NEWS AND VIEWS

How Imperialism Works in Nicaragua

Although the U.S. government has been involved in Nicaragua for many years, the recent events have brought the issue to the forefront. The U.S. government has been accused of supporting the Nicaraguan government in order to maintain its control over the country. This has led to a series of conflicts, including the Sandinista revolution. The Sandinistas, who came to power in 1979, have been accused of human rights abuses and corruption.

Alaska Reveals Old Party Politics

The Enquirer of Alaska has revealed that the old political party system is returning to the state. The Enquirer reports that the Republican Party has made significant gains in recent elections, while the Democratic Party has seen a decline in support. The Enquirer also notes that the old-style political machine is making a comeback in Alaska.

Vicious Propaganda of the Money Trust

The Wall Street Journal has denounced the tactics of the Money Trust, which it views as a threat to the stability of the economy. The Journal argues that the Money Trust uses its control over the financial system to manipulate the stock market andsbetter its position in the economy. The Journal calls for a return to the principles of free competition and the rule of law.

Deadly Parallel In Coal Settlements

The Daily Worker has reported on the dangerous working conditions in the coal mines of the West. The Worker notes that the miners are exposed to a variety of health hazards, including black lung disease and exposure to coal dust. The Worker also reports that many miners are injured or killed in accidents.

U.S. Democrat and Fascist Dictator

The New York Times has published an article criticizing the U.S. government's support for the fascist dictator of a Latin American country. The Times argues that the U.S. government is contributing to the consolidation of a fascist regime that is oppressing the people of the country.

Capitalism Shaken By Norway Election

The New York Times has reported on the impact of the recent election in Norway on the capitalist system. The Times notes that the election was won by a socialist party, which has led to a radical shift in the country's political landscape. The Times predicts that this shift will have a ripple effect on the capitalist system worldwide.

General Admits That Professional Soldier Is Menace

The New York Times has reported on the admission by a high-ranking military official that professional soldiers are a menace to society. The Times notes that the official's admission comes at a time when the military is facing criticism for its role in suppressing dissent and human rights abuses.

Order Walls and Bars On This Blank

We believe that the time has come to erect a wall and bar the entry of all subversive elements into our society. The wall and bar should be made of solid concrete and have armed guards standing by. The wall and bar should be protected by a military force that is trained and equipped to repel any attack.

What Should Be the Issues of 1928 Campaign?

A Symposium of Socialist, Labor and Liberal Thought

B. C. Cox

The three most important issues in the 1928 presidential campaign are Free Speech, Public Ownership, and the Volstead Act. The Volstead Act, which prohibition of alcohol, is a minor issue in comparison with these three. Free speech is a major issue, and the other two, while not so important, are not negligible.

In the last few years the workers have made great advances. They have won the eight-hour day, the ten-hour day, and the ten-hour night. They have won the right to collective bargaining and the right to strike. But all these gains have been made at the expense of the workers. The workers have been forced to work longer hours and longer days than ever before. The bosses have made more money than ever before.

By J. L. Talbott

The American labor movement is in a state of high tide. The workers are fighting for better wages, better hours, better conditions. The workers are fighting for the eight-hour day, the ten-hour day, the ten-hour night. The workers are fighting for the right to collective bargaining and the right to strike.
