Workers Celebrate Fifteenth Anniversary of Soviet Rule

The Soviet Union has not only maintained power for fifteen years but has shown to the entire world the immense creative forces that lie hidden in the working class. The achievements of the Five Year Plan, the tremendous industrialization of the country, despite its material shortcomings, mistakes, and difficulties, proves conclusively the superiorty of planned economy over that of capitalism. Further, social and national planning is like referring to an already completed work of art. Finally, the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship.

The American workers once in control of the immense productive apparatus that it produced could raise its standard of living tremendously, abolish unemployment, misery, poverty, and increase the cultural well-being of the masses. For this it is necessary to absorb the lessons of the Russian revolution...
YOUTH RALLIES TO MINERS’ RELIEF

Living on the ground near St. P. has its own particular discomforts. But this is an exasperating by-product of the relief system. It is the result of the uncontrolled, unorganized system of relief. This is the result of a relief system which is not designed to meet the needs of the miner in a proper manner.

SOCIALIST RECEIVE SMALL VOTE

Socialist party, in the labor field, has no all-year around center election campaign, expected to sell close to 4000 votes. Although the complete returns are not yet available, it is clear that they did not obtain this figure. The Socialist vote, however, should not be regarded as a mere indication of the Socialist party’s strength. The Socialist party is making a determined effort to increase its strength in the labor field. The Socialist party’s policy is clearly outlined in its program.

COMMUNIST INCREASE NOT SUFFICIENT

What was the Communist vote? The figures are not yet available, but it is estimated that the Communist party will have a considerable increase in its vote. The Communist party is making a determined effort to increase its strength in the labor field. The Communist party’s policy is clearly outlined in its program. The Socialist party is making a determined effort to increase its strength in the labor field.

CHILDREN MARCH ON WASHINGTON

Preparations for the march on Washington for Nov. 21 by a number of children from working class neighbors, has been going on in the labor field. The march is to be an organized protest against the conditions of the unemployed fathers and mothers in the labor field. The march is to be an organized protest against the conditions of the unemployed fathers and mothers in the labor field. SPOKESMAN SAYS YOUTH SHOULD RESIST

"The youth of the country should resist any attempt to organize the unemployed fathers and mothers in the labor field. The youth of the country should resist any attempt to organize the unemployed fathers and mothers in the labor field. The youth of the country should resist any attempt to organize the unemployed fathers and mothers in the labor field."
The coal diggers of Illinois have thrown off the yoke of John L. Lewis, the dead betrayed and betrayed in America. Meeting in a convention at Gillen Wiring, the miners decided to form a union of the rank and file and to have done with sick bodies, those tanks of the coal barons. They organized the Progressive Miners’ Union of America. The miners of the union officials have been reduced from the riot. The miners’ strike was collected by the Lewis “organizers” to the wage of the workers in the mines—$1,700 a year for the three paid off, instead of an unworkable office-holding dictatorship such as was enjoyed by John L. Lewis, every officer must go back to the pits after two years tenure of office. The miners have almost unlimited power of supervision and recall.

What was once the powerful United Mine Workers of America and the hope and betrothed back for more than 400,000 coal miners, has been reduced in a union of the hands of the $12,000 per annum disbursements of the house, but even then they failed to pay the key to the camp of the mines. All this so embarrassed Lewis and Walker that they tried recently to get over the wage cut from $6.10 to $5.00 per day in spite of the overtures of the opposition miners. They were turned down by order to one opposition to the pay reduction. This was the last straw that broke the camel’s back. July-August to this very day the mining camps of Illinois have been conducted in the greatest rank and file revolt ever seen in the history of the mining camps. Field, Gillispie, and Taylorsville—around 200 miners of Illinois state, the recent episodes of the Illinois class war have ranged.

Franklin County is in the extreme south of the triangular state of Illinois. It was a stronghold of the Communist party. The P. C. locals spotted the territory and there were hundreds of notes for the hammer and sickle were rumored in the coal camps. Field, Gillispie, and Taylorsville—around 200 miners of Illinois state, the recent episodes of the Illinois class war have ranged.

Franklin County is over the camp of the mines. It was a stronghold of the Communist party. The P. Field, Gillispie, and Taylorsville—around 200 miners of Illinois state, the recent episodes of the Illinois class war have ranged.

When the first echoes blaring that Walker would settle for a wage cut jumped "little Egypt." Franklin County, the delegation of more than 200 miners made their way to Franklin County when voted their protest in so uncertain a matter. Walker even threatened to "dig his bit for the good of the coal industry"—he robbed the votes and signified a strike. The miners failed. The miners were divided to every mining camp in the state. The Franklin County miners refused to sell their homes to the coal industry. There are reasons to account for this.

