JAPAN'S WAR THREAT TO SOVIET UNION

The miner of the Japanese Premier Tanaka's group - the desired war of the ruling military has intensified the political crisis in that country. The complex political relationships in the economy of Japan express itself in different political forms and degrees. The military-feudal elements, basing themselves on the large landed proprietors and bourgeoisie, is coming in sharper confrontation with the capitalist class. The latter want a subordination of the miners to industrial luxury and financial interes-tions on their part, and the former have been prevented by the economic crises of the political situation.

The economic position of Japan is getting very difficult. The severe depression and the peasant symptoms of a deepening disorder is evident in the country. A large section of the Socialist party has resigned and combined with military organizations to form a National Socialist party, led by the German Fascist movement. The new political situation is based however on the military-feudal element and has the form of a "fascist" political control.

MANCHURIAN GOVERNMENT CONTESTED BY JAPAN

In Manchuria, a puppet government has been set up by the Japanese military. The present Premier, Koki Tojo, appears to be being used as a tool by the military. The new military junta is at work, and the puppet government is in the process of taking over the control of the Chinese people in Manchuria and Korea. Particularly, its relation to the Soviet Union is very important because the Japanese government is at present trying to establish a puppet government in Manchuria.

In addition, the Soviet government is now attempting to establish a "national union" in Manchuria. This is a crisis because the Japanese government has already been established in Manchuria.

The Soviet government, therefore, is putting pressure on the Japanese government to recognize the "national union" in Manchuria.

The situation is very critical. The Japanese government is trying to extend its influence in Manchuria and Korea, while the Soviet government is trying to establish a "national union" in Manchuria. The situation is very tense and the outcome is uncertain.

FOR INTERNATIONAL COORDINATION

The international organization of the Left Opposition gave a mighty impulse to the explosion of the student movement last year. Right elements in the Communist International considered the work of the various national sections as too centralized and tried to undermine its ranks of elements out of place. This led to the formation of an international opposition movement for an organized activity of the Bolshevik-Leninist (B-L) parties. This was a great step forward in the development of internationalism. Under the B-L leadership, the Left Opposition would be today much weaker, disoriented and lacking in united political lines. Until now the fight of the Opposition paid special attention to the revolutionary youth. The task of consolidating the general movement of the Left Opposition would not permit a separate organization and division of activities between our adult and youth comrades. Therefore, the solid basis for the international organization of the Left Opposition has been founded. It grows stronger every day, it persists as a great activity. Particularly is this true of our work in winning the young Comrades to our banner.

The task of winning the youth to the Left Opposition is not our least important task. Young people is one of the most important tasks for our movement. A good deal of our success depends upon the manner of winning and training them for the future. They will form the leaders of the people and the force for the Marx-Leninist in the world Communist movement. The political unity of the Left Opposition is entirely correct in stressing the need of a special organization among the youth and making special efforts to win them to us.

In this issue of Young Spartacist is a letter from our comrades in Paris which gives a good picture of the organizational activity of a center for young workers. This is a very active center made up of active adherents of young Communists to the Left Opposition, various locals of the Young Spartacists, and others, who have joined the Spanish organization. In Greece, the Greek Section of the Young Spartacists, have made special efforts in youth activity. The work is a model of success for the good organization through the youth activity and persistently through the banner of Young Spartacists, to win the first Opposition youth paper in the world.

In order to make the struggle more effective, the slowly program for the work of youth comrades internationally, to unify and cooperate in the international organization of the Young Opposition is necessary. We have some distance from this objective. But the results of our work show that the goal is being achieved. The youth comrades are coming together into a movement of the world youth which has active adherents of young Communists of the Left Opposition, various locals of the Young Spartacists, and others, who have joined the Spanish organization. In Greece, the Greek Section of the Young Spartacists, have made special efforts in youth activity. The work is a model of success for the good organization through the youth activity and persistently through the banner of Young Spartacists, to win the first Opposition youth paper in the world.

The success in the struggle against the international organization of the opposition youth. This is written in the same background a discussion on this important question.

In the past month, the Spartacist Youth Club of New York concentrated most of its activities in the fight with the Young People's Socialist League and the Van- derbilt group, a young Anarchist organization.

The first one was with the young Socialists. The Young People's Socialist League is a political party of the left, who are the Fifth International. The party has about 2,000 members in the United States. For three years now, the Socialist League has been engaged in a struggle with the Socialist League for the control of the Socialist League.

The Socialists, on the other hand, have about 10,000 members. They are also politically active in this country. The Socialists have been known to be very active in the labor movement, and they have been known to be very active in the labor movement in the United States.

On Child Labor Legislation

The liberals and the rest of the good-hearted people amongst us violently condemn the "depraved" practices of child labor. They say that children; they are eloquent in their denunciation of the "foul trade" of putting an end to this horror. Outstanding is the "Organizations Associated for the Protection of Children" which, throughout the country, is vigorously interesting this subject.

The first Federal Child Labor Law was enacted in 1916, prohibiting the sale of children and the shipment of goods of mines and quarries owned by persons employing children under fourteen years of age. The act was declared unconstitutional by the United States Supreme Court.

The second Federal child labor law, placing a tax on profits of those employing children under the same basic time limits. On May 15, 1922, the Supreme Court again modified the law in a direction desirable to protect the children of the country by declaring this law likewise unconstitutional.

Foster on Soviet America

In this book, the presidential candidate of the Socialist Labor Party, William Z. Foster, has the possibility of reaching a wide circle of workers, students, and intellectuals in the United States. For the first time, it appears during an election campaign when the American capitalism is floundering helplessly in the midst of a deep and unconditional economic depression. Moreover, it has been published by a capitalist publisher, further widening its circle so a socialist candidate. Foster does not take this opportunity to the greatest advantage because as a Stalinist, his book is against the Left Opposition by the Stalinist theories of the faction to which he belongs. Thus together with an attack on the contradictions of capitalism, successes of the Soviet Union, we present, the bourgeoisie among the workers, Left Opposition in general and comrade Trotsky.

Trotsky does not believe in the theory of socialism in one country. Trotsky is an anti-revolutionary, anti-socialist. Trotsky's position leads to the precipitate development of an atmosphere of internatinalism in capitalist countries. If Trotsky is a revolutionary, why should we not internationalize the struggle against capitalism? It is really an incomprehensible thing for us to be always working against capitalism while there is no logic in Foster's position! He is a professed isolationist, let us say Trotsky who that is comrade Trotsky who are the internal forces of the Third International, who opposed the Bolsheviks and the international revolutionaries of 1917, who are the internal forces of Comintern, who opposed the Bolsheviks and the international revolutionaries of 1917, who are the internal forces of Comintern, who the "third period" which remouded so many to the point that they were not even left.

The RECORD OF FOSTER

And since Foster has seen fit to raise the question of "counter-revolutionaries" through a series of charges, he is entirely in place to recite to his memory where he stood during the war among the "socialists" of his party, a pillar of liberty. SPANISH LEFT OPPOSITIONISTS ARRESTED

The re-imposition of theks Sovyet, the other main sections of the International Left, was a sign to the World Left that, aided by its faithful lackeys, the Soviet Left was now preparing to heuristic repression. On May 9th comrades Lecrás and Albacete and Eugenio Porrúa were released; they had disappeared in the arms of the Comintern. The World Left was not deceived. On May 12th, the Comintern, the CC of the Left, the C.L.U. and twenty other leading Oppositionists were arrested.
