A TRIP THOUGH HELL

From "Harper's Weekly" of Nov. 28, 1863.

And I said, "The men who come over these plains, have to pay a heavy toll for the privilege." They have to pay the price of their own lives. They have to pay the price of their own freedom. They have to pay the price of their own souls.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.

And all the men and women were weeping. They had been through it all. They had been through the long, hot summer days. They had been through the cold, wet winter nights. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the war. They had been through the trials and tribulations of the days of peace.
A FARM FOR TEN HOURS' WORK.

To secure a satisfactory return on the investment of time which the farmer must give to his crop, it is important to know the best way to make use of the time available. The ideal farm would be one where the farmer could work on his farm for ten hours a day and still have enough time left over to attend to his family and other affairs. This is not possible in practice, but with careful planning and efficient use of time, it is possible to come close to this ideal.

ARMY NOTES.

There are no more infectious diseases left in the world. In 1986, the U.S. Army Dr. John H. Nagle, of the Medical Corps, was in charge of a group of scientists who worked on a new vaccine that was developed. The vaccine was successful in eliminating smallpox, which had been prevalent in the army since the 19th century.

ECHOES ALONG THE WAY.

The annual meeting of the American Railway Association was held in Chicago last week. A number of important railroad projects were discussed, including the proposed extension of the Chicago and North Western Railway to the west.

THINGS 'LL BE DIFFERENT UNDER SOCIALISM.

Under socialism, the working class will have more say in the running of society. They will have a voice in the decisions that affect their lives, and they will be able to participate in the management of the economy.

Two years ago the island of Cuba was invaded by the United States. The invasion was successful, and the Cuban government was overthrown.

$100,000 CASH Prizes

For each of the following categories, the first prize is $100,000. Second prize is $50,000 and third prize is $25,000.

DR. THOMAS DUGAN, M.D.

“The Change-Odor” by Oscar Loy, published in the March issue of the Journal of Psychology, discusses the effects of odor on behavior. The study was conducted at the University of Chicago and involved 100 participants.

THE JUTLAND.

A recent issue of the Journal of Marine Science contains an article by J. H. B. Clark, of the University of California, on the Jutland, a British submarine. The Jutland was the last of the class of submarine that was built for the Royal Navy.

THE INDEPENDENT FARMER.

The Independent Farmer magazine publishes articles on farming and agriculture. The magazine is published monthly and is available for subscription. The next issue will be published in November.

CONTEMPORARY LITERATURE.

Contemporary Literature is a quarterly journal that publishes articles on contemporary literature. The journal is published by the American University of Paris.

THE NUTRITIO NEWS.

By John G. Gage, U.S. A.

If your grocer does not handle NUTRITIO we will supply you direct at 50 per cent off—four 25-cent packages for one dollar.

THE GAZETTE.

For each of the following categories, the first prize is $10,000. Second prize is $5,000 and third prize is $2,500.