Franklin, Williamson, and Saline counties are the three chief coal producing areas in the state. Here is proven coal. There are the highest quality coal by the most mechanized miners with the most modern equipment controlled by the most powerful trust—the Peabody Coal. These mines could be operated, but the backbone of the rebel strike movement would be broken—so reasoned the operators. With the aid of the coal companies, U. M. W. A. they proceeded to "persuade" the miners to return to work. Meetings of all but the bosses’ agents were prohibited. Any group of more than two miners convening on a street corner was disbanded by thugs, the parties subject to a severe scaffold. Hired gunmen imported from Kentucky and Ohio were used as thugs. The president of the university tried to calm the miners and the police, summoned by the director of the college, from entering the meeting room. They ordered the students to disperse. The students refused. And in the police attack on the meeting room, three students were killed, and one wounded. Four people were arrested, including the N. R. L. and an instructor in Columbus, Indiana, who had been invited to speak.

The students followed the police to the Night Court. There they staged a demonstration, demanding the release of their fellow-students. The police swooped down even before the police reached their number. The sixteen were the same several who had been arrested before. The other four were released on $500 bond. Parish, the No. 1 leader, and Henderson and a student, Karl Amsel, were found guilty and given suspended sentences.

The most active element in the defense fight has been, and is, the N. R. L., though it has shown confusion on union policy. The socialist League for Industrial Democracy entered the fight long after it had started. It had, before that, sabotaged the work in many respects. Nor has it proved very much better since it endorsed the defense in a sparsely worked out union front.

It is to be expected that the coming period will witness a redoubled offensive against student and teacher. To wit: the charges against teacher L. C. Wilson. It is to be expected that the students organize their resistance and make their voices as loud and as clear as it is equitable that in this struggle they see the water social and political issues of which their own is not more a monopoly than the financiers—ministers—to demonstrate the rottenness of capitalism, to lead on towards social revolution.

Eugene Victor Debs: American Revolutionary

By John Carter

Eugene Victor Debs was a native product of the American working class nurtured on the soil of the Civil War, and in the spirit of the socialist and trade unionist tradition. He was a product of the American Railway Union, as an industrial organizer. Debs' radicalism began even before he was involved in labor disputes. He was involved in a sympathy strike with the workers of the company town of Westinghouse. His fierce loyalty to the struggle for justice against a wage cut. Federal troops were sent in to quell the strike, and Debs was arrested and convicted of violating the injunction.

Debs spent five years in prison for his political convictions. He emerged a more determined socialist, and his ideas continued to influence the socialist movement.

On November 11, 2012, the anniversary of the Battle of the Bulge, the revolutionary workers' movement celebrates the 53rd anniversary of the death of Eugene Victor Debs. Born in 1855, active in the early 20th century, Debs was a leading figure in the socialist movement in the United States.

The Master Class Celebrates Armistice Day

On November 11 of this year, we will once again commemorate the end of four years of war. The armistice, which ended the war in 1918, was a hollow victory for the working class and the oppressed.

The permanent revolution is the only way to overcome the capitalist system and its consequences. The working class must organize itself to take control of the economy and the means of production. Only then can we achieve true freedom and equality.

The Permanent Revolution

Regardless of the greatest economic measures that may be taken, no economic miracle can be achieved without the active participation of the working class. The full implementation of socialism will require the active involvement of the working class in the political and social life of the country.

TROTSKY ON DEBS

"Old Eugene Victor Debs stood out among all the revolutionaries because of the quicksilver flame of his socialist idealism. Although he was a renegade and a traitor, he was not a politician; he was a sincere revolutionary; he also had a profound influence on people who were in every way complex. He inspired, his spirit of a noble revolutionary, and his honesty. Whenever we met, he embraced us with a warm and hearty handshake, and it was a time to get close to the "days."

The Bolshevik Revolution brought socialism to the world. It marked the split in the labor movement. Debs, in his efforts to maintain solidarity with his Russian comrades, is in a bitter and insidious attack on the German socialist leadership. Debs wrote: "I am a Bolshevik from the crown to the foot, and I am prepared to fight against the imperialist block."

LETTER FROM FRANCE

September 12, 1992

To the Left Opposition Youth of the YCL

Dear Comrades:

The YCL wants to give you some information on the situation in the YCL, the YC, and the Left Opposition.

In the YCL at the present time there is a certain amount of panic among the young people. You can find this out for yourself if you talk to young people. For example, a young woman who had spent several years in prison was released from prison recently. She tells you that the book that has been published, which was presented at the conference of the youth leaders called "The YCL and the Future," is not the book that someone asked them to publish. She told you that the book has lost all its interest; it is not based on anything except "phantasms" and has no weight behind it as a police action.

During these last few months we have noticed a very active youth movement among the YCL. The youth leadership has become quite active in calling the YCL to take action, to attack us at length in its latest popular publication, "The YCL and the Future." People are saying that in this mass meeting, lectures, courses, a library, and so on, there are organized activities of a number of thirty young comrades, the greatest majority, workers, of whom fifteen are members of the Opposition. We have comrades in several units in Paris as well as in our educational work, which we expect to develop systematically; we are trying to create active groups and put them in touch with the YCL. This will help us to bring the youth into militant struggle and to ally ourselves with the YCL, break down by activity, and finally to get a chance to act.

Keep us informed of the Communist youth movement, on your difficulties and your successes.

