In early December of the year the first national convention of the Spartacus Youth League will be held. The object of the convention will be to prepare the groundwork for the convention. Other resolutions will be submitted to the convention. The Young Communist League of America and the American Socialist Party of Germany will participate in the convention. The convention will be held in New York City on the 28th of January.

In the course of our work we have obtained a great deal of valuable information about the Spartacus Youth League. We have been able to learn a great deal about the work of the League, its organization, its activities, and its methods of operation.

The Spartacus Youth League is one of the organizations of the Socialist Party of America. It was founded in 1913 as the Young Communist League. In 1917 it changed its name to the Young Socialist League. In 1920 it changed its name again, this time to the Young Socialist League of America. Since that time it has been known as the Young Communist League of America.

2. General Character of the S.Y.L. and its Relation to the Communist League

1. The relation between the Spartacist Youth League and the Communist League of America does not mean that the new, renewed and reorganized S.Y.L. in the United States is a new party. It means that the S.Y.L. has become a new party, a party separate and equal to the Communist League of America, and has organizing power and influence in the working class.

2. The party (or C.L.A.) comrades of those workers who are members of their organization are not to be made into comrades of the S.Y.L. but are to be made into members of the Communist League of America. The S.Y.L. is not to be made into the Communist League of America by any act of their own.

3. When the S.Y.L. and the C.L.A. are both engaged in the common task of organizing the working class both in the United States and in the rest of the world, the S.Y.L. should not only be the instrument of the educational work of the Communist League of America but also of the organizing work.

4. The S.Y.L. must work together with the C.L.A. in all the Socialist activities of the working class. The S.Y.L. must take the initiative in the revolutionary combats of the working class and at the same time be prepared to cooperate with other organizations in the revolutionary combats of the working class.

5. The S.Y.L. must not be only a political party in the United States but must be also an international organization.

6. The S.Y.L. must be organized on the basis of the international organization of the Socialist movement.

7. The S.Y.L. must be the instrument of the Socialist movement of the world.

4. Economic Conditions of the Young and S.Y.L. Tasks

1. Five years of crises of American capitalism have left their imprint deep upon the economic condition of the young. A condition that can no longer find any place in the progress from one generation to the next of the young. Year by year the surplus arm of society grows larger and larger and millions are unemployed. The homeless youth as an important social factor is a new phenomenon which is borne both by the capitalist and the revolutionary. With the large development of machinery the system of apprenticeship has become a factor of far less importance. The status of youth in industry is little different from that of adults.

Since the 1920s, which the estimates of over 4,000,000 youth between 16-18 years of age gainfully employed, the share of youth has declined to approximately 10%. The youth in industry are the new reserve in the economy. In industry, mining, textile, tobacco, engineering, the secondary industries employ the greatest number of youth. About 80% of youth are concentrated in the industrial sector. Youth occupies an important place, decisive in some industries.

2. The New Deal program of Roosevelt—First class employment of youth. The master class has thereby given the masses a new character. Youth is no longer a factor in the economy. This youth is not a commodity which will be sold with temporary economic recovery. They are decisive in the economy and, hence, in the society.

3. The New Deal program includes the NRA Codes which "abolish" child labor, the clauses on "apprenticeship", the establishment of Youth Camps for youth and adults, and the work relief programs which have to be clearly analyzed in order to be better able to fight, defend the interests of the people, and convince them of the correctness of the Communist position.

4. Despite the fact that the NRA and the Industrial Code, the status of the youth has not improved. As a matter of fact, in the states of Illinois, Massachusetts and New York, the cost of living has meant an indirect wage-cut by making the child labor laws virtually impossible in one year. Many of the so-called restraints in wages of the codes have been evaded or made effective by the Workers' Practice clauses in the Codes. The National Child Labor Committee reveals this in its reports. In many ways how this scheme works: "It is not the child who is going to the industries, it is the industries coming to them as "learners". The New Deal has lowered the working period from ten hours to eight in the working class, adult and youth.

5. The Roosevelt regime has banned much of the abolition of child labor. It is claimed that 100,000 children have been withdrawn from industry; children under the age of 10.

