Workers of America, join us in celebrating May Day, the day dedicated to the international solidarity of the working class and to the struggle of the labor movement for a better world.

Join with us in pledging on this day that the workers in every country will now fight not whether they speak French or German or Italian or Russian or English or Spanish or any other tongue, but whether their employers and those who exploit them are exploiting them or not. The struggle of the workers and the workers only has to determine whether their employers are exploiting them or not.

Join with us in the firm resolve that, come what may, the American working class will never surrender to the warmongers—that is the “peace-time” which is still left and in the war-time which the government and the bosses have already planned down to the last detail, we shall continue on every front the struggle of the working class against the bosses and their government. No surrender of labor’s rights and labors’ demands in the face of new racism and militarism.

Tens of millions of our brothers have been drafted into the armed forces of the imperialists to fight against the working class. In every land, from America to Africa and Australia, in every land, from Europe to Asia, Africa, Australia, but also in America.

No more war! No more war ever even a pretense of neutrality. The hypocritical phrases of Los Angeles and Connolly are as closely linked with theenth with the American war machine as the worker with the Bosses of America. The Montreal. The great daily press. Democratic and Republican allies, is openly selling ties to the war.

War-Like Acts of the Government

The government takes every step to make the working class liable for the war costs that it has refused to pay for. The government has enacted laws making it a crime to criticize the war. The Freedom of Speech Act, the one which is being used to suppress the free expression of opinion, is the one which is being used against the working class. The government has enacted laws making it a crime to organize workers to resist the war. The government has enacted laws making it a crime to strike against the war. The government has enacted laws making it a crime to support the war. The government has enacted laws making it a crime to opposed the war.

AFL Loses Out Three As One as Auto Men
Clerk the Decks for New Drive; Ford
Strongly Now to Be Stumped

FLINT, Mich., April 21—Homer Martin, ex-labor leader and now a Ford executive, was here yesterday to make a last-minute appeal to General Motors workers joined Chrysler and Briggs in pulling up a three-tone majority for the UAW-CIO in the NLRA election last week.

All that’s left now organized in the automobile industry is FORD.

All major plants in the GM system went CIO. Only about five small plants in the South had not voted definitely for the CIO and were working under the threat that if the CIO did not get a majority, they would have to be sold.

A vote will be held Monday in the Stoneware plant in Detroit where 2,000 workers are employed. The only saving grace is that the vote will not be held in Flint, Mich., where the CIO received over 90 per cent of the votes on the APLZ payroll.

AFL leaders at Ford early during the voting gave up hope, and there is now not even a faint hope that the balance sheet is in Ford’s favor. In Detroit, the AFL, demonstrating its inability and unwillingness to vote, is now finding its strength in fear and ability of being voted out.

Very few were “suitable,” and the managers have already begun the job that has always succeeded in the past—coerced unions.

PHILA. I. LGWU PROGRESSES CLEAN HOUSE

Vote Out Stalinists Administration which Nearly Radmined the Local

PHILADELPHIA — A rousing defeat of the Stalinists was an important event in the American Labor Union movement last week. The local administration which had nearly ruined the local was voted out in a majority of 1,750 votes.

A few days after the election, Mayor R. S. Craven, the Socialist leader of the district, held a meeting of the members of the local, and the new administration was installed.

The new administration promised to carry out the program of the local in the following ways:

1. The local will continue to support the Socialist party in the city council and the state legislature.
2. The local will work for the election of Socialist candidates in the city council and the state legislature.
3. The local will work for the organization of the local in the city council and the state legislature.

The new administration also promised to work for the elimination of the old administration and to bring about a clean house in the local.

May Day Meeting To Launch Campaign
Against Wage Tax

PHILADELPHIA — On May Day May Day will be observed by the Socialist Workers Party in a series of meetings, debates and discussions throughout the city. The purpose of the meeting is to bring about a clear understanding of the nature of the wage tax and to demonstrate its harmful effects.

The wage tax has been used as a tool by the capitalists to suppress the workers' movement, and has been a source of great suffering to millions of workers. It has been used to finance the wars of imperialism and to maintain the profits of the ruling class.

The wage tax has been a source of disgrace to the Socialist Workers Party, and the party is determined to fight against it and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.

The meeting will be held on May 1st at 10 a.m. at the union hall of the Socialist Workers Party, 1234 Market St., Philadelphia.

