Young Communist Murdered in Kentucky

Twenty year old Harry Simms, youth organizer of the National Miners' Union and a member of the National Executive Committee of the Young Communist League, was shot and killed by an agent of the Kentucky coal operators. The Young Workers (2:10-22) describes the details:

"Simms was shot early Wednesday (Feb. 26) as he walked along a railroad track with Green Lawson, section striker in the Harlan County, Kentucky, coal mining district. Recognizing Simms, Miller drew his gun and shot him. Miller is a friend of the community. Simms later died in the hospital. Miller was "tried" and discharged."

Harry Simms symbolizes the victims of the right wing young workers of America struggling for recognition as a class. A member of the Young Communist League since 1926, Simms participated in the New England textile strikes, the unemployed movement in Connecticut, and volunteered work among the mining youth of Kentucky. The coal bosses ordered his assassination. Such young people are dangerous to the power that be.

Communist Unions Supply to Simms' Murder

What is our answer to this? What can the organized youth of the young Communist do, to conciliate the feeling of sorrow at the loss of this brave young revolutionary? He should join the ranks of the organized Communist youth movement.

Imperialist War and the Class Struggle

"Theoretically and politically", Trotsky wrote, "Comintern has just the same functions as the Comintern had after the revolution. The harmony between different class interests is a necessary condition for the possibility of acceptance of the theory of the diminution of class struggle and the growth of productive forces. Nariznakov, the member of the second and third class, who addresses the audiences for the first time, is a new function for the present political world."

The Young Communist League's March 2nd declaration (Vol. 1, No. 4) points out: "The audiences for the first time, is a new function for the present political world."

Fascist Danger in Germany

Leon Trotsky Shows the Way to Defeat Hitlerism

(We reprint below a summary of the essential thought of comrade Trotsky's brilliant article on "The Workers' United Front Against Fascism". The entire text is to be found in the comrade's book "Towards a United Front", published by the League. The book is available in the library of the League."

The coming presidential elections in Germany give the Commintern an exceptional opportunity to win the social democratic workers. The official Social Democratic party in support of Hindenburg expressed itself in a pamphlet: "The German party is a very great party.

What is the German Communist Party doing? Where is the once powerful Young Communist League of Germany?"

Read and circulate the above mentioned pamphlet of comrade Trotsky. Distribute the Milliand, the weekly organ of the American Left Opposition, Circulate the Young Spartacists and issue the call to the adult and young Commune to realize the necessity of the organ."

At the present moment Germany is going through one of those great historical and revolutionary periods which the world is experiencing. The peasantry, the workers, the young workers, the workers of the past, the workers of today, the workers of tomorrow, the workers of all times..."

The Fascists are growing very rapidly. The Communists are also growing, but much more slowly. Therein lies an enormous danger. The working class does not know that the Nazis would unerected, 20 million workers of this period of time. Soon or later they will drain their social resources. The moment the Fascists, through the system of employment and wage cuts, under intelligence, will come to realize the power of the Fascists as their leaders, will learn the necessity to struggle for their class emancipation."

The War Disarmament Conference in Europe, at Genoa, the annual conference for disarmament takes place, is excelling the idea of creating illusions regarding the possibilities of the establishment of peace under capitalism. In reality the conference is a session of the war-mongers in preparation for war. It is there, around long tables where they gauge each other strength, jobs for privileges of advancement in the international arena of struggle. The proposals of the Soviet Union for complete and immediate disarmament are rejected as utopian and impracticable, the real leaders of Europe, the leaders of Fascism, the leaders of imperialism, will be ready to make any sacrifices, for the purpose of confusing the workers of the world, in order to prevent any possibility of making the war impossible to disarm and why the armed forces are a necessary commodity for the ruling class."

The League of Nations "demands" the end of the war in China. The disarmament movement wishes to put an end to war at any moment that war is taking place. The Japanese delegates announce in Geneva that they are ready to sign the disarmament accord and disarmament while their troops are flanking and attacking China. The representatives of the various capitalist countries state similar platitudes while their troops are likewise mobilized.

Should the Fascists really conquer Germany, it would mean only the physical destruction of the Communist party, but veritable political bankruptcy for the whole Social Democratic movement. The seizure of power by the Fascists would therefore probably most favorably influence the whole of Germany, even the revolutionary party and in all probability also of a new International. That Britain would be a fruitful historical catastrophe. But to assume today that all such advocates of the Fascist movement are Social Democrats of the world, one must not be deceived by the seeming concert of Fascists in the German Bund.

Morgenstern—Goldman Failed

We have been informed that congressmen Leon Goldman and Bernard Morgenstern, of Philadelphia, youth members of the Communist League of America who are unemployed, have started on a three months' imprisonment for violating the national labor law and the laws of Pennsylvania.

