MILITARY despotism cannot stand the light of publicity. It works in the dark. It crawls in the slime of oppression and fears its shadow as a thief in the night.

When the story of the "Colorado Bull Pen" appeared in the Appeal, with all the frills trimmed off, making public the naked truth, there was consternation in the ranks of the politicians and would-be military heroes. A consultation was hastily called and an order was sent forth to investigate all packages of the Appeal which came to Colorado. Complaints have been coming to the Appeal from Colorado and Utah of the non-arrival of the papers ordered by comrades. The Appeal was at a loss to know the reason for this, but surmised that the papers had been held up by these Russianized soldiers of the Rockefeller dynasty. Not until the order was received were we furnished with proof positive that the authorities in that state had disregarded every moral and civil law in the land.

The connection between the two articles reprinted on this page is clearly apparent. Rockefeller and the republican politicians, in order to imitate the democratic tactics of Clark in Montana, attach it to the old kinship of politics, forever the possibility of the election of a Socialist governor. It would not suit their purpose. "Peabody, or a man like him, must sit on the throne."

The Appeal must not be permitted to circulate in Colorado!

This is the word which comes from a plutocratic sheet on the ground. If you had no evidence of its truth, the action of the military authorities in ordering the postal department to suppress the Appeal is enough.

We are rapidly approaching the dissolution of the capitalist system—this is plain to any student. It is becoming apparent to the beneficiaries of this game of grab, and they propose to perpetuate its existence as long as possible.

In doing this they are doing the things which will hasten its end.

When the working class of America realizes to what lengths these aspiring plutocrats are going in their nefarious work, the social revolution will not be far off. It was for the purpose of keeping them in darkness that a military press censor was established in Colorado, and during all the months of struggle no word reached the outside world, except that which leaked past the authorities, until the Appeal's staff correspondent entered the state. The Appeal, through the Army of last redoubled of capitalism has been buried.

The appeal cannot fight alone. It must have the co-operation of every Socialist in America, and it should have the co-operation of every Socialist paper also. There's five years more fight in the old man, and he is with you until the last.

The hopes and aspirations of twelve years of struggle and trial seem soon to be realized. The Appeal in the past has carried many messengers of hope and cheer to the toilers of America—but I tell you comrades, that never have we been so near to the realization of our object as we are today.

We have but one hope, but one object in life—to arouse the sleeping proletariat to a realization that they alone hold the power to free themselves from the thrall of capitalism. You have never failed and you will not, now that the hour strikes for action!

Let us have your word of encouragement, and your assurance that you will carry the news to the remotest hamlet of the land! It means victory! It means success! It means Socialism and the establishment of the co-operative community.

IS A CRISIS approaches?

LAST fall, a man who has the reputation of being one of the worst of the several bosses who have been in the pig iron business in recent years—Mr. C. L. Applegate—announced that he was going to close his plant. This announcement was made just as the pig iron business was going through what everyone considered to be a very tough time. The pig iron business was in the midst of a depression and its prospects for the future were not very bright. Mr. Applegate, who had been in the pig iron business for many years, had been very successful in making a lot of money, but now he saw that the future of the business was not very bright and he therefore decided to close his plant.

The announcement of Mr. Applegate's closing was a very serious blow to the pig iron industry. It was the first time in many years that a large plant had been closed down and it was a very sad day for the industry. The workers who were employed in the plant were very distressed and they were very concerned about their future. The owners and managers of other pig iron plants were also very concerned about the future of the industry. They were very worried about how they were going to keep their own plants open and how they were going to keep their own employees from losing their jobs.

The pig iron industry was in a very tough spot. It was the first time in many years that the business had been in such a depression. The demand for pig iron was very low and the prices were very low. It was very difficult for the industry to make a profit. The owners and managers of the plants were very worried about how they were going to keep their plants open and how they were going to keep their employees from losing their jobs.
