The Central Committee of the International Communist Party on the IV. World Congress

By G. Zdanov.

The communists form an international party. The task undertaken by the Communist International from its first foundations has been the creation of an international communist organization, established on definite lines, and led from one center on the plan of democratic centralism. Here lies one of the essential differences between the Comintern and the II. International, which even in its best days was never more than an ad-hocary organized federation of national parties insufficiently connected with one another.

When we review the activity of the Comintern in its relations to the coming IV Congress, we can no means maintain that the III International has already succeeded in fully performing the task set. The difficulties besetting the way are still enormous. Any co-worker of a large labor party is aware how difficult it is to establish the right relations between centre and parties even within the limits of one country. And how much more difficult is this task when it is a question of the more than 50 parties belonging to the Comintern. The federalist traditions prevailing by the III International to the international labor movement are much stronger than might be imagined. It is now with the greatest trouble and in the course of practical testing, that these traditions will be overcome; now they hang like a heavy weight on the feet of the international proletariat, hindering their successful attainment of the final goal.

The statutes and first important resolutions of the Comintern express themselves as immediate and decided renunciation of the simplified and hypertrophied centralism. The tendencies of the Comintern were however fully aware how far the operation can go when applied internationally. Experience has shown that the results of the activity of the Comintern are more successful from year to year. And today, during the 4th year of existence of the Communist International, its executive committee is on the road to becoming an actual International Central Committee of the Communist Party, with organizations covering almost the entire globe.

We here publish a few figures and facts on the activity of the Executive Committee of the Communist International during the interval between the 3rd and 4th congresses of the Comintern. These data (a detailed digest of these data, most efficiently treated by Comrade Tisell, will probably be published as a special pamphlet) are intended to show that the Executive Committee really begins to be worthy of the designation: "International Central Committee of the Communist Party."

In the interval between the 3rd and 4th congresses, that is, within 15 months, the Executive has held 30 sessions. The total number of participants in these sessions (including participation being counted) is 952. Those attending the sessions were approximately the same persons to the extent of one half. The total number of questions treated at the sessions of the Executive was 144, of which 97 were purely political in character, and 47 were questions of organization and administration. The number of delegations appointed by the Executive for the various countries, in the name of the Comintern, is 59. The majority of these delegations were not appointed by the Executive, but by the Central Committees of the various parties. (Executive's delegations are only chosen by the Executive in special important cases.)

During the period of which this report treats, 25 important resolutions were passed relating to the various countries. The most important resolutions and open letters condemned by the Executive Committee itself amounted to 21. 33 commission were appointed by the Executive itself. Almost all these commissions consisted of 7 to 9 persons. Each one of these commissions forms itself in reality an actual international "open cell", comprising as it does, almost inevitably, representatives of 5 to 6 different parties.
The following table shows the number of times each separate country was placed on the agenda:

This table indicates that South America and Yugoslavia received the most attention, followed by Czechoslovakia, North Africa, Italy, Poland, and Austria.

The actual formation of the International Central Commun. Executive Committee, which is a mighty step forward in the working out of the task of unity and advance of progress, the enlightened workers of the whole world are called upon to support and aid in it. The unification of the world is in hand. To help in the solution of the problems of international capitalism and reaction. The very fact that the International Commissions for the Definition of the Law of Labor have been established, for example, by the International Socialist Bureau in the name of the workers of the world, the need of such a commission for the clarification of the most complicated questions which inevitably arise in the course of the work of the Commissions, is a proof of the progress which the international worker movement has made. The workers of the world, therefore, must support and aid in the formation of the Central Commission.

This Central Commission is a mighty step forward in the working out of the task of unity and advance of progress, the enlightened workers of the whole world are called upon to support and aid in it. The unification of the world is in hand.

The international bourgeois cannot be conquered without the aid of a united, organized, and systematically working international workers' movement. The actual formation of the commissions, according to the decisions of the 3rd International Socialist Congress, is a mighty step forward in the working out of the task of unity and advance of progress. The workers of the world must therefore support and aid the in the formation of the Central Commission.