SWP SPOKESMEN TO MAKE TOURS OF COUNTRY IN APPEAL DRIVE

ST. PAUL, Minn.—The Socialist Party, through its field representatives, is launching a door-to-door campaign in the city to mobilize support for the wage tax and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.

The campaign will be carried out by a team of SWP spokesmen, who will be sent out to all parts of the country to make speeches and distribute literature.

The campaign will be launched on May 1st, and will continue for 10 days.

The SWP spokesmen will be traveling in the following areas:

1. Chicago, Ill., to promote the wage tax and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.
2. New York, N.Y., to promote the wage tax and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.
3. Los Angeles, Calif., to promote the wage tax and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.

The SWP spokesmen will be carrying out a similar campaign in other cities.

The campaign will be carried out in conjunction with the Socialist Workers Party's mass meetings and rallies.

The Socialist Party is determined to bring about a clear understanding of the nature of the wage tax and to work for the elimination of the wage tax.

The Fight for a National Union of Seamen, United Around a Program of Class Struggle

From the report of the Maritime Fraternity to the April 9 Convention of the Seamen's Workers Party

One of the major achievements of the Seamen's Workers Party (SWP) in the past year is the building of the national union of seamen, which has been a key step in the struggle for a revolutionary program. The union has been able to unite seamen from all parts of the country under a common program, and to mobilize them in defense of their interests.

HARRY LUNDBERG

The SWP has always been committed to the fight for a class struggle, and the formation of the national union is a significant step in this direction. The union is not just a grouping of seamen, but a part of the broader movement for a classless society.

BRIEFS: BRIDGE MACHINE MAKERS

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU) is one of the most powerful unions in the United States. The union has a long history of fighting for the rights of its members, and its leadership is well respected in the labor movement.

COKE LEAVING A WEEK

The headlines in the press have been filled with stories about the strike at the Coke plant in West Oakland. The workers have been fighting for better wages and working conditions, and they have been willing to strike in order to get what they need.

The strike has been a big victory for the workers, and it is a reminder of the power of the working class. The workers have shown that they are willing to fight for their rights, and they have proven that they are capable of winning.

HARLEY S. MILLER

One of the key issues in the strike is the question of health care. The workers have been demanding better health care, and they have been willing to fight for it. The company, on the other hand, has been willing to offer a meager package. The workers have shown that they are not willing to accept anything less than what they need.

The strike is still ongoing, and the workers are continuing to fight. They are not willing to back down, and they are determined to get the best possible deal.

Questions That Must Be Answered

Some of the key questions that must be answered in the strike are:

- What is the company willing to offer?
- Are the workers willing to accept a deal that is worse than what they have?
- Will the workers continue to fight, or will they accept a deal that is not good enough?

The answers to these questions will determine the outcome of the strike, and they will have a big impact on the future of the workers.

The workers have shown that they are willing to fight, and they have proven that they are capable of winning. The strike is still ongoing, and the workers are continuing to fight. They are not willing to back down, and they are determined to get the best possible deal.

MAY DAY CELEBRATION IN YOUNGSTOWN, OHIO

"World Socialist or world revolution?" was the question that was raised by an IWW speaker at the May Day celebration held in Youngstown, Ohio, May 1, 1963. The celebration was held at 1127 W. Federal St., Youngstown. The speakers included a variety of revolutionaries and socialists who spoke on the need for revolution and the importance of organizing workers for class struggle.

The speakers included:

- Charles N. Post, who spoke on the need for revolution and the importance of organizing workers for class struggle.
- John Weeks, who spoke on the need for unity among workers and the importance of fighting for their rights.
- Bob LaFollette, who spoke on the need for workers to organize and fight for their rights.

The celebration was a huge success, and the speakers were able to rally a large crowd of workers to support their cause.

Will this year’s celebration be as successful as last year’s? Only time will tell. But one thing is certain: the speakers will continue to fight for the rights of workers and the need for revolution.

Colonial Workers Are Refusing to Bear the Burdens of War

British Soldiers Shoot Down Blacks

Negroes of Africa, in Flight as Tragic
As that of Jews under Hitler, Fight Back in Militant Strikes

A special article in the New York Times (April 14) opened that the colonial black workers were striking in a number of cases, including some of the larger cities, they are being attacked by the colonial police. In some cases, the strikes have been long and prolonged, while in others they have been brief.

One after another the leading spokesmen of the British Colonial Office have been quoted as saying that the strikes are illegal and will be suppressed. The Colonial Office has already indicated that it will use all necessary means to suppress the strikes.

