Fascist Italy in Grip of Ruinous International Crisis

State-Controlled Capitalism Not West Window to Save the World

ROME — Mussolini’s band of autocrats is in the midst of a most ruinous international crisis. The Italian Fascists have been unable to carry out their plans to establish a world empire, leading to widespread economic, social, and political instability.

The Fascists, under the leadership of Mussolini, have been attempting to spread their ideology across the globe. However, their efforts have been met with resistance from the international community, leading to increased tensions and conflicts. The current crisis has caused a significant setback for the Fascist movement and has weakened its grip on power.

The Fascists, who came to power in Italy in 1922, have been attempting to expand their influence and control over other nations. However, their efforts have been met with resistance from other countries, leading to increased tensions and conflicts.

Vanzetti and Others Bare
Misconduct of Judge Thayer

Boston April 21 — A remarkable presentation signed by the parents of Vanzetti was made at the Harvard Law School today. The presentation was in the form of a petition to the President of the Harvard Law School, the Hon. Charles W. Eliot. The petition was filed by Mrs. Minnie C. Vanzetti, mother of the injured journalist, and Mrs. Lillian A. Thayer, the wife of Judge Thayer. The petition set forth facts that had not been brought to the attention of the public. The presentation was attended by a large number of Harvard students, who gave a standing ovation to the petitioners.

Identification

The petitioners, Mrs. Vanzetti and Mrs. Thayer, were present at the presentation. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. George H. Thayer, parents of the Judge.

False Propaganda of Warmakers Bared

In last week's issue the American Appeal expressed the opinion that the war with Germany was not justified. In the interest of peace and justice, the Appeal called upon all nations to make peace. The Appeal stated that the war was not justified because the war was not justified by the Treaty of Versailles. The Appeal concluded that the war was not justified by the Treaty of Paris.

The Psychological Trend to Socialism

In Six Articles

Article I

With the development of social conditions and social unrest, a new psychological trend toward Socialism is being manifested among the working class. The proletariat are finding that the traditional forms of politics and government are no longer sufficient to meet the demands of the modern world. The need for new and more effective methods of governance is becoming increasingly clear.

Article II

The need for a new psychology is also evident in the field of economic planning. The traditional methods of capitalist economics are no longer adequate to ensure a just distribution of resources and to promote the welfare of the working class.

Article III

In order to address these issues, a new psychology of Socialism is emerging. This psychology seeks to transform the existing social order and to create a society that is based on the principles of equality, justice, and compassion. It calls for a radical transformation of society, one that is characterized by a holistic approach to social, economic, and political issues.

Article IV

The psychological trend to Socialism is not only a movement of the working class, but it is also a movement of the intellectuals and the educated. These individuals are increasingly coming to recognize the limitations of the capitalist system and are seeking alternatives that are rooted in the principles of Socialism.

Article V

The psychological trend to Socialism is also finding expression in the arts and culture. Artists and writers are using their work to challenge the status quo and to promote a new vision of society that is rooted in the principles of Socialism.

Article VI

In conclusion, the psychological trend to Socialism is a significant development that has the potential to transform society. It is a movement that is grounded in the needs of the working class and is informed by a new psychology that seeks to create a society that is based on the principles of equality, justice, and compassion.
The Truth About the Real Russia of Today

War Communism and Revolution Gone, Dictatorship Passing, Socialization and Prosperity Winning

Editor's Note

F. P. Noyes, President of the Russian-American Co., writes a bit of Russian news that should interest those who would travel this world with an eye to business as well as to exploration. The news is that Russia is making progress in a way that is visible to all who look with understanding. The government has been working hard to develop the country's resources, and industry is taking shape. The country's population is increasing, and the standard of living is rising. The government is working to provide education, health care, and social services. The country is opening up to the world, and the United States is a key player in this development. Russia is no longer the backward country it once was, and the world is starting to take notice.

Farmers Reply to O. C. Parsons’ Attack on Conservative Farmers

Calls Strikes and High Wages Futhile

By C. V. Hill

The American farmers, who have been making all the right noises for the past few years about the need for higher wages, have now turned to an attack on the conservative farmers. They claim that the conservative farmers are too lazy and only care about their own profits, and that they should be taxed to support the more aggressive farmers. This is a mistake. The conservative farmers are the ones who are making the real progress in the country, and they deserve support.

Says Nationalise The Money System

By T. H. Hartwick
