The War That Is Coming Will Not Be A People's War!

AN EDITORIAL

The war which everyone today is coming will not be a people's war. It is being prepared right now, behind the backs of the people, and the war-makers will not ask any "rally to our colors." This is not why, then, the most bitter opposition to the idea of a war referendum is being made by Wisconsinites and all of Wall Street's men in Washington.

Anyone who is interested in the people's war, there is a fact that you can learn about the referendum:

"Almost without exception they told us: 'We're for it!'

With typical Mussolini-like logic, they reasoned: 'We vote on the choice for dog-catcher. We vote on bond issues for new schools. Why not vote on the war, the most important bond issue to finance modern war?'

'Gentlemen, there is one thing to answer to that question: ['Why do you need a referendum?']

There are no more sympathizers. Roosevelt is explaining his attack on the war referendum, they cannot, facing the workers and farmers back home, answer that question. Why not?

F. 0.'s Argument

Roosevelt's only argument in the last Congress was to show the big stick at parliaments, the men into the threat of taking away their place at the President's back door. The politicians are living here in the crossfire of the Grover-Poor, in their districts on the one hand, and on the other the threat of renewal of the War Emergency Act. They yielded to the latter, and the war referendum was ratified.

They yielded to the latter, and the war referendum was ratified. They must come up for discussion by their representative the people of the people.

Is there ANY REASON TO BELIEVE THAT THE "PROGRESSIVE" CONGRESSMEN WILL BE ANY MORE CONCERNED ABOUT THE INTE "OF THE MASSES, WHEN THE PRESIDENT CALLS UPON THEM TO PUNISH THE WORKERS AND FARMERS FOR A NEW WORLD WAR?"

The people themselves must force this issue upon Congress. Only the people have the right to decide on the PEOPLE'S VOTE!

The Boss Courts at Work

On August 4, M. D. Lebovich, a man before the Labor Court, was sentenced to one year in jail for violation of the Clayton Act. Joseph W. Lenahan, another man before the Court, was fined $500 and placed on probation for violation of the same law.

What had Lebovitch done? He had been charged with contempt of court because he failed to appear in court when his name was called. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail.

Lebovitch was found guilty of contempt of court by Judge Matheny in the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals in New York. He was found guilty of violating the Clayton Act, which prohibits the pooling of labor.

Fisher Body

CLEVELAND, OHIO — An unusual meeting was held here recently to look into the condition of the International Association of Machinists and Allied Workers (IAMAW) of General Motors. It was held at Fisher Body, and it was called by the Union's national officers to deal with the matter of a lockout of more than 2,000 workers at Fisher Body's main plant here. The meeting was attended by about 100 IAMAW members and leaders from other union locals in the area.

The IAMAW's national officers were concerned about the situation at Fisher Body, which has been on strike for several months over a contract dispute. The union members are seeking better pay, benefits, and working conditions, while management wants to maintain its profit margins.

The IAMAW's national officers called for a national strike if a settlement cannot be reached. They also called for solidarity with the Fisher Body workers and for support from other unions in the area.

Several union leaders from other locals in the area attended the meeting, including members of the United Auto Workers (UAW) and the United Steelworkers (USW). They expressed support for the Fisher Body workers and called for a coordinated national response.

The IAMAW's national officers also discussed the need for a stronger union presence in the area and the importance of organizing new members. They pledged to continue fighting for the rights of Fisher Body workers and for a better future for all union members.

The Old Misleader

One reminder came to me the other day that it is still a matter of some importance to recall the name of the man who was the great revolutionary leader of the French Revolution. His name is Robespierre. He was a man of great ability, but he was also a man of great cruelty. He was a man who believed in the power of the people, and he was a man who believed in the use of terror. He was a man who believed in the use of force to achieve his ends. He was a man who believed in the use of fear to keep the people in check.

The working of this process can be seen in the way that Robespierre used the power of the revolution to crush all opposition. He was a man who believed in the use of terror to keep the people in check. He was a man who believed in the use of fear to keep the people in check.

No Secret Diplomacy

On July 24 the State Department issued the following order:

"In view of the foreign policy of the United States, it will not be possible to make the confidential or unclassified files and records of the Department of State available to all persons after 1938, available to persons who are not officers of the United States Government.

"The files have been exceedingly protected. Only a limited number of persons will be permitted to view the files, and then only under the supervision of the personnel of the Department of State."

"For example, before 1938, permission may be granted to certain historians, instructors, and professors in accredited colleges and universities, and to all present or retired members of the United States Foreign Service."

"The information in the files is of great importance to the foreign policy of the United States."