Comrade Lenin's Speech at the 4th Session of the All-Russian Central Executive Committee

Comrade Lenin, in his address to the 4th Session of the Central Executives Committee, said:

'"Let us not be deceived by the appearance of things. The international bourgeois cannot be conquered without the aid of a united, organized, and systematically working international workers' movement.

The actual formation of the commissions, according to the decisions of the 3rd International Socialist Congress, is a mighty step forward in the working out of the task of unity and advance of progress. The workers of the world must therefore support and aid in the formation of the Central Commission.'
In the light of recent events the workers will have realized that their enemies are to be found not only in the conservative and reactionist elements of the bourgeois and capitalist state but also in the actual functioning of the state apparatus.

The Italian proletariat cannot let itself be suppressed, and it will overthrow it in the light of recent events.

Comrade Tuchcheidner on the Far Eastern Question

We take from the Moscow Pravda the following article:

By S. E. Tuchcheidner

The Far East is a part of the Soviet Far Eastern Republic.

The latest events in China, the downfall of Tchangkuh, the strengthening of the supporters of A. S. Uchida, and the extension of Japanese military clique, and the supporters of the evacuation policy look on the Chinese as a threat to their own power.

These difficulties also made easier for diplomatic pressure to be exerted on Japan and helped to strengthen the government which is apprehensive about the expansion of the Chinese. The Japanese government is about to adopt a state of war against China.

The situation is not purely, economic relations with Siberia.

The Red of Vlastovisk

The 25th October 1922. The end of the Whites...The end of intervention in the Far East...The collapse of bourgeois patriotism.

By R. Albert

The Fifth Anniversary of the October Revolution will be celebrated by a special issue of the International Press Correspondence, which fact seems to have been overlooked by the international working-class press. The tragedy of Vlastovisk is at an end.

The Danish Communist Party

A classic petty-bourgeois democracy, at the same time mass-employment and rural-bred, ...that is Denmark. But after four years of endeavour it was at last possible, on the 18th September, to found a permanent and distinct party in Denmark. The news of which a party has been founded in Denmark is the more surprising when we note the rapid development of our parties in the other Scandinavian countries, not only in Norway, but also in Sweden. The chief explanation of this phenomenon is the presence there of many, whose position is not very admirable. On the one hand, the party of bourgeois radical democracy is so closely bound up with the party which supports a degeneration for pacifism, democratic principles, and the break-up of the party for mass political power, and to make the idea of an international, communist, world party among them.

There were frequent differences of opinion regarding the fight for the fight for the power of the workers among the proletariat, and that has been a difficult task. But the February of a year ago was the year of the creation of the Communist League of the C.I. After previous commissions in a commission composed of theл leader of the left group, the former socialist Christian, as well as the leaders of the social democrats, a clear-cut programme was made for the creation of the League, and, on the contrary the leaders of both groups were deprived of the right of assumption of the name of the League. The League was founded on the 26th of the International, which was the starting point for a new work. The League, which is at present the only genuine and active revolutionary organization in Denmark, is the only one that can carry the struggle in a more acute way. The League has become a more and more acute market of its influence in the trade unions, and its influence in the trade unions. The League has become a market of its influence in the trade unions, and its influence in the trade unions.
The trial of actual experience in the Moscow Executive Committee. The political bureau of the central committees of each country must and must actually collect the actual experience of their members, and they must also study the relations of the brothers parties with the political bureau of the world organization. This bureau must be constantly in touch with the executive committee in all parts of the world, in order to get to know the conditions of the international movement. An immense increase in the size of the political bureau has been advertised, and it is expected that this bureau will grow in strength and develop its methods. It is specifically stated that this bureau is to be in charge of the central committee of the international movement. It is said that this bureau will grow in strength and develop its methods.

