A SHORT-HAND TALK.

This is the big day. The day when the Appeal offers to workers in trades of ten or more, one tract to be given each week, with the conditions of reception, and the tracts received during the week, all in one box. One can easily see the advantages, both from the economic and social standpoint that this plan wou...
The price of Liberty Bonds, as a result of the higher interest rates, has fallen 30 to 35 points in the last two weeks. The market is still in a downward trend. The demand for the bonds is stronger than the supply, and the holders are looking for a better market. The bonds are still considered a safe investment, but the price has dropped significantly. The bonds are priced at 95 to 97 1/2 per cent of their face value. The interest rate is 4 3/4 per cent. The bonds are expected to remain in a downward trend until the war ends.

The stock market is in a recession. The prices of stocks have fallen significantly. The markets are not expected to recover until the war ends. The demand for stocks is weak, and the supply is strong. The prices are expected to remain low until the war ends.

The currency is strong. The dollar is valued at 4.45 francs. The currency is strong because of the high demand for dollars. The demand is strong because of the high demand for gold. The demand for gold is strong because of the high demand for dollars. The demand for dollars is strong because of the high demand for gold. The demand for gold is strong because of the high demand for dollars. The demand for dollars is strong because of the high demand for gold.
APPEAL ARMY

From the Conner-McKinley, Soud, Ltd.

Ten walls from Conner-Kibb, of Patux.

Eleven subscribes from Conner-Wall.

Conner McCarley of Bow, Wash., sends a bundle of five for a year.

One of last year’s subscribers sends a bundle of five for a year.

Our department for forwarding large orders.

Five parties from that old time agent, Anton King, of Chicago. King is in a barber shop.

Conner Wilson, of New Whinstone, Wash., sends a bundle of five for a year.

And so it goes.

Conner Baker of Greeneville, N. Y., sends a bundle of five for a year.

Bennett for 25 years.

Conner McCullough, of Chicago, thanks us for not sending them more than five for a year. He is a little bit hoarse, even if we do say so ourselves.

Conner Morgan of Manchester in the person of Mr. George White, sends a five dollar bill for twenty of these.

We hope Graham, of Livingston, Mont., sends twenty postcards from us. We didn’t want to make the mistake of sending him too many.

Bennett is in the air today, looking for a little more latitude.

One of our best subscribers, a man named Conner, sends a bundle of five for a year.

One of the gentlemen who comes from the same country, the same town, and the same street.

We have little copy in this number.

The city is full of people today, but none of them go anywhere.

Quite different from our Conner is the lady of a New York Central freight car. It’s a clear day, the sun is shining, and there is a good breeze in the air.

“Hello, how are you?” she says.

Most of these men are married and have families, and they are often away from home for long periods.

Three times a day, at odd hours, they see the sun, the moon, and the stars in the sky.

“Why this hammering at the gates of Conner?” asks the editor.

This was a saying of the old ones, who used to hammer the dresses they wore.

When you hear an elegant lady say to her husband, ‘I don’t want you to buy the newspaper!’

Instead of ‘Who has the sun to print,’ it ought to be ‘Who has ground to neighbor?’

Conner Blumenthal, in four or five of the United States, is a prominent lawyer.

There are many of these cases, but not all of them are successful.

The difference between what that Blackstone said and what Mr. Conner-Van Dyke said is one of the chief—long way back of the scenes.

Occasionally the world’s principal newspapers, appearing with an air of assured superiority, begin to write about the world’s rights. Liberty is being offered for the first time as a human right.

The rich are rebels in their extravagance.

The plain people are being made to suffer the burdens of privilege in principles of economy, and the rich are being made to suffer the burdens of the poor. In other words, the rich are being made to suffer the burdens of the people.

In this way, the rich are being made to suffer the burdens of the people.

The milk is put up in clean glass bottles, which are returned to the milk depot, where it is sold at the rate of ten cents for a bottle, which is the equivalent of ten cents for a kit dish.

The Republicans are in the midst of a full dinner pail, while the socialists offer a basket of bread, meat, shoes, and diamonds with which to feed the people. They have been joined by corrupt politicians, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republican leaders have been successful in their efforts, while the socialists have been less successful. However, the socialists have made some progress in their efforts to improve the working conditions of the people. They have been joined by some Republicans, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republicans are in the midst of a full dinner pail, while the socialists offer a basket of bread, meat, shoes, and diamonds with which to feed the people. They have been joined by corrupt politicians, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republican leaders have been successful in their efforts, while the socialists have been less successful. However, the socialists have made some progress in their efforts to improve the working conditions of the people. They have been joined by some Republicans, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republicans are in the midst of a full dinner pail, while the socialists offer a basket of bread, meat, shoes, and diamonds with which to feed the people. They have been joined by corrupt politicians, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republican leaders have been successful in their efforts, while the socialists have been less successful. However, the socialists have made some progress in their efforts to improve the working conditions of the people. They have been joined by some Republicans, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republicans are in the midst of a full dinner pail, while the socialists offer a basket of bread, meat, shoes, and diamonds with which to feed the people. They have been joined by corrupt politicians, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.

The Republican leaders have been successful in their efforts, while the socialists have been less successful. However, the socialists have made some progress in their efforts to improve the working conditions of the people. They have been joined by some Republicans, and although their efforts have been more successful, they are not as popular.