The colonial farmers in the British Empire are in a most unfortunate position. They are in a state of utter destitution and are fighting against the British Empire for their rights.

The workers have declared that they will continue their struggle until their demands are met. They have issued a statement to the effect that they will not accept any compromise until their demands are met.

The Colonial Office has made no statement on the matter as yet. It is likely to announce its policy in the near future.

Indian Masses Answer British Masters
With Waves of Militant Strikes

The Indian masses have answered the British masters with waves of militant strikes.

The strikes have spread throughout the country and have involved millions of workers. The workers have demanded better wages, shorter hours, and better working conditions.

The government has tried to suppress the strikes by using force, but the workers have continued their struggle.

The situation has become critical, and the government is forced to take action.

Fink's in Law Suit Proves Only That Minneapolis Truck Drivers Union Is Loyal to Labor

By CARL ORINNE

Minneapolis (AP) - Truck drivers in law suit involving the American Transport Workers Union have proven that Minneapolis-based Local 544 is an affiliate of the Internationa автомобилистов, пребывавший на службе в легком, был арестован в Новой Зеландии. Он был задержан в Новой Зеландии.

 Infra-structure is among the few organizations of its kind that is dedicated to the training and development of labor leaders and activists. The organization's mission is to provide training and resources for activists to improve their leadership skills and to support labor movements. The organization is based in Detroit, Michigan, and operates at the intersection of labor, justice, and social change.

 Arnold has further fleshed out the structure of the Social Workers Workers Partnership (SWP) and the role of the National Center for Social Justice in the organization.

 All of this, plus the need for the organization to be able to reach all the people who are interested in the work of the social justice movement, are reasons why the organization has chosen to affiliate with the American Transport Workers Union (ATWU), a union that is known for its strong support of social justice issues.

 In particular, the union has a history of supporting workers' rights, including the right to organize and the right to strike. The union has also been active in the fight against discrimination and injustice, as well as in the struggle for fair wages and working conditions.

 The union's support for social justice issues is not limited to its members. The organization has also been involved in a number of community and political campaigns, working with other organizations to promote social justice and equality.

 The union's commitment to social justice is reflected in its leadership, which is made up of activists from a wide range of backgrounds and experiences. The leadership includes not only union members, but also community leaders, policymakers, and others who are working to create a more just and equitable society.

 In conclusion, the American Transport Workers Union provides a strong and dedicated organization that is committed to social justice and to supporting the rights of workers. Its affiliation with the Social Workers Workers Partnership (SWP) and the National Center for Social Justice is a testament to its commitment to social justice and its role in the labor movement.

 In addition to the article, there are a few additional pieces of information that may be useful:

 The organization offers a range of training programs and resources for activists. These include workshops, webinars, and other resources that are designed to help activists improve their leadership skills and to support labor movements. The organization also provides support for activists who are working on specific campaigns or initiatives.

A Controversy Regarding the Press in France

By Paul G. Stevens

We have received this week a letter from the Socialist Workers and Peasants Party of France (P.S.P.O.), requesting us to print it in our paper. The letter is written in French, but we have had it translated for us. We are not familiar with the details of the controversy which it raises, but we have printed it because we believe it is an important issue in the world of labor.

The letter is addressed to the general secretary of the P.S.P.O., and it is signed by a number of individual members. It raises the question of the role of the press in the struggle for socialism, and it argues that the press should be owned and controlled by the working class, rather than by the ruling class.

We believe that the issues raised in this letter are important, and we urge our readers to study it carefully. We also encourage them to write to us if they have any questions or comments about the letter.

April 16, 1940

To the General Secretary of the P.S.P.O.,

I have received a letter from one of your members, in which he expresses his opinion that the press should be owned and controlled by the working class.

I agree with this opinion, and I believe that the press should be used as a weapon in the class struggle.

Sincerely yours,

Marcoux Pivert

On the Struggle for a Proletarian Party

By James P. Cannon

National Secretary, I.W.W.

The Struggle for a Proletarian Party is one of the most important issues facing the working class today. The I.W.W. has always been in the forefront of the struggle for a proletarian party, and we believe that the time has come for all革命ists to unite in the struggle.

We believe that the I.W.W. is the only organization that can offer a real solution to the problems facing the working class. The I.W.W. is a revolutionary organization, and it stands for the complete overthrow of the capitalist system.

We invite all革命ists to join the I.W.W. and work together to build a proletarian party that will lead the working class to victory.

