COAL MINERS, READ THIS.

The last copy of the United Press of Labor of New York has been turned over to the people in the office of the Appeal to Reason. It has been a great success and we want to use every means to make the next copy a greater success than the last.

The Appeal to Reason has been in print for more than twenty years. It has been a independent newspaper. Its publishers have never been paid for it. It has been published as a matter of public service.

But now we have a new and important problem to face. The Appeal to Reason will have to pay its way. It will have to raise a certain amount of money to keep it in circulation.

The people who subscribe to the Appeal to Reason will be able to help us in this important work. They will be able to make the Appeal to Reason a successful newspaper.

We ask you to subscribe to the Appeal to Reason. Each subscription is worth $1.00. We ask you to send us

A Defense of Private Property.

All men have a right to the things they love and cherish, and no amount of wealth can make that right pass from them to others. Property is the result of individual effort and is, therefore, the property of the individual who has acquired it. It is the right of every man to have and maintain the things which he has produced. This right is recognized by law and is enforceable. No one can take away what another man has legally acquired.

A proprietor is the owner of the property which he has acquired. He has the right to use, enjoy, and dispose of it as he sees fit. He is free to use it for his own benefit and to pass it on to his heirs. He is free to sell or exchange it with others. He is free to use it as he sees fit.

The right of private property is the foundation of all civilization. It is the basis of all social organization. It is the foundation of all the institutions of society. It is the foundation of all the laws of the land. It is the foundation of all the rights of man.
