STEPPIING FORWARD.

There is a great deal of sorrow in the world today. It is not easy to bear. It is not easy to understand. It is not easy to love. But there is hope. There is hope for a better tomorrow.

ADJUSTING SOCIETY THROUGH THE REFORMATION OF INDIVIDUALS.

The working men and women must stand together. They must fight for their rights. They must fight for their homes. They must fight for their children. They must fight for their future.

ONE CAN'T UNDERSTAND SOCIALISM WITHOUT UNDERSTANDING THE NEEDS OF THE PEOPLE.

The real need is for a new society, a society in which the workers control the means of production and distribution. A society in which the profits are shared by all.

THE REAL VS. THE COUNTERFAKE.

A reader of the Appeal wrote to me recently, saying: "The Appeal is a fine paper. I read it every day. But I disagree with you on this point..." I replied: "I disagree with you on this point."

SOCIALISM AS A LIVE ISSUE.

With a suddenness that must be startling to those who do not see the danger, Socialism is becoming a factor in our moral, political, and industrial life. The Socialist vote for president last fall attracted a good deal of attention, but it was no measure of the importance of the Socialist movement. And year by year, as science compels consolidations and co-operations on a larger scale, and as the public gets used to the idea of a socialized society, the Socialist vote will increase...."

MISSIONARY MOTIVES.
First Publication of Rockefeller’s Private Secretary’s Letter Detailing Argument for Aid to Foreign Missions.

Boston, April 17.—The motive which lay back of John D. Rockefeller’s $800,000 gift to the Congregational church has been so widely discussed and criticized that Secretary Barton, of the Mission Board, has secured from F. H. Gates, confidential secretary of Rockefeller, a copy of the letter which he (Gates) wrote to Barton explaining the letter of Secretary Barton, presenting special needs of the highest educational institutions and the public work of the board. This was not written with the expectation that any of the ideas would be used, but it was a chance for Rockefeller himself.

Gates wrote: “I have had long interviews with Dr. Barton, and we have examined each other’s position and the result is that the money we had been prepared to expend in the socialistic field will be used as a means of spreading the gospel of Christianity and civilization among the heathen. The missionaries who go to the heathen, who have the privilege of doing this work, will therefore be able to do it with the money we have given them.”

$175,000,000 a year. Five per cent of that sum would amount to $10,000,000, which would be sufficient to maintain the missionary work of the Congregational church. The Congregational church has received from Rockefeller $800,000 for the purpose of spreading Christianity and civilization.

"Bobby Creek.""

There is a story in Chicago that a man who was engaged in the wholesale grocery business in that city was ailing and that he had to be taken to the hospital. The man was a friend of the doctor and the doctor gave him a bottle of medicine. The man had never heard of the medicine and asked the doctor what it was for. The doctor said it was for the "Bobby Creek." The man asked what the "Bobby Creek" was and the doctor said it was a disease that was common in the city.

"I don’t like anybody who likes me. I don’t care who likes me."

The doctor said that the "Bobby Creek" was a disease that was common in the city and that it was caused by the eating of too much bread. The man asked what the cure was and the doctor said that the cure was to eat less bread.
