A Vision of the Future

WHEN I look at the ferment of this issue social unrest, when I see its corruption, bribery, oppression, injustice, suffering, starvation, want, wanton destruction of wealth, I see that the menace apparently lies deep in the meaning of their condition or in what they are tending; when I see the little businessman growing weaker as the great man grows stronger; when I see the fruits falling off the tree; when I see the victims slowly but surely streaming before the law; when I see the voter losing his right to the ballot, the ballot to the ballot; when I see the courts more and more becoming tools for the rich, while the poor are helpless before the law; when I see the voter losing his right to the ballot, the ballot to the ballot; when I see the courts more and more becoming tools for the rich, while the poor are helpless before the law; when, in short, when I see theocracy taking the place of democracy, I am filled with horror.

I have looked over this problem, and I have concluded that the means of that problem are threefold:

1. The people are the armed mass of the proletariat, and there is a vast army of workers who can be mustered to bear arms in the cause of the working class.
2. The government must be controlled by the working class.
3. The working class must control the state.

I have seen that the way to victory lies in the organization of the working class, and I have concluded that the means of victory are threefold:

1. The workers should unite in a single class organization.
2. The government must be controlled by the working class.
3. The working class must control the state.

POLICE CAUSE RIOT
Brutally Charge Through Streets Clubbing Women and Children.

In Hamilton, Ontario, Canada, a crowd of women and children was brutally charged by the police on Saturday, December 9th. The women and children were protesting against the closure of a local club that had been serving as a refuge for workers' families. The police entered the club and clubbed the women and children, who were seen fleeing the club in panic.

MORAL PANICISM

The statement by Miss Gilda Y., a prominent suffragette, that she plans to continue her protests until she is arrested, has caused a sensation in the city. Miss Y. stated that she is willing to suffer for her convictions, and that she will continue to fight for women's rights until the right to vote is won.

JURES ON SOCIALISM

Juries from the Socialist League's Great Speech Tent were seen in the French Quarter of Detroit, Michigan. The juries are preparing to hear a case involving the right to strike, and their presence is seen as a sign of the growing influence of the Socialist League.

SHARKS MEET AND REMEMBER

The following resolutions drafted abroad were adopted at the meeting of the Sharks held last week, and are expected to be adopted by the local chapter.

1. That we demand the immediate release of all political prisoners.
2. That we demand the immediate implementation of the 8-hour day.
3. That we demand the immediate abolition of child labor.

WOOD HOLLOW ON "HUNGERUP"

They resist us with "hunger up," we resist them with "hunger down." The idea has been put to us by the leftists in this country that there is a class struggle between the rich and the poor, and that this struggle can be resolved by the overthrow of the capitalist system.

PREDICTION BY PEARCE

Pearce, a prominent labor leader, has predicted that the coming year will bring a new era of social reform. He believes that the working class will continue to press for reforms, and that the government will be forced to respond to their demands.

FREE COMPETITION

"Free competition is the key to economic progress," said the President of the National Federation of Labor. He believes that free competition will ensure that wages and prices are fair, and that workers will be able to support themselves.

SOCIALISM IN COLORADO

Socialism is gaining ground in Colorado, with several socialist organizations active in the state. The Social Democratic Party has been particularly active, and has been working to build support for its program of social reform.

A Letter From the Appeal

"We are here," said the Appeal, "to speak for the voiceless. We will fight for the rights of all workers, and we will not be intimidated by the power of the rich."

American History for the Workers.

A Civilization Founded on Lying.

In the days of the old-time English, when monarchy was recognized to be a sacred institution, it was the custom for the king to ride through the streets of London on a white horse. He was expected to be received with awe and respect by the people. But in recent years, since the English people have become more enlightened, this custom has been abolished.

No Action by Supreme Court.

In the case of Jones v. Smith, the United States Supreme Court did not take any action. The case was appealed to the Supreme Court, but they refused to hear it.
