Plutocrats Spell the Beans—Admit Control of Both Parties

The following appeared on the financial page of the Boston Herald on election day. This newspaper is the organ of Boston's plutocracy and this article can be taken as a times-expression of the inner circle of America's plutocracy on the Republican and Democratic parties.

Citizens who voted either of these tickets this year may now contemplate how well they served the interests and the political home game of the financial and industrial rulers of America.

Theodore Roosevelt, for instance, a Plutocrat, served the interests of the bankers, Wall Street, and the big industries, and failed to stand for the interests of the common man, the working man, the man in the street.

Theodore Roosevelt was an industrialist, a financier, a Wall Street man, and a man of the plutocracy. He served the interests of the plutocracy, and he served the interests of the common man, the working man, the man in the street.