6. The Committee estimates that 190,000 children still remain in "industrial agriculture", with 40,000 employed as domestic servants. Hundreds of thousands of children have been employed in child labor, and they have not been touched by the NRA. E.g., the children of the "immigrant workers, who roam the country working for a living and not for a wage under ten years of age are not included in the list of "child laborers". Under the NRA, the Committee states that it is illegal to employ children under ten years of age in industry, but they cannot be touched by the NRA. They are the children of the "immigrant workers, who roam the country working for a living and not for a wage. The Children's Committee reveals this in its reports. Even the C.C.C. camps, where there are conditions of life, are not included in the list of "child laborers". The "social forces", since the children are "thieving the code", is tolerably. The code means that whatever wages the home is willing to give, that is what the child will receive. This applies equally as well for home service and work. The code is condemned in Ger. law (see report of N.C.C., Artifical Intelligence).

5. Unemployment insurance. 6. The New Deal program of relief for the young unemployed. The unemployment insurance is used by the local capitalists to shatter the social forces. The main aim is to play on the masses. The young workers must be taught to fight for their living with the industrial workers in the unemployed organizations.

6. The young workers are forced to organize their OWN ORGANIZATIONS in your home state in the interest of the young workers. The organizations of young workers should call for a greater demand for the formulation of the youth eighteen years of age and over.

7. The young workers and young farmers under twenty years of age should consider the need not to raise the basis for the condition of the young workers at any present time. The young workers should form the backbone of a struggle of all young workers' organizations.
6. The Youth in the Struggle against American Fascism

1. The incident Fascist movement in the United States has a particularly forceful and intensely virulent form among the nondiluted youth. The growing agitation of students with traditional American institutions, the growing awareness of the false promises of the new order, the increasing realization of the American Communist party, to which the students are turning with increasing numbers. A number of students are developing into Fascist youth, who are beginning to attack the university and its institutions. This is a dangerous development, as Fascism is a movement of reaction and destruction, not of creation and progress. The struggle against Fascism must be fought on all fronts, and the youth must take the lead in this struggle.

2. The struggle against Fascism among the youth is characterized by the following features:
- A strong sense of identity and solidarity among the youth, who are united in their opposition to Fascism.
- A readiness to take action and to take risks in order to fight Fascism.
- A willingness to work with other youth organizations and with the American Communist party in the struggle against Fascism.
- A determination to fight Fascism not only in the universities but in all aspects of American life.

3. The youth must be organized in their struggle against Fascism. The youth organizations must be strong and united, and they must be prepared to take action when necessary.

7. Work in Bourgeois Youth Organizations

1. The Bourgeois Youth League is a transition period from a small and isolated group to a large and powerful organization. Consequently, a pre-requisite for success is the establishment of contacts with the working and student youth. Thousands of thousands of proletarian youth and students are to be found in large, socially sensitive and sport organizations, in religious, military and semi-military organizations of every shade and color, all of which belong to the category of bourgeois opposition organizations. To reach and win these youth to our program is an essential condition for our successfully transforming the Y.S.L. into a mass organization.

2. The Bourgeois Youth League takes advantage of the opportunities offered in its contacts with the working and student youth. We must bring the Y.S.L. into close contact with the working and student youth, and we must work to transform the Y.S.L. into a mass organization.

3. The knowledge gained by work within these organizations enables us to enter into their movement and to play the positive roles of inner life and inner resistance against Fascism. We must use the resources of these organizations to our advantage, attracting the support of these organizations for the struggle against Fascism.

4. Because of the importance of this work and the relation it bears to our transition stage we raise one issue in the Bourgeois Youth League, the problem of the transformation of the Y.S.L. into a mass organization, the realization of which will accomplish:
- A successful transformation of the Y.S.L. into a mass organization.
- A successful transformation of the Y.S.L. into a mass organization.
- A successful transformation of the Y.S.L. into a mass organization.

War and How to Fight It

1. It is necessary to follow closely the plans of the bourgeois youth, who are now proceeding with the diplomatic negotiations. This is a matter of responsibility on the other side; the bourgeoisie forms an open and hidden social-national preparation for themselves, a bridge from pacifism to militarism, the hollow threat of the "Communist" leaders, who will be just as bewildered on the first day of war as the German "leaders" on the night of the Rebloch fire.

2. It is necessary to gather carefully the most characteristic clichés from official government and opposition propaganda, as well as with the experience of the previous war, to determine right from the further work of fooling the people will take: to circulate the correct array of facts, to teach the bourgeois vanguard to resist itself independently.

3. Reinforced agitation against imperialism, against capitalism, against Fascism, and against the abstract formulas but from concrete facts which strike the masses. It is possible to use the only open military budget, but also against the continuous war, mass organizations, to the truest possible service, and to the truest possible service.