The Congress of the Trade Union Opposition in Czechoslovakia

By J. Walter

From the 26th to the 28th of February, in Vienna, was held the Congress of the Trade Union Opposition in Czechoslovakia. The Congress was attended by more than 200 delegates from all parts of the country. The Congress was called to discuss the present situation of the trade unions and to consider the measures to be taken to overcome the difficulties faced by the trade unions. The Congress was also called to discuss the political situation in the country and to consider the measures to be taken to achieve political freedom.

A Manifesto of the Red Sports Appeal

What we want — How the bourgeois uses and misuses sport

Proletarian sport.

The Red Sport International addresses an appeal to the workers of the world, to the students and the youth against the pretence of the bourgeois and cultural association which constitute a serious danger to the working class.

To the Workers of All Countries.

In the bourgeois sport movement, conducted politically and financially by the ruling class, the aroused energy of the masses is stifled. The aim of the workers in a national education, it works systematically to imbue the proletarian youth with an ideology which will prepare them to fight against the working class. Physical education degenerates into mere sport, and this is used to smooth into another front for our youth that idea of solidarity that can be nothing but the workclass solidarity.

Healthy gymnastics, wholesome sport, real physical education are more and more defaced by the perversion used to support the sport movements of the elites and their popularity, vanity, the desire to distinguish oneself at all costs, in order to win a place in the workclass. It is not in the guise of a genuine individual above group interests. Thus the proletarian movement of young people will have to take a stand against all such sports in the name of the working-class.

The Red Sport International appeals to the workers and all the young people everywhere to take an active part in organizing a movement that is not only a physical but an educational pedagogical proletarian sport that will also constitute the struggle for the emancipation of the working class; it furthermore desires to imbue its members with an international spirit, in order to place gymnastics and sport at the service of the working class.

The International of Lucerne (II International) is the only one that has understood the importance of the struggle against all forms of sport and physical education in her program. She has put forward the following requirements of sport in the working-class.

The International of Lucerne (II International) demands the following:

1. The formation of the social character of the working-class;
2. The abolition of all forms of sport and physical education in their form as practiced by the ruling class;
3. The formation of the social character of the working-class.

The work of putting into practice the demands of the International of Lucerne (II International) is a matter of the working-class, and we号召 all the workers to take an active part in it.

Sincerely yours,

Comrade Lenin's Letter to the Congress

1. To Comrade Zinoviev, Petrograd, for the IV. World Congress of the Congress International.
2. To the Petrograd Soviets, the delegates of the Workers, Peasants and Red Soldiers.

Comrade Lenin's Letter to the Congress

We have heard with joy the commencement of the economic strike of Petrograd.

In reply to your invitation to come to Petrograd, let me say that I am too busy to go there at present. The Soviet Power is celebrating its fifth anniversary in Russia. It stands firm now more than ever before, more robust than ever before. The Soviet government is now to be established in all parts of the country, and the Soviet Republic is the only government that can defend the interests of the workers.

The Soviet Power is the only government that can defend the interests of the workers. It is the government of the Soviet Republic, and it stands firm and strong.

Vladimir Ulyanov Lenin.

The Anniversary Celebration in Moscow

(Radio to Imperialists)

Moscow, Nov. 7.

At nine o'clock on a beautiful autumn evening, the delegations arrived in Moscow, coming from Petrograd. The city is aglow. The houses are brilliantly decorated. The streets are filled with soldiers of the Red Army, columns of armed proletarians, and processions of workers and students. At eleven o'clock an army review in the Red Square, where Comrade Trotsky addressed a speech to the army, the workers, and the delegates of the Congress.

On this anniversary of the Soviet Republic, it is in the name of the Soviet Republic and the workers of the world that we call you to a celebration in honor of the Soviet Republic. The anniversary of the Soviet Republic is the anniversary of the class struggle, and to energetically oppose the opposition and the workers' movement is the duty of all.

It is a question of making working men's sport and cultural organizations the nucleus of the struggle of the working-class.

No one more for the capital's laborers! All for the proletariat!

Long live the Red Sport International!