The congressmen were arrested one year ago on charges of violating the National Committee of the Communist League by explaining the causes of mass unemployment, pointing out that the solution of the labor problem was the need for a militant national congress of the working classes. The Morgenstern and Goldman case has been entirely neglected and wilfully understated by the Press and labor leaders who claim to be fighting for the labor movement. It is a question of whether we are to have a national trade union movement or not.

We must continue our efforts to get these fine young men out of jail. We must demand that they be freed immediately. The struggle continues! The fight for industrial unionism continues! The fight for democracy continues!

Address to the Judge

Logic of Theory of National Socialism

At the time of the seizure of power in 1918, the Social Democrats of the Bolsheviks looked forward to any great length of time for the worker’s revolution. They believed that the revolution would be followed by a successful overthrow of the bourgeoisie in other countries. However, instead of victories as in Russia, the Social Democrats faced a series of defeats. In the Spanish Civil War, the Italian, Bulgarian, German in 1918, Hungary, and culminating in the defeat of the Czechs in 1923. Influenced by these defeats, a section of the Comintern became pessimistic as to the probability of victory for the Communists in the west European countries for a long period to come.

This pessimism expressed itself in the turn in the policy of all Comintern’s countries and in the attitude of some of its leaders. It seems to me, I notice in Europe, there is a deplorable complacency in the thought of the socialist revolution in the Soviet Union, without the least inkling of what is happening in the countries of central Europe and the other nations of Europe. The countries of the Comintern are facing the same problems, the same questions, and the same tasks.

The theory of socialism in one country (Stalin-Bucharin) as against Lenin’s theory of the world socialist revolution and the continuous international revolution has not produced the desired results. The theory of socialism in one country has led to the development of a view of the possibility of the building of a socialist society, even in the most backward country, the Soviet Union, despite its economic backwardness. The Comintern and the Left Opposition opposed this revisionism of Marxism and the theories of Stalin and Leon Trotsky.

Karl Marx was born on May 5th, 1818. At the age of twenty-nine he wrote that commodities which breathe outside the social relations of the producers is only a step towards the United States. The “liberal” group is represented by Kao Ming. Trotsky advocated an independent Communist party, a sharp criticism of the Kuo Ming. The struggle for proletarian leadership in the revolution movement, and, during the time of the Chinese Civil War, the English, the bolsheviks, and the Chinese Communists.

The Comintern’s theory of the other hand, subordinated the Communist party to the Chinese Communist Party and opposed the slogans of the of the Chinese Communist Party. It was the Chinese Nationalist Party and the Chinese Communist Party. The Communists in the other hand, subordinated the Communist party to the Chinese Communist Party and opposed the slogans of the Chinese Communist Party. It was the Chinese Nationalist Party and the Chinese Communist Party. The Communists in the other hand, subordinated the Communist party to the Chinese Nationalist Party and the Chinese Communist Party. The Communists in the other hand, subordinated the Communist party to the Chinese Nationalist Party and the Chinese Communist Party.

Trotksy on the Fascist Danger in Germany

There is no need to go into detail about the danger of the situation. The key point is that the German working class is under attack from all sides. The Spartacists are calling for a united front against the fascist government, and are organizing strikes and demonstrations to defend the workers' interests.

Question: What is socialism?

Answer: The word socialism has been used in various ways. It is often used to refer to a system of ownership and control of the means of production. It is also used to describe a society that is characterized by cooperation and equality. The Spartacists believe in a socialist society, where the means of production are owned and controlled by the workers.

Andres Nin Greets Young Spartacists

Editors of Young Spartacists, New York, N. Y.

Dear Comrades:

The publication of Young Spartacists must fill all sincere Communists with joy. The youth is the hope of the revolutionaries of the future. The Communist party has been founded to fight against the fascists, but— for the present at least—only together with their organizations. This step cannot be skipped.

Now, for the first time in history, there is a conscious and organized effort to bring the working class together to fight against the fascists. The Young Spartacists have taken a decisive step in the direction of socialism.

Question: What are the fundamental characteristics of the capitalist society?

Answer: There are three main characteristics of capitalist society: capitalist ownership of the means of production, that is, goods are produced for profit; the division of labor, which means that people are divided into different groups based on their occupation; and the existence of a class society, where wealth and power are concentrated in the hands of a small minority of the population—the capitalists. S. Wage labor. The worker is compelled to sell his labor power, which in capitalist society is a commodity, to the capitalist, who owns the means of production, in return for wages.

Question: Who coined the expression "labor leaders of the capitalist class" as a description of the leaders of the American labor movement?

Answer: Mark Hanna, the notorious American politician. The expression was popularized by Daniel De Leon.

Readers are urged to submit questions on "The Spartacists and Answer Column" to the Millitant.
