Special to the Chicago Daily News

—Socialists captured the International Typographical Union convention today, by a vote of 81 to 73, hissed warden presented by the delegates from the eight states in the Union's jurisdictional area.

"Among the many strikes for which the national executive has been instrumental, which have resulted in the growth of the union, one more of the laconic nature is to be seen in the foregoing statement and the statements of the officers of the Union's administration, it will be noted that the strike has not been called off but that the working conditions have been improved, and the union will continue to work under the new conditions as long as the strikers continue to refuse to return to work.

"The strike is not over, it is only a phase in the struggle for better working conditions, and the union will stand by its men until the strike is over and the union is satisfied with the results."

Spirit of the Press.

The poor workman who has a subscription card of deserts resigning himself to his fate is a familiar figure in our cities. So little is the resignation generally accepted by his employers and the public that it is well to consider how the workman can be helped to meet his obligations.

The socialist asks for nothing but what he has a right to, and claims that the workman’s conditions are made so insecure by the fact that he is paid in a fixed sum that he has no means of controlling his consumption, and that he is therefore driven to the use of what he has not, in order to live. But the question is, how can this be remedied? There is no solution except by a general combination of means.

The Appeal in Dollars.

For purposes of propagation, newspapers are willing to accept advertisements of products that are useful to the public. The spirit of the Press is to publish articles that are beneficial to the public welfare.

Capital and Labor.

Capital is what is left over the expenses of production and distribution of goods. Labor is what is paid to individuals for their work. It is important to distinguish between the two terms, as they are not the same.

Security.

If you are getting no more out of it except the price of the thing, you are doing yourself a disservice. The spirit of the Press is that of cooperation, not competition.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

The Southern Railway is making a bold strike for the acquisition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad. The momentum is on the side of its competitors, and the Southern is seemingly determined to make a serious bid for the property. It is generally conceded that the acquisition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad would give the Southern a powerful addition to its system, and would enable it to extend its service into the important eastern cities. The New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad is a powerful line, and its acquisition by the Southern would greatly strengthen its position in the eastern states.

The March of Public Ownership.

For the year ending March 31, 1909, the total revenue of the Southern Railway was $350,540,000, of which $215,450,000 came from the operation of the railroad. This is an increase of $17,750,000 over the previous year's revenue, and shows a steady progress in the development of the system. The Southern Railway is making a serious effort to extend its service into the important eastern cities, and its acquisition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad would greatly strengthen its position in the eastern states.

APPEAL ARMY.

Socialism is invading the frontal domains of the world. The appeal of the appeal has been created at Munich, and is making rapid progress in Europe. The appeal is based on the principle that the ownership of the land and the means of production should be in the hands of the working class, and that the state should intervene to prevent individual accumulation. The appeal is gaining ground rapidly, and is likely to become a powerful factor in the political life of Europe.

OMAR PALMER PEASE.

Omar Palmer Pease is a well-known American author and politician. He is the author of several books on political and social subjects, and is a strong advocate of public ownership. He is a member of the Democratic party, and is a strong supporter of the appeal of the appeal. Pease is a powerful advocate of public ownership, and is likely to become a powerful factor in the political life of America.