Sincerely yours,

James P. Cannon, National Secretary, I.W.W.
How May Day Began

May Day, 1886, marks the fiftieth anniversary of that first great day of labor. It is a day of rest for most of the workers of every nation who went into the streets, on May 1, 1886, to strike for shorter hours, better wages and a shorter work day. From the very beginning of the movement for labor's welfare, May Day has been observed as “Labor’s Day,” a day set apart to mark the achievements of the toilers of the world.

In the United States, the worker's strike was begun in 1886 when about 100,000 workers in the Chicago garment industry went on strike to demand an eight-hour day. The following year, the workers in the Chicago garment industry went on strike to demand an eight-hour day. A few years later, the workers in the Chicago garment industry went on strike to demand an eight-hour day. The strike was successful and a permanent eight-hour day was established.

In other parts of the world, the demand for an eight-hour day was met with resistance. In Europe, the workers' movement was suppressed by the ruling classes. In Russia, the workers' movement was crushed by the Tsarist government. In the United States, the workers' movement was suppressed by the capitalist class.

Thus, May Day has become a symbol of the struggle of the working class for justice and freedom. It is a day to remember the sacrifices made by workers in the past and to keep the fight for the rights of workers alive today.

The Epic of American Labor

The American labor movement has a rich history and is one of the most important movements in American history. The labor movement has fought for better wages, safer working conditions, and the right to unionize. It has played a key role in shaping American society and politics.

The labor movement began in the mid-19th century and was driven by the influx of immigrants into the United States. The workers, who were often immigrants, formed unions to protect their rights and to negotiate better wages and working conditions with their employers.

uf the specific events that led to the founding of the Knights of Labor, a labor union, in 1869. The union was founded by Terence V. Powderly, a former Union soldier who had fought in the Civil War. The Knights of Labor was one of the most important labor unions in American history.

The union was successful in organizing workers in a variety of industries, including the railroad, mining, and textile industries. The union also fought for better working conditions and higher wages for its members.

Unfortunately, the Knights of Labor was dissolved in 1886 due to internal conflicts and a lack of support from the workers. However, the labor movement continued to grow in strength and influence, and it played a key role in the development of the labor movement in the United States.

The labor movement has had a long and complex history, but it continues to be an important force in American society. The labor movement has played a key role in shaping American society, and it continues to fight for the rights of workers today.

In 1935, the National Labor Relations Act was passed, which gave workers the right to form unions and to negotiate with their employers. This was a significant victory for the labor movement, and it helped to ensure that workers would have a voice in the workplace.

Since then, the labor movement has continued to fight for the rights of workers, and it has made significant gains. The labor movement has won contracts that provide better wages, safer working conditions, and better benefits for workers.

Despite these gains, the labor movement still faces many challenges. The workers in the United States continue to face low wages, poor working conditions, and the lack of a voice in the workplace.

However, the labor movement continues to be an important force in American society. The labor movement has played a key role in shaping American society, and it continues to fight for the rights of workers today.

War in the Pacific

Step by step this country is being shoved by the Roosevelt government closer and closer to war against Japan in the Pacific.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull has warned Japan not to occupy the Dutch East Indies, and on April 24, the well-informed Washington columnist, Edward R. Murrow, said in his “Merry Go Round”:

"The Hull warning to Japan is subject to various interpretations, but that given by the Japanese Government is that if we do not accept the Hull warning we will be declared a war enemy of Japan. If we do accept it, the event is likely to be the outbreak of war between us and Japan."

But far more specific and authoritative was the Joint statement made on April 22 before the Interim Senate on Naval Affairs, by Rear Admiral J. K. Tappan, a former assistant chief of naval operations and at present commander of the Fifth Naval District at Norfolk, Va.

"I cannot see how we can ultimately prevent war being drawn into a war on account of the Far Eastern situation," Admiral Tappan said.

He cited the famous Tampa Memorial outlining the social and economic needs of the United States, and declared that the Far East "has a situation which defines itself as a war situation, and I do not see how we can escape being drawn into war by the trend of events in the Far East."

How You Can Fight for Jobs

What’s the first thing we should attempt to have done? The first thing we should attempt to have done is to stop the present period of stagnation and crisis. Yes, in order to achieve the jobs for tomorrow, against the unemployment that we have today, we should have attempted to get rid of the present period of stagnation and crisis. But what did we attempt to have done? We attempted to get rid of the unemployment that we have today.
