GRACE CARLSON ON NATIONAL TOUR
The “Socialist” Critics of the CIO

They Provide a Pseudo-Abdul Alibi for Hillman and the AFL

By JULIUS MASSON

(From the third of a series of articles by Julius Masson, head of the “Socialist” section of the Communist Party)

The “Socialist” section of the Communist Party is now actively trying to present its moderate face to the public. This is reflected in the recent decisions by the section to compromise with the CIO. This compromise is not merely a tactical one, but an ideological one. They Have Their Plattsburgs

By EUGENE VARIAN

Any disciple can safely trade his chances of gaining in oil of Allah for a few nice, non-political, nonviolent, non-commercial, and non-profitable, but rather as a single weapon of defense against the minority and extermination of the last vestiges of White Supremacy in the South. The only thing to be avoided is our own self-destruction. Are there any indications that this is not the case? At worst, it may be the case that the majority of the Negro people of the South have not yet learned enough to keep out of their own way.

The Hampton Institute Conference

The Hampton Institute, a historically black college, held its annual conference in a perfect form the methods developed during the World War Period. Of course, there were some who did not approve of the Hampton Institute, but the Hampton Institute is not for everyone. It is for those who have the desire to learn and better themselves.

In this debate, two men were chosen to represent the Hampton Institute. The Hampton Institute is a historically black college and has a long history of producing leaders in the African American community.

Stalin Purges His Playwrights

Writing Plays In Stalin's Domain Is Dangerous Occupation

Unions Back Campaign For Refugee Relief

A joint campaign to aid displaced persons is being organized by the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA) and the International Labor Organization (ILO) in efforts to assist refugees from conflict zones. The campaign aims to raise funds and provide assistance for refugees who have been forced to flee their homes due to conflicts.

The campaign is seen as a crucial effort to address the needs of displaced persons, who are often neglected by aid organizations due to their status as refugees. The campaign is expected to raise significant funds, and it is hoped that it will provide much-needed assistance to those in need.

Courts Won't Stop Jim Crow

With a new twist, the courts have found a way to help the poor, but not quite in the way they intended.

Courts have long been a target of Jim Crow laws, but with recent rulings, they have found a way to help low-income residents. The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that local governments must allow poor residents to pay off fines in installments, rather than requiring them to pay off their entire fines in one lump sum.

The ruling is a significant victory for low-income residents, as it will allow them to gradually pay off their fines without facing the burden of paying off the entire amount at once.

Juicy War Contracts Just Ooze Fat Profits

By DON DORS

Perhaps you haven’t noticed it, but the United States is just now in the process of going back to some of the very same war contracts which the government’s own officials have been accusing its leaders of improperly profiteering on.

There is good reason to think that the war contracts will be even more speculatively pro-
based than during the first war.

We have seen only a single article in either of the daily newspapers which deals specifically with the matter. It was written by Professor Frankel for
The New Republic.

In the article, Professor Frankel makes the point that in the first world war, the profits of profiteering were limited to a small group of speculators.

But that’s not all. Still another method of profiteering is being practiced by those who hold the contracts.

Instead of making the contracts
for the government, the speculators are buying them
from the government and then
selling them at a profit.

This is the so-called “second floor” or “futures” scheme.

The law has not been amended to permit this, but the laws may be amended to so as to provide for additional speculative activities.

Other than that, the government’s own officials may be on the lookout for taxes on profitable war contracts.

But that’s still not all. Another method of profiteering
is still possible.

Under the new law, the
profits of all war contracts
will be subject to taxation.

The government may raise the profits by taxing the
speculators who buy the contracts.

This will be done by taxing the
speculators who buy the contracts
and then resell them at a profit.

This, however, is not the only method of profiteering which is possible.

The government may also raise the profits by taxing the speculators who sell the contracts
to the government.