Ling Lwe: the strengthening of the Left Opposition among the young workers!

For the regeneration of the Young Communist International:

The Youth of the French Left Opposition!

We follow with a good deal of interest the progress of SPAREMO, but so far our progress has been limited. The YCL youth organization has become an important element and the YCL has now become a lively youth paper; in spite of all this it must continue to fight for the use of the right weapon or the winning over of young worker-comrades and for the formation of the YCL as an active group in the Communist Opposition.

The problem of the Left Opposition is that it is too passive. That is one of the reasons why we feel that the YCL must be strengthened.

The ideological level of the youth is not high enough, primarily, because the leadership has not been sufficiently permeated by this spirit. The YCL has not been able to make this clear to the masses.

We have made this clear to the YCL youth leadership and will continue to do so. We are confident that our efforts will be successful.

In short, the YCL youth leadership is not yet ready to admit this in the press, but we are prepared to take the necessary steps.

The District Attorney was heading for the room where the young man was arrested! As the District Attorney turned to leave, he noticed that the man was not wearing a coat. He realized that the man was homeless and decided to help him. He took the man to a local shelter and provided him with food and clothing. The man was grateful and thanked him for his help. This act of kindness made the District Attorney realize the importance of giving to those in need. He continued to serve his community with compassion and justice.

The Downfall of the Family

One of the many accusations hurled at the President was that he knew about the corruption in his administration. It was said that they were aware that the President was involved in the illegal activities. The President was also accused of illicit financial dealings and on occasions, illegal drug use.

The defense team argued that the allegations were baseless and that the accused had no knowledge of any wrongdoing. The defense team also claimed that the accusations were politically motivated and that the president was being targeted for his political views.

The trial lasted several weeks and was watched by millions of people around the world. The verdict was a shock to many, as the President was found guilty on all counts. The punishment was severe, and the former President was sentenced to life in prison.

On the other hand, the defense team declared that the trial was a travesty of justice and that the case was built on false evidence and exaggerated claims. The former President maintained his innocence and vowed to fight the verdict at every level.

One of the most significant consequences of the trial was the loss of trust in the country's leaders. People began to question the integrity of their elected officials, and there was a growing feeling of disillusionment with the political system.

The trial also had a profound impact on international relations. The former President was stripped of his diplomatic immunity, and several foreign governments cut ties with him.

The aftermath of the trial was marked by a period of uncertainty and change. The country was divided on the issue, with some calling for reform and others insisting that the system worked just fine.

The former President spent the rest of his life in prison, serving as a symbol of the dire consequences of corruption and the importance of upholding the rule of law. His legacy remains a cautionary tale for future leaders and a reminder of the power of public opinion and the importance of accountability.
The Situation in Germany

The situation in Germany continues to simmer at the boiling point. Von Papen is still in the saddle and his government, favored by a section of the German bourgeoisie, is winning them to his support. But this support has yet to be translated into his program of a peaceful solution. He continues to placate the workers by making slight changes, like putting a more potent drug on the市场. The situation is by no means placid. Germany is a nation at war with the world. The workers have not abandoned their struggle for the seizure of the capitalist system.

COMMUNISTS WIN IN ELECTIONS

As we go to press the results of the elections, held here on Nov. 4th are before us. In Germany, as in other countries, the working class is asserting itself. The first result is that the Communists have won in several key districts. TheCommunists, who were the second largest party in the previous election, have now become the second largest party in the Reichstag. They have won a total of 70 seats, compared with 65 for the Social Democrats. The Social Democrats have lost 20 seats and now have 130. The Nationalists, who won 115 seats in the previous election, have lost 15 and now have 100. The rest of the parties have lost seats as well. The results are a clear victory for the working class in Germany and a defeat for the bourgeoisie.

December -- One Year of The Young Spartacists

With the December issue the YOUNG SPARTEXIS is one year old. Few, even of the optimists, expected to see it celebrate its first anniversary. Our first number was met with a certain measure of skepticism, both on the part of the American and the foreign press. But the magazine has continued to grow in popularity and influence. It has become a voice for the working class in America and a bulwark against the forces of reaction.

Hunger March in London-Wash.

No country is exempt from the effects of the economic crisis. There are outrages of the working class, protest by unemployed workers, and even hunger marches in England. Last month, a hunger march was held in London and ended in a demonstration against the "measles tax." The working class has shown that it is not afraid to take direct action against the government. The "measles tax," which was introduced to raise funds for the unemployed, has led to a series of protests. The government has responded with arrests and violence, but the working class has not been deterred. The hunger march in London was a clear example of this. The working class is united and ready to fight for its rights.

The Young Spartacists

The Young Spartacists are a group of radical published by the Popular Publishers, 84 East 36th Street, New York. They are a group of young socialists who have created a new form of political organization. The Young Spartacists believe in the direct action of the working class to overthrow the capitalist system. They are committed to the struggle for a socialist society, where the means of production are owned and controlled by the working class. The Young Spartacists are a voice for the working class in America and a force for change. They are dedicated to the fight for a better world.
