in the area.

John J. Scoggin, Chairman of the Militant Sales Committee, says: "We have found this to be a most effective means of increasing our subscriptions. We have had a remarkable response thus far. We are now looking forward to the results of our efforts in this drive."
Conspiracy Against Democratic Rights In New York
Radio Address by Farrell Dobbs, SWP Candidate for Governor

The first radio speech by Farrell Dobbs, SWP candidate for governor of New York, on October 18, 1948, in which he denounced the whole machinery of the big business parties as a "conspiracy" against democratic rights.

Farrell Dobbs

Wage Prices and Profits 2.0
How Competition Produces Monopoly
By Warren Crennel

Capitalist anarchy rules the economic system by haphazard, chance-producing competition. The cost of goods is not brought down by the process of competition, but is increased by chaos and anarchy.

The great corporations of today are not really competing, because they form a definite and unchanging alliance against the small and the middle-sized businesses. Even these monopolies do not escape from capitalist anarchy, because competition is the war of all against all, which work through competition, and this war is waged by the middle-sized businesses against each other.

The whole point of competition is to get business away from the competition. The one who succeeds forms the losers out of the market. That is how small, middle-sized, and big business gain their profits. This means that the mass of workers are exploited by the small, middle-sized, and big businesses. We have to educate the working class to understand this and get control of the state, which is the state of government, to make the state buy, to make the state have a monopoly over the national economy to end the war of all against all.

Socialist Workers Party on Radio California

Los Angeles: Sundays, 7:45 p.m.
Station KJRG, 1390 am dial
San Francisco: Wednesdays, 7:45 p.m.
Station KUSF, 1030 am dial

Washington, D.C.: Sundays, 7:30 p.m.
Station WOON, 1150 am dial

Cynthia Rogalin Takes Offensive
At 'Little Dicks' Committee Hearing

Extracts from the statement by Cynthia Rogalin, Socialist Workers Party candidate for Illinois, on the "Little Dicks" Committee hearings. Cynthia Rogalin has been on trial since August 10.

Solution To Meat Crisis Offered By Walker

S.P.D. Election Formula

SAN PEDRO, California

S.P.D. Election Committee

CYNTHIA ROGALIN

Wife For State Senator FRIDAY, NOV. 1 Room 214 8 p.m.

NEWARK

Final Election rally and Dance FRIDAY, NOV. 1, 8.30 p.m. at the M dentist New Jersey College Cadillac Restaurant Haley and Hill Sts.

Rogalin was convicted of conspiracy in the trial that ended in the fall of 1948.
Stock Market Slump Shows Wall St. Fear Of Coming Depression In U.S.

By Art Preis

Where is America headed? Flouding! One strong indication has been the sharp slump in the stock market.

The New York Stock Exchange, the world's largest, has been hit hard, with the Dow Jones Industrial Average dropping sharply. The market's rally last year was fueled by optimism about the economy, but now, as profits and earnings are reported, the mood has turned more guarded.

On May 13 and June 5, 1983, the Dow Jones Industrial Average dropped more than 6% in a single day, the steepest declines since the Great Depression. These sharp declines in the market are a sign of the times, suggesting a lack of confidence in the economy's ability to sustain growth.

The stock market is a barometer of investor sentiment, and its recent downturn reflects a growing concern about the slowing economy and the potential for a recession. Investors are pulling their money out of the market, sending stock prices down and creating a sense of uncertainty.

How Meat Has "Disappeared"

By William Johnson

The story of a meat shortage is unfolding in the United States, where supply chains have been disrupted due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Meat processors and retailers are struggling to keep up with demand, leading to shortages of certain cuts of meat.

The meat shortage is due to a combination of factors, including the closure of meatpacking plants due to outbreaks of COVID-19, transportation disruptions, and a surge in demand for meat products.

The meat shortage has had a profound impact on the country, with prices rising and shortages affecting low-income households the most. The situation has also raised concerns about food security and the stability of the food supply chain.

Operators' Deadline Broken In Maritime Officers' Strike

NEW YORK, Oct. 14 — The strike was settled this week after a meeting between the Maritime Live Streamer's Federation and the owners of the container ship "Oceanic.

The strike, which lasted for several days, was over a dispute regarding wages and working conditions. The settlement included a wage increase and better working conditions for the striking crew.

Pittsburgh Power Strike Firm DespiteRejectionCampaign

In Pittsburgh, Oct. 14 — The power strike is set to begin on Monday, despite a campaign by the company to convince workers to vote against the union's proposal.

The company has been trying to break the union's hold on the plant, but the workers are steadfast in their support of the union.

The strike is expected to last for several weeks, affecting the supply of electricity in the region.

Come and meet other "Militant" Readers at these Local Activities of The Socialist Workers Party

Vote For Candidates Of The Socialist Workers Party

The Socialist Workers Party is running candidates in local elections across the United States. The party is dedicated to building a socialist society and a world without exploitation and class division.

The Socialist Workers Party candidates are committed to fighting for workers' rights, human rights and the elimination of all forms of oppression.

The party is calling on people to vote for the Socialist Workers Party candidates in the upcoming elections to help build a socialist future.

Airline Strikers Despite Protests

The airline strikers are determined to win their demands, even though the company is using all its power to break the strike. The company is trying to crush the strike with military and police power.

The strikers are calling on the workers to support them and to join the strike to help win their demands.

The strike is a test of the workers' resolve and determination to fight for their rights.
Diary Of A Steel Worker

Little Johnny O'Hara

By Theodore Kaczynski

At the very last day for Johnny O'Hara, 16, his son, Mrs. Robinson told him, "He was in very bad shape." Johnny, who had been suffering from a long-term illness, had been admitted to the hospital and was receiving treatment.

The next day, Johnny suffered a severe asthma attack, but he managed to survive and was released from the hospital. Mrs. Robinson said, "He was able to continue his treatment at home and recover.

The Koch family, who have beenJohnny O'Hara's neighbors, organized a fund-raising campaign to help with his medical expenses. The campaign was a success and Johnny was able to continue his treatment and eventually recover.

The Koch family has been Johnny O'Hara's main support during his illness, providing him with encouragement and care. They continue to support him and his family through this challenging time.